Action May Steal Lawsuit's Thunder

Dunne Reassigns Tax Revenue To Sheriffs Dept.

by ROGER CAPETTINI

A major factor in the law suit challenging the Cook County wheel tax may have been eliminated from future consideration Friday when County Pres. George W. Dunne announced the revenue from the tax would be earmarked for the sheriff's department.

Dunne made the announcement during a rescheduled county board meeting Friday after the board heard the protests of a taxpayers group opposed to the controversial tax.

About 75 county residents from Rich, Bloom, Thornton and Bremen townships, represented by the South Cook County Taxpayers Protest Association, appeared at the meeting.

The wheel tax, enacted by the county board in late December, is similar to what is commonly called the "vehicle sticker" tax in 125 of the 126 villages and cities in Cook County.

THE TAX originally was to have taken effect early in the year, but the deadline was extended several times by the county board. For most automobiles, the tax would be $10 to $15. Rates for trucks are computed on a sliding scale.

As the vehicle tax effective within the incorporated municipalities applies to only residents of the respective communities, the Cook County tax applies only to residents of unincorporated areas.

That aspect of the tax represents a major objection voiced by residents of the unincorporated areas, and is one of the major points raised in a class action suit challenging the tax ordinance.

In April a suit was filed on behalf of the Prospect Heights Improvement Association (PHIA) and the Cook County School Bus Co., Inc., of unincorporated Elk Grove Township.

The suit challenges the constitutionality of the tax in that the tax applies only to residents of unincorporated areas — a discriminatory application, according to the suit.

THOSE OPPOSED to the tax have also objected on the grounds that when the tax was adopted by the county board, it was specified that the revenues gained from the tax would be placed into the county's general corporate fund. Monies in that fund are used county-wide — both in incorporated and unincorporated areas.

At the time of adoption, County Comr. Floyd T. Fulle of Des Plaines voted against the tax because he said he believed placing the revenue in the corporate fund was unconstitutional.

At Friday's board meeting, Dunne heard objections to the tax from several spokesmen from the south suburban protest group, who repeated the objections mentioned in the suit and complained about the lack of services they receive. The complaints centered on the service from the county highway department and the sheriff's department.

Spokesmen for the group said they were not completely opposed to the tax, but said if it stands, it should be applied to everyone in the county and the revenue derived should be used only for the unincorporated areas. They also objected to the amount of the tax.

In answer to their objections Dunne said he would instruct the county comptroller to establish a special fund for the money gained from the tax. Dunne said the money will be earmarked exclusively for the sheriff's department.

THE COUNTY board president said that while original estimates of the revenues from the tax approximated $1.4 million, latest calculations indicate the county will receive only about $600,000.

Dunne was quick to point out that because of the suit, all revenues currently being received as a result of the tax are being placed into an escrow account, pending the outcome of the pending litigation.

Dunne explained that if the tax is upheld by the county circuit court, the money will be placed in the special account. If the tax ordinance is ruled illegal, he said, the money will be returned to those residents who have paid the tax. He could offer no explanation as to what, if any, effect an overturning of the ordinance might have on persons who have been fined for not paying the tax.

Dunne's decision to earmark the funds for use only in unincorporated areas could have a significant effect on the court case. The only major question that would remain to be answered apparently would be that of determining if the county legally can apply a tax to certain geographic segments of its jurisdiction.

EDWARD BERMAN, the attorney representing the PHIA in the suit, said Friday Dunne's decision "may change the case." Berman, when told of the announcement by the Herald, said, "I am pleasantly surprised by this new revelation." He added, however, "Whether Dunne can do this retroactively, I don't know."

The suit challenging the tax is scheduled to resume July 21 in Judge Raymond S. Sarnow's courtroom at the Civic Center.

A RUSTED APPLE peeler may not be a priceless antique, but Rev. John Sternberg believes it helps to preserve the culture and heritage of Schaumburg Township.

Golfers Are Hazard, Say Homeowners

A Hoffman Estates couple, fearing for the safety of their children, told the park district commissioners that golfers' drives have been striking their home.

The couple, Mr. and Mrs. George Lauer of 118 Grand Canyon Pkwy., do not live next to a golf course, but the Hoffman Park.

Several times a week, they said, golf balls come crashing onto their property.

"Once my daughters were sitting outside just minutes before a golf ball hit a tree a few feet away," Mrs. Lauer told the board.

Park officials admitted the problem constituted a hazard, but said it is a difficult area to control. The Lauers agreed, and admitted they had not been able to spot the golfers at the time of the incidents.

THEY ALSO said efforts by police have not proved successful either.

The park district reactivated their police committee to meet with authorities in an effort to improve surveillance of the parks. Park Dir. Al Binder will meet with police to discuss the problem.

Tom Barber, park board pres., said the use of regulation golf balls in the parks constitute a hazard and asked area residents refrain from using golf balls in the parks. He did not, however, prohibit the use of light, practice balls.

3-Car Tollway Crash Kills Woman, Hurts 9

A three-car head-on collision on the Northwest Tollway in Schaumburg took the life of a Streamwood woman and injured nine others, including eight members of one family, Friday morning.

Illinois State Police said Mrs. Ruth Stogenson, 36, of 135 Cedar Circle, was pronounced dead on arrival at Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights.

The driver of the second car, Mark Peterschmidt, 37, of Cincinnati, Ohio, was reported in good condition yesterday at Northwest Community Hospital.

His wife, Joan, 35, remains in serious condition in the intensive care unit of the hospital.

Other members of the family hospitalized include Molly, 10; Nora, 8; Matthew, 6, and Luke, 2. All are reported in satisfactory condition.

Two other members of the family, Monica, 12, and Amy, 9, were treated and released. The driver of the third car, Peter Bury, 44, of 1587 Brandon, Glenview, also was treated and released.

Police said the car driven by Mrs. Stogenson apparently went out of control in the eastbound express lanes of the tollway just west of Rt. 53, crossed the median and struck the Peterschmidt car.

The vehicle also slammed into Bury's car before striking a light pole and stopping.

Pastor Values Farm Remnants

by MARY HUTCHINGS

A lot of junk on its way to the garbage heap has taken a slight detour through the Rev. John Sternberg's basement.

Ten years ago, the pastor of St. Peter Lutheran Church, Schaumburg, began to see a value in the remnants of the township's former farm life.

Interest led to effort, and the result is a collection of nearly 400 artifacts scavenged from attics and basements of farmers and older area residents who sold their land for developments which make up the burgeoning villages of the township.

In 1963, with the permission of his congregation, and the contributions of volunteer help, the pastor opened a small museum in what was the first Lutheran Church here, located on Easy St., (now more familiarly known as Schaumburg Road).

THOUGH THE white frame church served as school, meeting room and finally shed, before it became a museum, it is now being renovated. A new foundation, roof, wall board and paint job plus electricity and gas heating, should have the museum ready in September to be the final resting place of the items Sternberg has so patiently collected over the years.

He started the project because he wanted "to save something of the culture and heritage of parents and grandparents who lived here years before," he said.

Until its closing last September for remodeling, the museum hosted 2,000 to 3,000 school children annually on field trips through the past.

"There are better and bigger museums," the pastor said, "but this is the only one that is in this community, not some other one."

What is the monetary value of old weddling dresses made of the traditional Lutheran black? Or of the hand pre-push button appliances of yesteryear — the rusted apple peeler, sausage makers, and skirt pleaters?

WHAT IS Madam Lang's Perfected Nurser worth today? Even though he knows the antique market is more than healthy, Sternberg doesn't know, nor does he care. "I don't buy or sell, I just show," he said.

Some items of course are of sentimental value to descendants of the first settlers here. The original baptismal font from St. Peter's. Flowers form the original altar preserved in a glass globe. The original ballot box used in Schaumburg Township.

The list of artifacts is endless, and offers a lot of gadgets it seems someone should manufacture today. Think of the market for a boot jack, that makes removal of tight shoes or boots easy... or for an exercise bicycle that incidentally also sharpens knives.

Foot warmers and bed warmers may be out of date in today's more comfortable society, but they were certainly a necessity of life then.

GLASS EGGS will also be on display at the new museum, but though now only knick-knacks, they once were functional. Sternberg explains the large ones were used for darning, while the average-egg size ones were placed in nests so the chickens would know where to lay her eggs.

Other items in the pastor's collection include an old tin bathtub, a pipe organ pipe, a pegged log showing how the first buildings here were built, a tub of lye, a 100 year old cradle and a host of farm implements long since outmoded.

"Someone has to try and save some of these things," the pastor says, and judging by the collection in his basement, the new museum has a good start.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

Democratic national chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien ruled that 120 California delegates committed to Sen. George S. McGovern will be eligible to vote in a key test that could determine McGovern's chances for the nomination... After the party's credentials committee stripped McGovern of 151 of the 271 California votes he won in the state's winner-take-all primary, there had been some question whether anyone from a challenged delegation would be able to vote on a challenge involving his state.

Armed with about 200 "swing" votes, Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine came under growing pressure to throw his support to Sen. George McGovern in tonight's all-important convention showdown over California.

Responding to a list of foreign policy questions, McGovern said he believes that President Nixon will continue the same policies that led to U.S. involvement in Vietnam even if he succeeds in ending the Indochina War.

The trial of Daniel Ellsberg and code-fendant Anthony J. Russo opens today in the Pentagon Papers case after weeks of pretrial maneuvering. Jury selection is expected to last at least a week.

Scientists and amateur astronomers will be watching today as a total eclipse darkens the sun from Siberia east along a narrow strip of northern Alaska and Canada to the Atlantic Ocean. In the rest of the U.S. the eclipse will range from 90 per cent total in Boston to 14 per cent total in San Francisco.

Study Made By Chicago Public Works Dept.

O'Hare Underground Transit Plan Seen

Major airlines operating from O'Hare Airport have been presented with a plan for construction of a $60 million underground transit system around the airport.

The preliminary plan and study was done by the City of Chicago's Public Works Department officials, who said the underground transportation system is necessary to accommodate an increasing number of passengers who must travel long distances to transfer flights.

"It would be a people mover," said

Marshall Suloway of the department's bureau of engineering. He said passengers sometimes required to walk a mile to change airplanes at O'Hare.

Under the proposed system, the transit network would extend from airline concourses to the parking lots and connect with the Chicago Transit Authority (CTA) lines which would be extended to the airport.

"We will continue the CTA from Jefferson Park," Suloway said, along the Kennedy Expressway extension to the airport. The City of Chicago anticipates about two thirds of the cost of the facility may be paid by the federal government with the remaining monies provided by the airlines.

Suloway said the transit network would be solely on the city's property at the airport and would not extend through any of the surrounding suburbs. The rail lines also would run on the city right-of-way from the Kennedy Expressway to the airport.

Chicago Business

Found To Be Strong

The business survey conducted for May by the Purchasing Management Association of Chicago reveals the status of business to be steady and strong. Only 6 per cent lower production compared to 14 per cent in May 1971.

Fifty-eight per cent report more new orders compared to 34 per cent a year ago. This is an increase of 4 per cent over April and a 24 per cent increase over May of 1971.

The number of companies increasing employment is the highest since March, 1968.

The backlog of orders shows renewed vigor, with 48 per cent showing increases compared to 28 per cent a year ago.

Inventory buildup reveals controlled growth with 38 per cent reporting larger inventories compared to 23 per cent back in January, 1972.

Profit picture is bright following a first quarter surge. Prices continue to reflect increases and deliveries are far from satisfactory, with 27 per cent slower compared to only 20 per cent slower in May, 1971.

Harper President

On Advisory Council

Robert E. Lahti, president of Harper College in Palatine, has been appointed to serve on the advisory council of presidents of the Association of Governing Boards of Universities and Colleges (AGB).

The AGB represents more than 260 governing boards of public and private institutions of higher education, serving over two million students. It is the only organization within American higher education concerned primarily with problems and responsibilities of trusteeship.

In 1968, Harper's board of trustees was one of the first of two such bodies from junior colleges to be admitted to membership by the AGB. In 1969, Lahti was the first junior college president named to the Advisory Council of Presidents, serving until April, 1970.

Real Dollar Differences Are Good Reasons To Change

You've worked hard to get money ahead, so demand more from your money. We commit our multi-million dollar resources to helping the serious saver with a comfortable alternative, free from constant management and risk.

By law, we're different from commercial banks. Real differences! And these differences are most clear where it counts—in the interest paid to you.

In One Year You'll See The Difference

We can pay up to 5% on regular passbook accounts, and up to 6% on savings certificates—higher maximum rates on these accounts than commercial banks pay for comparable balance requirements. And you're protected by the same $20,000 Federal Agency guarantee of safety on each account.

Investing in a risk-free, two-year certificate for the full-term, you'll earn $309 per year on a $5,000 deposit—or $1,236 on a $20,000 deposit.

It's A Quality Approach

Compare premiums, for example. At the Un-bank, customers participate in a new and unique premium program offering substantial discounts on quality merchandise.

And we make it easy to save. Unlike the loop banks, we're open Friday night and Saturday, when you need us. With our fast-service drive-in windows only minutes from your home, you can save yourself time.

Call or write us for further information and for a list of our current premium offers. Shop for real differences. And then come to the Un-bank.

Between the Lines

It's 'Hats Off And Helmets On'

by STEVE NOVICK

It's "hats off and helmets on" time.

Hat's off to the Schaumburg Township Independence Day Committee who year after year outdo themselves in planning a Fourth of July gala for our community.

This year's event, with its great parade, had an atmosphere that left this observer with a particularly good feeling. I always have in the back of my head that there are a lot of people in our country who have good reason to feel left out of the joys our area can feel when "the good life" in the United States is recognized.

But, this year I was overwhelmed by the local spirit. Everyone around Illinois Boulevard, there to participate and watch, seemed to have a sense of goodwill toward his neighbor.

THERE WAS a "behavioral pattern" among the crowd that would put sociologists out of business if we could learn to relate to people outside our community the way we related to each other last Tuesday.

Yet no day is perfect: and with helmets on a lambasting is in order for the youths who set off a firecracker injuring Mrs. Marilyn Garrou. Debris from the firecracker caused a puncture wound in the woman's eye lid. I'd hate to predict what a difference another fraction of an inch would have made between the flying debris and the eye injury Mrs. Garrou might have suffered.

It's amazing, with all the cautions publicized about fireworks, that someone would still be foolish enough to set off a firecracker near a crowd.

The question of safety and fireworks struck everyone who read about the tragic death and injuries in nearby Wauconda.

FIRE CHIEF Carl Selke of Hoffman Estates said precautions for the annual fire work display are adequate.

Precautions are:

—The fireworks are stored in a van truck away from the area where individual pieces are set off.

—The entire area where the fire works are kept and lit is fenced off a safe distance from the crowd.

—People who handle the fireworks are trained professionals provided by the firm from whom the supplies are purchased.

—Fire district personnel and equipment are stationed in strategic areas with equipment needed to handle sparks falling near by.

With hats and helmets set aside for awhile we can sit back and look forward to the next community gala. But, a better idea would be to become active in planning these events, a step that makes a day like "The Fourth" a little more meaningful.

WORK CONTINUES at the Arlington Indoor Tennis Club in Palatine, owned by Jordan H. Kaiser, who also has principal interest in the new Chicago Cougars of the World Hockey Association (WHA). The Arlington indoor facility is the first of what Kaiser calls "a supermarket of sports" where various sporting events are played under a single roof.

Eisenhower Junior High Observatory Addition OK'd

The addition of an astronomy observatory to the new Eisenhower Junior High School under construction at Hassell and Jones roads in Hoffman Estates won Schaumburg Township Board of Education approval Thursday.

Board members approved an additional $20,000 expenditure for construction of the roof dome. This is part of $112,551 of additional expenditures the board approved for Eisenhower that were not included in the original base contract.

Marvin Lapirola, district business manager, said the $20,000 estimate is high and that actual construction costs should be much lower.

Bids for construction of Eisenhower came in $250,000 low because board members held back on some additions, said Donnie Rudd, board member. The observatory was one of those items dropped and reconsidered when the funds were available, Rudd added.

AT PRESENT the district is teaching a summer school astronomy class to junior high school students.

The observatory will be available to all classes in Dist. 34, however, primary use would come from junior high school science classes. Third grade classes studying beginning astronomy, intermediate classes and summer school classes.

High School Dist. 211 classes will also have the opportunity to use the facility.

The observatory may also be available to the public for evening use.

Other improvements to Eisenhower are:

—Face brick in lieu of painted block masonry on all interior wall areas at a cost of $19,975.

—Quarry tile in lieu of vinyl asbestos in washrooms for an additional $4,439, and changes in the floor covering of some rooms for an added expenditure of $5,910.

—Construction of four additional canopies and approximately 1,000 square feet of additional sidewalk and 45 linear feet of extra screen wall at the front entrance for a $11,813 cost.

—Approval of a $15,700 expense for stage lighting with a dimmer control panel, $7,000 for pole lighting, and $2,714 for additional stone parking area construction.

Landscaping the front lot area will cost an extra $25,000.

In other actions the board included entering into contract with Egyptian Construction Co. to build the Adolph Link School for $720,675. General construction will cost $183,514, electrical work by the Loyola Electrical Construction Co. will be done for $74,433; heating, ventilating and air-conditioning by V. A. Smith Co. for $119,650 and the plumbing by Stoneman Plumbing Corp. for $43,078.

Kaiser Eyes Northwest Suburban Area

by DOUG RAY

There he sat in a makeshift house trailer on the Zayre parking lot in Palatine, the man who holds the purse strings of Chicago's newest professional hockey franchise — the Chicago Cougars of the World Hockey Association (WHA).

Between sips of coffee from a styrofoam cup, financier Jordan H. Kaiser talked about his newly developed interest in hockey as well as his perennial love of tennis, which may be dearer to his heart if not his pocketbook.

"Tennis is in its infancy," he said. "The game is losing some of the white-glove, country club image," helping it to gain acceptance by a broader public.

The 49-year-old former engineer is banking on the upsurge of the sport. Already under construction on Northwest Highway across from Arlington Park Race Track is the Kaiser-owned Arlington Indoor Tennis Club, with other similar projects for the Chicago area and throughout the state on the drawing board.

Jordan
Kaiser

"TELEVISION HAS made the sport... you can see professional and amateurs now, and families are beginning to play the game as a group year round," he added.

Kaiser has what he calls a "supermarket of sports" under consideration in the suburbs to allow persons to participate in several sporting events in the same building. The Arlington Indoor Tennis Club and its related roller rink and ice rink is the pilot endeavor. All the facilities will be under a single roof.

"It's like a car dealer," he said, where if you want to buy a car the dealers are on the same street. You have the convenience of parking and shopping in the same general area.

The Arlington Indoor Tennis Club courts will be air conditioned for year-round use.

"When people learn about a sport, they want to participate all the time," he said.

The avid interest in sports led Kaiser into the financial deal which made him the principal owner of the Chicago Cougars hockey team. The team will play its first games at the Amphitheater in Chicago this fall under a two-year lease.

"I didn't know too much about hockey," the Glencoe resident admits. "But this Chicago franchise is the key to the new league." He said the team nearly moved to San Francisco until he provided stable financing to the franchise.

"WE'RE INTO the new league for the long haul," he continued. He called the finances of the team's owners "unlimited."

Several years ago Kaiser held interests in bowling alleys in Chicago, but sold out when he felt the game was losing its following. He then began to construct apartment buildings in the suburbs, as well as shopping centers in Palatine and Rolling Meadows.

The Zayre parking lot and discount store is owned by Kaiser. His firm constructed the shopping center south of Kirchoff Road in downtown Rolling Meadows.

His endeavor into tennis courts and related sports under the same roof is appropriately named Sports Centers International, and "the purpose is to provide a total sports package," he said.

AND IF THE total sports package becomes a reality, local residents may look forward to a hockey stadium for Kaiser's Cougars somewhere in the Northwest suburbs. He owns various parcels of land here.

But just north of the trailer from which Kaiser spoke, there is a vacant lot which he owns, a lot large enough for a giant hockey arena.

Residents 'Shell-Shocked'

A Report From Rapid City

A personal report from the flood-stricken regions of South Dakota, especially those areas around Rapid City, indicates residents are still shell-shocked from the June disaster.

The observation comes from the Rev. Jim Berndt, Hoffman Estates. Rev. Berndt, his wife, Marlene and son Bruce, went to South Dakota to assist the stricken residents and also to conduct "drive-in" religious services in Spearfish, S.D. on Sunday mornings. The services are held from 9:45 a.m. to 11 a.m. between July 9 and Aug. 13.

"Now that the shock of the flood is over, the most difficult days may be ahead for many people who are now becoming very depressed," Rev. Berndt said.

HE SAID the "Cables spent the night on a neighbor's roof with their dog, 'Twinkle', to save their lives, hoping and praying the house they were on would not give way as many houses did break away from their foundations and take their foundations and their families to destruction.

"Mr. Cable told how the lightning would streak across the sky and he and his wife would see bodies, pets, houses, cars and all manner of debris floating by them."

Rev. Berndt said the Salvation Army has been quite effective in lending aid and comfort to the homeless residents.

He said all roads leading to the Black Hills are open and interested tourists need not fear visiting this summer.

Chicago Bank Is Low Bidder

OK $2.25 Million Bond Sale

Schaumburg Township Board of Education members Thursday approved the sale of $2.25 million in bonds to the First National Bank of Chicago, low bidder at an interest rate of 4.99 per cent.

Marvin Lapirola business manager for the district said the bid was good in today's market. This bond sale is part of a $7.25 million bond referendum approved by Dist. 54 voters in October, 1970.

The bond issue will pay $1,800,000 construction costs on the John Muir School in Hoffman Estates and projects approved in a four year building program in October of 1970.

LAPICOLA REPORTING on the current status of the four year program that totalled expected expenditures of $7,135,000 said work on the Hanover Highlands addition is completed.

The new Eisenhower Junior High School construction is proceeding on schedule.

Additions to the Jane Addams, Robert Frost, and Helen Keller Junior High School are mostly in the home economics and industrial arts sections. Estimated cost for the additions is $450,000 but Lapirola said this figure may be recalculated if Frost is fully air-conditioned.

In related action, Board Pres. Mrs. Diane Hart asked board members to accompany her on tour of Twinbrook, Fairview and Hoffman schools at 8 p.m. July 8. These older schools in the district may need remodeling, said Mrs. Hart, who wants board members to have a first hand look at the schools before considering such action.

Board members also agreed to pay $3,750 to Harland and Bartholomew and Association to prepare a master school site plan. Mrs. Hart explained the committee has completed its data collection and now needs a professional planner.

HARLAND AND Bartholomew will reduce the aerial mosaic of the school district on which the committee has plotted zoning, and identify future growth areas. The master plan will be printed in booklet form with all available information. It will be used as a legal tool to show villages in the district where and why school sites must be located, said board member Donnie Rudd.

He said the plan will be a valuable aid when the district attends zoning hearings and will clearly show developers that the district is not just guessing at its needs.

Reveal Harper Disagreement On Dinner Meeting Issue

by BETSY BROOKER

A Herald survey revealed Harper College trustees disagree on the content and legality of unannounced dinner meetings held prior to regularly scheduled board meetings.

The dinner meeting are held at the college on an irregular basis. College sources report attendance at the dinner meetings is sporadic.

Several trustees contend the dinner meetings were held only to discuss items legally permissible in closed session. One trustee stated public business has never been discussed at a dinner session and two others claimed the sessions covered both open and closed topics.

THE TRUSTEES also disagree on their right to hold an executive session or committee meeting without giving the public 24-hour notice.

The Illinois Open Meeting Law states all meetings of school boards shall be public, with certain exceptions, and that notice shall be given at least 24 hours before the meeting.

The law permits school boards to hold closed sessions only for discussion of matters regarding: "collective negotiations; acquisition of property; appointment, employment or dismissal of an employee; student discipline or professional ethics and performance." No final action may be taken in closed sessions.

The five trustees interviewed said they did not knowingly violate the Illinois Open Meeting Law. Most take the position that discussion of "closed items" exempts them from any legal violation, although the meetings were unannounced.

BOTH MILTON Hansen, past board president, and trustee Joseph Morton said they believe the dinner sessions were restricted to "closed items," but they are not certain. However, Eugene Nugent said he doesn't "recall ever discussing public business at a dinner meeting."

According to present board President Jessalyn Nicklas, the meetings were held to discuss "closed items" and matters of general board interest. Trustee Larry Moats said the purpose of the meetings was to discuss closed items, but "from time to time we discussed other college matters."

In the future, both Moats and Morton said they will make sure the public is given 24-hour notice of all meetings of the board. They added they had not known notice wasn't given before the dinner meetings.

On the other hand, Mrs. Nicklas and Hansen argue notice does not have to be given if the board meets only to discuss closed items. Hansen said he does not like to have closed meetings and favors them only when "there is a real good reason."

Mrs. Nicklas pointed out the two dinner sessions held since she was elected board president in April concerned closed items. She said the law is unclear and does not definitely require public announcement of executive sessions. As for discussion of open items at dinner meetings, she said the get-togethers were "information sessions and not board meetings and so don't require public notice. But I would want the press there anyway."

ULTIMATELY, THE disagreement on the need for public notice before executive sessions will have to be settled in court, according to Atty. Anthony Scariano, author of the Open Meeting Law.

"There are two schools of thought on executive sessions," said Scariano. "One says notice is useless because the public can't attend executive sessions. The other says you can't convene an executive session until you have voted to do so at an open public meeting."

"It seems ridiculous to give 24-hour notice of a meeting when everyone knows in advance you are going into executive session," added Scariano. "But I don't see how you can get around the fact you don't know you are going into executive session until you voted to do so at a public meeting."

Board discussion of items outside of the legal exemption, on the other hand, "have to be publicly announced 24 hours in advance," said Scariano. "It is strictly taboo to have dinner meetings to discuss open college affairs prior to a regular meeting."

HANSEN DISPUTED Scariano's position saying, "just because he is sponsor of the bill, doesn't make him an authority on interpreting it. It is not what he intended the bill to say, but what it ended up as."

"It is violation of free speech," added Hansen, "to say board members can't get together at an unofficial meeting to discuss something with no final action. I think the law is unconstitutional."

Census To Be Taken On Unemployment

Information on employment and unemployment will be collected in the area by the Bureau of the Census, U.S. Department of Commerce, during the week of July 17-21.

The sample of households in this area taking part in the survey are among 50,000 across the nation scientifically selected to represent a crosssection of all households.

The survey is taken monthly for the U.S. Department of Labor. Statistics on conditions in the labor force are prime indicators of economic conditions of the country.

For example, the May survey showed that there were 4.3 million unemployed, or 5.9 per cent of the labor force. After seasonal adjustment, this was the same level as in April and March. Employment, however, increased slightly over the previous month, a continuation of a year-long upward trend. Since May, 1971, the number of jobholders rose by 2.3 million, totaling 81.4 million in May of this year.

All information about individuals and families provided the bureau is held confidential by law and can be published only as statistical totals.

Scouts Offer Aquatic Camp

During the week of August 12 to 19, at the Namekagon Scout Reservation, near Spooner, Wis., a special Aquatic Camp is being offered to Scouts of Northwest Suburban Council. Boy Scouts of America, according to Roger Klich, council camping chairman.

Klich, in announcing the special camp, noted the only requirements of Scouts attending will be approval of their Scoutmaster and having passed First Class swimming. Applications are available at the Scout Service Center, from district camping chairmen or any Scoutmaster.

Program for the week will be solid in the aquatic field. Instruction in swimming, canoeing, rowing, lifesaving, Scout life guard and other water specialties will be featured. If the Scout meets the standards, merit badges and awards will be earned in the above areas.

Klich pointed out this type of specialty camp is being offered this year because of the high caliber of the staff operating the Namekagon waterfront.

Nurses To Meet At Harper This Week

A special training program for college nurses from a six-state area will be held at Harper College in Palatine Monday through Friday.

Elizabeth McKay, Harper nurse and director of health service activities for the college, is coordinating the program.

The program, "Innovations in College Nursing," will help prepare the professional college nurse to deal more effectively with the needs of today's students. The program includes lectures, discussion, and role-playing sessions. It is financed by a federal grant of $7,234 awarded to Harper College by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Muskie Delegates Attract Attention

No one was getting more attention, as Democrats geared up this weekend for the business of choosing a presidential nominee, than the Suburban Muskie Delegate.

With their champion fallen and apparently out of the race, the Muskies from the Northwest suburbs have been the object of tender solicitude from all camps in the final days before the quadrennial madness which begins officially in Miami Beach tonight.

Most anxious of the suitors of the Muskie followers have been supporters of Sen. George McGovern, trying to rein in the remaining hundred-or-so votes needed to put their man over the top on

Illinois delegates will not be allowed to vote when the convention decides whether to seat the Daley contingent or the challengers as one of the first critical orders of business tonight.

But they will be busily flirting with all the matchmakers who want them to kiss George McGovern or Hubert Humphrey.

the first ballot of the convention Wednesday night.

Until the hour of departure for Miami Beach, however, Muskie delegates from the suburbs were holding firm to what several described as their "moral obligation" to vote for the Maine senator on the first go-around.

THEY ARE likely to maintain that stance unless a signal comes from the Muskie camp to abandon ship. For the suburban delegation, that signal, if it comes, will likely be relayed through Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson III.

Stevenson, committed to Muskie since early in the campaign and widely regarded as a vice presidential nominee when his man was leading the pack, has been the titular leader of the Muskie contingent in Illinois.

As Rep. Daniel Pierce, R-Highland Park, put it, "I will probably do what Sen. Stevenson does," when the balloting begins.

Other Muskie delegates indicated they will pay close attention to Stevenson's counsel, but were not at his direction. James L. McCabe, Wheeling Township Democratic committeeman, said he intended to vote for Muskie on the first ballot, "unless told otherwise." He explained that he would change his vote only on advice of the Muskie organization, though he valued Stevenson's view.

Meanwhile, the Muskie delegates have more invitations than they can accommodate from the whole field of presidential contenders. State Rep. Eugenia S. Chapman, D-Arlington Heights, reported a deluge of letters from the various candidates and repeated calls from campaign volunteers for all camps, placing themselves at her disposal.

AND WHILE they sidestep the approaches of the vote-seekers, the suburbanites are at the same time wooing votes for an unlikely sweetheart, Mayor Richard J. Daley of Chicago.

While delegates like Mrs. Chapman, Pierce and Rep. Aaron Jaffe of Skokie and Harold Katz of Glenview attempted to displace Daley as chairman of the Illinois delegation, they are now anxious to see him recognized as the delegation leader.

Most share the feeling that while the Daley machine may have violated some of the niceties of the McGovern Commission in getting themselves slated as delegate candidates, they were elected by the Democratic voters, rather than by rump sessions which named their challengers in Chicago.

THEY SHARE a nationwide apprehension of experienced Democrats that barring Daley from the convention will lead to the inevitable loss of his support for the national ticket, and disaster in November.

Harper College Grants Finance Special Projects

Federal grants received during the 1971-72 academic year by Harper College in Palatine include $14,780 for a humanities project and $21,871 for instructional supplies and equipment.

"Grants provide financing of special projects for which funds are not always available in the budget," said Marc Savard, director of governmental relations and project development. "Grants are intended to supplement, not supplant the regular college programs."

Associate Prof. Richard Lockwood has been project director for the $14,780 federal grant awarded by the National Endowment for the Humanities. Lockwood has designed, produced, and is now field testing multi-media instructional materials for use in the general humanities course.

The $21,871 grant received under the Higher Education Act will be used for a video-visual and other instructional equipment.

Win At Bridge

by Oswald and James Jacoby

Oswald: Al Sobel, chief tournament director of the American Contract Bridge League, was one of my old and very dear friends. Although he was a year older than I am, I remember when he first started to assist Lt. Gen. Gruenther in tournament direction. Then, when the general's increasing military responsibilities took him away from bridge, Al became the top director.

Jim: "I remember the first time I heard and saw him at a tournament. There will never be a director like him."

Oswald: "This is no reflection on the new breed of tournament directors. They all are extraordinarily competent but not one of them will ever really take Sobel's place."

Jim: "He loved to play bridge. Here's a hand he played in Rio at the 1969 World's championships."

Oswald: "It was a preliminary game and, while the bidding by Al and his partner may not be elegant, they got to the right contract."

Jim: "Al was very proud of his play. He carefully called for a low diamond from dummy at trick one. He ruffed the second diamond, played ace-king and six of hearts to ruff in dummy. Then he ran trumps and eventually used dummy's ace of diamonds to discard his losing club."

Oswald: "Not too complicated, but if he had played the ace of diamonds at trick one he might have been set." (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

BACK TO WORK for many construction workers follow recent carpenter and cement mason contract settlements. Picket lines came down by Friday, or in some cases today, as the three-week shutdown ends.

Carpenters, Masons Back To Work Today

Construction Pacts Top Guidelines

by LEA TONKIN

Peacemakers in the recent construction industry dispute can congratulate themselves for bringing an end to the crippling three-week shutdown. Carpenters and cement masons are returning to work today. Some returned Friday.

Yet the larger of the settlements more than doubles the administration's Phase II 5.5 per cent guideline for annual pay increases. Delegates for 40 locals of the Chicago District Council of Carpenters voted on behalf of 30,000 members (in Cook, Lake and DuPage counties) last Thursday night to accept a wage and benefit package amounting to a 13.3 per cent boost over the next year.

Cement Masons Local 502 leadership approved an increase equal to 5.5 per cent on an annual basis. This settlement, as well as the carpenter agreement, must be approved by the Construction Industry Stabilization Committee (CISC). This watchdog agency, as an affiliate of the Pay Board, is part of the Cost of Living Council.

The carpenter agreement was reached in a different manner from the cement mason pact. A vote by 165 carpenter delegates was required to approve the carpenter contract which had been hammered out in a marathon bargaining session last Wednesday night. The cement mason members, by contrast, had previously given their leadership the power to sign a firm contract on their behalf.

A SPOKESMAN for the Cement Masons Local 502 said a membership meeting will be held tonight in Chicago to vote on the allocation of the 53-cent an hour increase. Although the amount itself has been agreed upon, the increase can be applied to wages or a combination of wages and fringe benefits for the local's 1,700 members. The 8 p.m. session will be held in Plumbers Auditorium, 1340 W. Washington Blvd.

Herman Ecklund, president of Local 502, said the one-year contract will increase wage and benefits from the previous $9.71 an hour to $10.24 an hour. The Mid America Regional Bargaining Association (MARBA), acting as the bargaining agent for three contractor groups in this dispute, gave in to the union demand for a lunch period in the traditional 12 to 12:30 p.m. time slot. The contractor group had sought a provision for a flexible lunch break. The Builders Association of Chicago (BAC), the Concrete Contractors Association and the Illinois Road Builders Association are the contractor groups who were involved in this settlement.

MARBA fared better in the work rule bargaining with the carpenter union. The contractor group won the right to use new machinery and tools on the job, which the carpenter union contends has been the traditional practice.

The wage and benefit aspects of the new carpenter pact exceed MARBA's earlier petition for a 10.5 per cent boost, however. The new contract calls for a 13.3 per cent hike in wages and fringe benefits rising from the previous $9.65 1/2 an hour to $9.80 1/2 an hour.

THIS AGREEMENT includes a 65-cent an hour increase in wages retroactive to June 1 of this year, bringing wages to $8.30 an hour. Also included in this first step are a 15 cent hike in health and welfare benefits, rising to 45 cents an hour. The 62 1/2 cents an hour in pension contributions and the 8 cents an hour for training programs remain stable.

A Dec. 1 increase in wages of 35 cents an hour will bring wages to $8.65 1/2 cents an hour and the total package to $9.80 an hour.

Robert E. Nielsen, MARBA chairman, said the settlements are a positive step toward the concept of regional bargaining. Specifically commenting on the carpenter settlement, he said, "It is our hope that this settlement will set the stage for another 53 years of harmonious relations with the Chicago District Council of Carpenters. We also look forward to George Vest Jr.'s leadership in extending the concept of regional bargaining in the immediate future, thus helping to stabilize the Chicago area construction industry to the benefit of the workers, the contractors construction users and the public."

The carpenter and cement mason settlements bring to a close the shutdown affecting $1.5 billion in area construction projects. Home building, commercial, industrial, highway and other construction projects were affected.

A settlement was expected shortly in the Lake County and DuPage County Cement Mason disputes following the Local 502 settlement, said a union spokesman last Friday.

Meeting Today In Printers' Strike

Representatives of the Chicago Typographical Union Local 16 and the multi-employer group, Franklin Association, will meet in Chicago today with federal mediators. This is an attempt to settle the contract dispute idling approximately 1,000 area printers.

Strikes against selected job shop printers began last Wednesday by union members. No results were announced in the Thursday meeting with federal mediators.

Some 2,000 union compositors work in the commercial branch of the industry in the Chicago metropolitan area. Only half this number were affected in the strike. The remaining union members work either under separate contracts or have signed interim agreements with the union to guarantee no work stoppage.

FRED HUNT JR., president of the Chicago Typographical Union No. 16, said 90 of the 130 shops employing union compositors in the area have signed the interim agreement. Among the shops signing are 40 members of the Franklin Association of Chicago.

George Houlihan, secretary and general manager of the Franklin Association, said this is the first area shutdown for the commercial printing industry in 24 years.

"They (the union) struck several members of the bargaining unit last week," he said. "According to the regulations, this amounts to the same thing as striking all our members." As a result other Franklin Association members halted operations last week.

The interim agreements include an $11 a week increase in wages for journeymen printers and 24 cents a shift contribution to the union pension plan. The increase brings wages from $229 to $240 a week for union members.

NEGOTIATIONS BETWEEN Local 16 and the Franklin Association broke off June 23. Although the contract expired June 6, the employer group offered $2 a week increase which would not become effective until Dec. 7.

The union seeks a total increase over the first year of the contract amounting to $15 a week.

The strike vote was authorized by the International Typographical Union Executive Council's president, John J. Pilch. Striking journeymen receive $143.40 a week in strike benefits.

Sears Tells New System Of Figuring Finance Charges

Sears, Roebuck and Co. has announced an average daily balance method of computing finance charges on revolving charge accounts in Illinois.

John P. Maloney, Woodfield store manager, said the change will be reflected in the September billings, and should save customers money. The change was made possible with the use of new computer technology and equipment.

The average daily balance is determined by dividing the sum of balances for each day of the billing period by the number of days in the period. Balance outstanding for each day is calculated by subtracting payments and credits on the day they occur from the previous day's balance.

Purchases made in the current month are not included in the present billing period for the purpose of determining finance charges.

Maloney said an example of how the system works is that if a customer begins a month with a balance of $100 and 15 days before his billing date makes a $10 payment, returns $10 worth of merchandise and makes a $25 purchase, his actual balance from then to the end of the period, with no other transactions, is $105. However, he is assessed finance charges on $100 for 15 days and $90 for 15 days, averaging to $90 for the period. The $25 purchase is not included in calculating the daily balance for that period.

ESPECIALLY FOR THE FAMILY

YOU'RE CHEATING if you ride the golf cart! Besides the motion involved in slicing onto the fairway, the walk between holes is your best bet for slimming legs and improving overall fitness.

THE ALL-TIME favorite sport, swimming, is one of the best for exercising all parts of the body, maintaining a trim figure and generally toning muscles, as demonstrated by these ladies.

To Your Good Health!

Exercise Can Be Enjoyable

by MONICA WILCH

A lot of people used to laugh at those muscular stars of the TV exercise programs, and their legions of flabby fans "bumping" along on the living room floor.

But today, Americans are realizing the importance of exercise and are taking up various sports to invigorate their sedentary bodies.

Along with the old standbys — golf, swimming, tennis (not to mention knee bends with Jack LaLanne!) — bicycling is taking its place as a major form of exercise enjoyed by Americans.

Dr. Paul Dudley White, the eminent cardiologist who attended President Eisenhower during his critical heart attack, attributes many health benefits to cycling: it promotes good circulation, strengthens the heart, improves the tone of the diaphragm and thereby aids the lungs in pumping oxygen, reduces nervous tension and the likelihood of ulcers, and "probably contributes to longevity by reducing the amount of high blood pressure, coronary thrombosis and diabetes."

AMONG AREA bicycle enthusiasts who attest to this sport's potential in preserving a healthy body is Mrs. Willard Harmon of Wheeling. Editor of the League of American Wheelmen's newsletter, Mrs. Harmon has been bicycling for 43 years. She only stopped long enough to have her children.

"A lot of people bicycle in summer to keep in shape for skiing," Mrs. Harmon said, "but bicycling actually uses more muscles than skiing."

She recalled having suffered a dog bite which blocked off a vein in her leg, leaving only smaller surface veins to circulate the blood. She went back to cycling as soon as possible and gradually regained satisfactory circulation.

"It's also good for varicose veins," Mrs. Harmon said, adding, "I have never had any trouble with my legs."

MRS. HARMON and her husband, who is retired, belong to the Wheeling Bicycle Club, a group of 56 men and women aged 16 through retirees. The club goes on short bicycle trips every Sunday and Wednesday, and once each year they take a 100-mile tour. Anyone who can pedal is welcome in the club.

As Mr. Harmon pointed out, simply doing exercises — even in front of the TV can be intolerably boring. What better way to keep slim and trim than by enjoying a pleasant bike ride?

According to Dr. Robert E. Johnson of the department of physiology and biophysics at the University of Illinois, a weight-watcher's biggest mistake is in watching calories while ignoring the role of exercise. He emphasizes that exercise is not self-defeating by reason of increased appetite. In an experiment a group of university students increased their daily food intake from 3000 to 6000 calories, accompanied by increased exercise, with the result that none gained any weight.

IF THAT EXERCISE is bike riding, a 150-pound person who rides 5½ miles per hour will burn up 210 calories in an hour. At 13 miles per hour, he will use 660 calories.

In the case of the ever-popular sports of swimming and tennis, anywhere from 400-450 calories will evaporate from your body. Swimming exercises more muscles at once than any other activity. In an hour of swimming, you will burn up around 400 calories. Likewise, an hour of singles tennis will use a good many muscles and 450 calories.

Swimming is especially helpful in strengthening leg and arm muscles, and also in improving one's breathing. Most people do not use their lungs and diaphragm correctly in this basic process, which is part of the reason one becomes "winded" after climbing a flight of stairs. So effective is swimming in developing the technique of breathing that singers — to whom proper breath control is essential — often take up the sport for that purpose.

BUT FOR THE ordinary person, the effect of swimming is simply to "make you feel better physically," according to Elaine Saladino of Des Plaines, who takes swimming lessons at the YMCA.

Likewise, tennis provides overall muscular exercise, with emphasis on arms and legs. Don Seiffert of the Arlington Tennis Club notes that doctors often recommend tennis in moderation for persons with physical ailments. Seiffert believes the current upward trend in the popularity of tennis is due in part to the health-consciousness of Americans today.

Although more men than women participate in tennis at the Arlington club, Seiffert pointed out that women can become competitive with men in the sport since success depends more on timing and coordination than sheer strength.

GOLF, ANOTHER muscle-toning sport, seems to be on the "upswing" among women. Barbara Adams of the Buffalo Grove Golf Club attributes its increasing popularity to the feeling of freedom one enjoys out on a golf course, and she adds that it's a good way to get a tan. (Better than just lying in the sun, nursing one's extra pounds.)

The woman who golfs will keep a slim waist and walk the plumpness off her legs between holes. You'll know you are exercising hitherto unused muscles the first time you try it — "you sort of ache all over," laughed Barbara.

Besides being physically beneficial, golf "releases your frustrations," according to Terry Cole, also of Buffalo Grove. Terry, who is also a skier, learned to play golf six years ago at the urging of her golfer husband.

So, ladies, don't just sit there crying in your hot fudge sundae! Help yourself to a streamlined body, good health and loads of fun!

MRS. JOYCE MANGELS of Palatine slams the tennis ball with a long stretch of her right arm, torso and leg.

AN OLD SPORT but newly revived, bicycling is the prescription of more and more doctors for a wide variety of physical ailments — and it's great fun too! The Willard Harmons of Wheeling enjoy a leisurely spin, but are also touring enthusiasts. They belong to the Wheeling Bicycle Club.

On The Campaign Trail To Marriage

Dianne Banko

Deborah Jachimak

Stephanie Bialek

Linda Lidinski

Donna Suckow

Mrs John Banko of Arlington Heights is announcing her daughter Dianne's engagement to Carl T. Cullotta son of Mr and Mrs Donald Cullotta of Glenview.

No wedding date has yet been set.

Dianne is a 70 graduate of Arlington High School and attends Western Illinois University majoring in sociology. Her fiancé is an architecture major at the University of Illinois Circle Campus.

Mr and Mrs Edmund Jachimak of Elk Grove Village announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter Deborah Lynn, to Kent J. Dykstra son of Mr and Mrs Thomas Dykstra Jr of Brookfield Wis.

The wedding will take place in September.

Deborah, a '70 graduate of Elk Grove High School, works for Inland Lithograph Co as a payroll clerk. Her fiancé is employed by Mobil Oil and is studying to be a mechanic.

The engagement of Stephanie Jane Bialek to David Frederick Ewart, son of the Charles D. Ewarts of 349 S. Bristol Lane, Arlington Heights, is announced by her parents Mr and Mrs T. R. Bialek of Yorktown Heights, N.Y.

The wedding is planned for Sept. 2.

Stephanie and her fiancé are Arlington High School graduates. She is now a nursing student at Harper College and David works for Al Baskin in Bloomington, Ill. He formerly attended Illinois Wesleyan University there.

A June 16, 1973 wedding date has been set by Linda Lidinski of Naperville and Robert Frick of Palatine according to an announcement by Linda's parents, the Edward J. Lidinskys. Robert is the son of Mr and Mrs Clyde L. Frick 1422 Valley Lake Drive, Palatine.

Linda is a senior at Northern Illinois University, where her fiancé was graduated this year. He is a '68 graduate of Fremd High School and has been affiliated with Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity at Northern.

Donna E. Suckow's engagement to Gary R. Thompson, son of Mr and Mrs Paul R. Thompson, 1415 E. Central Road, Arlington Heights, is announced by her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Earl E. Suckow, 617 Glendale Lane, Mount Prospect. The couple plan a July '73 wedding.

Both are graduates of Forest View High School, Donna in '69 and Gary in '68. Donna attended Carthage College, Kenosha, Wis., and is now majoring in dental hygiene at Northwestern University. Gary graduated this year from the University of Wisconsin, Platteville, and is a consulting civil engineer with George B. Anderson & Associates, Inc., Mount Prospect.

They Met At A Ball Game

Mary Susan Bowen probably doesn't remember the score at the basketball game between Forest View High School and Palatine High School several years ago, but she'll never forget that at that game she met Noel R. Eggebraaten. A romance began and on June 16 they were married after college graduation.

Phil Keller of Palatine, best man at the wedding, introduced the couple during their sophomore year in high school. Mary and Noel have dated ever since despite a separation. During the next year, Noel moved to Ohio and then to New York, but they were reunited when both attended Wittenberg University in Springfield, Ohio.

Southminster United Presbyterian Church in Arlington Heights was the setting for their candlelight wedding. Mary chose yellow, green and white to accent the double ring ceremony.

She is the daughter of Mr and Mrs Carl H. Bowen 115 W. Central Road, Arlington Heights. Noel's parents are Mr and Mrs. Donovan R. Eggebraaten of Williamsville, N.Y.

THE BRIDE wore a floor-length white organza gown with a chapel-length train. The bodice and puffed sleeves were accented with Venice lace and embroidered Alcon appliques. Mary chose a headpiece of Venice lace and a tulle veil. She carried a colonial bouquet of pale yellow roses, Stephanotis and ivy.

Her sister, Mrs. F. Samuel Smith of Arlington Heights, was matron of honor. Karen wore a floor-length gown styled with a yellow chiffon bodice and a green printed dacton skirt. She carried a colonial bouquet of Woburn Abbey roses.

Also attending Mary were two of her Alpha Delta Pi sorority sisters, Martha Jones of Wyoming, Ohio, and Eden Alexander of Harrisburg, Pa., and a friend, Susan Oliver of Columbus, Ohio. Noel's sister, Jill, was junior bridesmaid. All four had gowns and flowers to match the matron of honor.

Mr. and Mrs. Noel Eggebraaten

SIX-YEAR-OLD Julie Smith, the bride's niece, was flower girl in a green printed dacton dress to match the adult attendants.

Noel's brothers, Alan, Dale, Dean and Rod, were ushers, along with T. Edwin Boling Jr., Springfield, Ohio, and Mark J. Aggebeck, Palatine.

Dinner and dancing at Brookwood Country Club was provided for 150 guests following the evening ceremony.

The couple are staying in Arlington Heights since their recent honeymoon in the Ozarks. They will move in August to Kearney, Neb., where Mary will teach school and Noel will work on a master's degree in guidance and counseling at Kearney State.

Alice Stigger Weds In Macomb

The garden of the United Wesley Methodist Church in Macomb was the setting for the June 17 wedding of Alice Stigger of Arlington Heights and William Studzinski of Dolton, Ill.

The bride is attending Western Illinois University in Macomb and her bridegroom is a graduate of the university. The couple will continue to live near the campus while Alice goes to classes and her husband works in the city.

The bride daughter of Mr and Mrs Earl K. Stigger 202 S. Reuter, wore a multicolored print gown with a blue background and a white bodice for the afternoon nuptials. She carried a bouquet of daisies.

HER SISTER, Mrs. J. R. Millar of Williamsville, Ill., was matron of honor, and Chris Gehring, Arlington Heights, and Greta Biebel, Aurora, were bridesmaids. Mrs. Millar's gown was in a rose print and the bridesmaids' in shades of blue and violet. They all carried daisy bouquets.

The groom son of Mr and Mrs A. Studzinski of Dolton, had John Parker of Macomb as best man. Ushers were James Storms of Mount Greenwood, Ill., and John Hunter, South Holland.

The bride's parents hosted a reception for 70 guests at the Macomb Holiday Inn following the double ring ceremony.

Let's Put A Freeze On Winter In July

Anyone can tell by walking into a department store. One must not be deceived by the temperature or the fact that air conditioners are running. It is obvious by the clothes on the racks that it is winter.

Officially the first day of winter is July 5. It is heralded by the summer sale where tweeds, suits and heavy boots replace bikinis and shifts as soon as they are picked off the rack. And the new season is here to stay.

If anyone doubts that winter is full blast after July 5, I suggest that person try to buy something out of "season."

LAST YEAR on July 17 I put my thumb through my swimming cap. On July 18 I ran out to a store to buy another. By July 20 I had been to eight stores and insulted by clerks six times. These people raised their eyebrows in shocked amazement or suggested that I should not be allowed to run loose on the streets for wanting a bathing cap in July. Only a couple of teenage clerks were sympathetic though they were careful not to speak about it openly. They too seemed to know what season it really was on the outside.

The summer reverse of this incident has happened to me too. At the end of last January when my son needed a new pair of rubber boots, I called all over town to find a pair.

"Well, we have a FEW left," was the condescending reply. I frequently got I never did manage to find a pair his size.

ALTHOUGH I THINK I do understand some of the problems of mass market merchandising. I still wonder if winter must come quite so soon. Is it really true that I am the only one who runs out of suntan lotion in August or would like another sleeveless top in July? When I go into a store in mid-summer I get the impression I had better be looking for something wintery — OR ELSE! Does everybody but me finish all their summer shopping by the first of May as store personnel would have me believe?

Every once in a while I am tempted to succumb to the power of suggestion. And once (I think it was in August of '67) I tried on a winter coat. I knew I was going to need it. It was darling, just what I was looking for and within my price range. But I couldn't buy it. My trying it on while wearing sandals somehow ruined it for me.

I thank the merchandisers anyway for wanting to give me a head start but I prefer to buy my winter things in the winter. There will be no need to send me a card. I'll know when it gets here.

Gail Bethke

Gail Bethke is engaged to Jerome McEvilly II son of Mr and Mrs Jerome McEvilly of Rolling Meadows according to news from her mother, Mrs. Harold Bethke of Mount Prospect.

The wedding will take place in fall. A graduate of Prospect High School, Gail works for Allstate Insurance Co. in Northbrook. Her fiancé graduated from Forest View High School and is in the U.S. Air Force stationed in Cheyenne, Wyo.

The Home Line

by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy: I bought a lovely Bantam knit which carries a tag saying it's washable and advising what kind of detergent to use, temperature of water and temperature of dryer. Inasmuch as this is going to be a 'party' dress, wouldn't it be better if I had it cleaned when it was soiled?

—Marge Baker

Yes, you should have it cleaned, if you want it to look well for a longer time. I'm always for having good clothes cleaned, even cottons. With cottons, for instance, a sizing is used which makes the dress feel and look new again. Only after two or three years' wear, and if they're only going to be used for shopping and around the house do I start laundering certain garments. So don't forget to mark and save the tags.

Dear Dorothy: Somehow a 5 pound bag of potatoes was stored in the refrigerator for a couple of weeks before I became aware of the error. Is there anything that can be done to improve the taste?

—Laura M.

Storing them at a higher temperature for a couple of weeks should restore most of the taste.

Dear Dorothy: When you get a run in one leg of your pantyhose, cut off the 'bad' leg and save the 'good' leg attached to the panty. When you have another 'bad' leg you can wear both pantyhose as one. Wearing both pantyhose also gives additional tummy support.

—Nancy Arnold

Dear Dorothy: Do you know how to remove the lime buildup in a whistling tea-kettle?

—Munlene Gunn

Put in a cup of vinegar, a little salt and water, boil for 10 minutes or so and the lime will come out in chunks. Be sure to rinse well.

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to Dorothy Ritz in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 289, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60005.)

by Genie

With so many facial creams, astringents and other beauty aids "winking" at women from where they sit stacked on store counters, the woman who doesn't buy a whole line of cosmetics is sometime made to feel her face may drop off. Using only soap and water just won't pass these days.

However, some organic faddists are making noticeable waves of their own by staying home and concocting their own creams and rinses, using such edible products as avocados, lemons and cucumbers, too.

The same salad you eat can also be chopped up, mashed and spread across your face . . . or almost.

Health addicts claim that those fruits and vegetables containing natural vitamins and minerals do the job better because of their organic content.

Probably the most talked about of the new homemade cosmetics is the avocado facial. It's easy to mix up a batch. Take a quarter of a ripe, peeled avocado and mash it into a smooth cream. It's easiest to do in a blender, adding a little water to achieve the right consistency. When the paste looks rich and creamy, you're ready for the treatment.

SMOOTH THE mixture across your face and neck and let it stay on for about 15 minutes before removing with water.

A similar facial can be produced by combining grated cucumber and sour cream . . . about a tablespoon of cucumber to one quarter cup of sour cream. Only keep this one on your face for about three minutes. Cucumbers and sour cream are good for toning up your skin.

The use of herbs is supposed to be great in creating a steam beneficial to the skin. Into a quart of boiling water add a tablespoon of rosemary and another tablespoon of dried mint. Expose your face, using a towel around your head to trap the steam.

Organic face faddists also suggest using the juice of a lemon as an astringent. Just squeeze and strain the juice of half a lemon and apply it to the face with a cotton pad.

Of course everyone knows about the trick of lightening hair with lemon juice by combing it through the hair before going out to sit in the sun.

GOING BACK to the avocado, that one fruit has other cosmetic benefits besides just a facial.

The rind can be rubbed on elbows and other dry skin areas. The natural oils will lubricate the rough spots.

Avocados can be used in making hair conditioners too. Mash half of an avocado into a cream. Again add enough water to obtain the proper consistency and then work it into the hair and scalp allowing the cream to remain on the head for about 10 minutes. Then rinse thoroughly with clear water. An avocado hair conditioner acts like the store-bought ones . . . leaving hair soft and easy to comb through.

WHILE YOU'RE busy organically caring for your face and hair, it might be a good idea to consider your whole appearance. Fresh vegetables and fruits have been known to keep bodies in shape too, when not coupled with gooey desserts and other fattening foods.

Another environmental tip. Men who believe in conservation of natural resources will not keep the water running while shaving. Running a faucet while shaving can use as much as 20 gallons of water.

Wed On Her Parents' Anniversary

June 17 had doubly special meaning for Carol Ann Jespersen and Wayne R. Meier of Mount Prospect. It was their wedding day and also the 22nd anniversary for Carol Ann's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold R. Jespersen.

The young couple, who met while both were students at Forest View High School and who are now attending Western Illinois University at Macomb, were wed in a 6 o'clock double ring ceremony at St. Paul Lutheran Church of Mount Prospect.

They delayed taking a Florida honeymoon so Carol Ann could attend summer classes at Western. Wayne, who is the son of Mrs. Marion Meier and the late Leslie R. Meier of Mount Prospect, is self-employed as a painter this summer.

For her marriage Carol Ann chose a floor-length long-sleeve gown of ivory organza appliqued with Alencon and Venise lace. A white Juliet cap held her ivory waist-length veil that was bordered with white lace. Her bouquet was a nosegay of white daisies and roses with baby's breath.

THE MATRON OF honor, Lynn Grosch of Mount Prospect, and the three bridesmaids, Denise Darnall of Mount Prospect, Nancy Schar of Rolling Meadows and Cheri Williamson of Macomb, made their dresses of blue dotted swiss with Empire waist, scooped neck and long sheer sleeves.

They all wore white picture hats and carried white lace parasols filled with blue daisies, blue bachelor buttons and baby's breath.

Tony Donato, the bride's 7-year-old cousin from Elmwood Park, was ring bearer.

Wayne's brother James, from Northfield, Minn., was his best man. Another brother, Dan, was one of the five ushers, as was the bride's brother, Randy. Mark Selke, Des Plaines; Dave Long, Mount Prospect; and Ron Greiner, Macomb, also served as ushers.

THE WEDDING was followed by a buffet dinner for the 216 guests at Old Orchard Country Club.

Special guests included the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. James Donato of Western Springs, and the bridegroom's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Meier of Mount Prospect.

Two Honeymoons For The Rabchuks

London, Paris, Glasgow, Geneva, Nice and Barcelona are all on the honeymoon itinerary for newlyweds Cheryl and John E. Rabchuk. Married on Father's Day, the couple has already been on one honeymoon — a two-week stay in Michigan. The European trip is scheduled for July.

Cheryl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Kurhajec, 200 N. Elmhurst Ave., is employed by United Air Lines. She is a '69 graduate of Prospect High School. John, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Rabchuk, 115 S. Donald, Arlington Heights, is a '68 graduate of Prospect High and just one week before the wedding was graduated from the University of Illinois, Champaign.

When all the honeymooning is over, the pair will be living in Champaign where John will be employed.

THE JUNE 18 double ring service was held at 4 p.m. in a candlelight setting in Trinity Lutheran Church, Chicago, with the entire families of the bride and groom taking part. This included parents of the couple, the bride's only sister and brother-in-law, the groom's two brothers and his sister.

Blue and purple was Cheryl's choice for her attendants' gowns which were in organza print with high necklines, sheer bishop sleeves and blue and lavender velvet ribbons at the waists. They carried purple asters, blue cornflowers, baby's breath and ivy.

Donna Warner of DeKalb, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Sue Frans, a childhood friend from Mount Prospect, Valerie Scharf, and the groom's sister, Mary Rabchuk, Arlington Heights, and Joan Mitrus, Mount Prospect.

Cheryl's gown was of ivory silk organza with high, ruffled Victorian neckline and bishop sleeves. The skirt and chapel train were trimmed with peau d'ange lace and seed pearls. A face-framing headpiece of matching lace and seed pearls held her veil, and she carried white roses, stephanotis, baby's breath and ivy.

SIX-YEAR-OLD Lisa Borcovan of Palatine, godchild and cousin of the bride, was flower girl. She wore a miniature version of the bridesmaids' gowns and carried a miniature bouquet of the same flowers.

Dave Holmes, Schaumburg, was the groom's best man, and groomsmen were Mike Herod and Roger Sydel, Mount Prospect; Steve Holmes, Arlington Heights; and Scott Robinson, Downers Grove. Ushers were the bride's brother-in-law, Bill Warner, the groom's brother, Alex Rabchuk, and Mike Handwerker, Champaign.

The ceremony was followed by a dinner reception for 175 guests in the Camelot Restaurant, Des Plaines.

Let's Approve Driving Center

Amidst the chaos of the last moments of the recent session of the Illinois legislature there emerged at least one piece of legislation which is directly beneficial to the Northwest suburbs and is a welcome sign of state recognition of the needs of this area.

State Sen.
John A.
Graham

Eugene
Schlickman

In swift action last week the House and Senate passed two, HB 4310 and HB 4667, two bills which in effect are enabling legislation to bring a much needed driver test center to the Northwest suburbs.

Spurred on by State Rep. Gene Schlickman in the House and State Senator John Graham in the higher chambers, the two bills passed without delay and now await the governor's signature.

Schlickman said last week he would petition Governor Ogilvie for prompt approval of the two bills. We join that plea to the governor and urge that he put his approval on this driver test center.

As we pointed out in previous editorials, there is clear evidence that the Northwest suburbs needs a driver testing center within the area.

Presently, suburbanites seeking drivers licenses must travel either to Chicago or to outlying communities some distance from the metropolitan area. Surely, the population base of this area and the projected growth of the suburbs shows a need for a center. The state must meet its responsibilities here by providing adequate service to suburban residents who deserve the full range of state services.

Approval of the two bills by the Governor is considered the first step in an effort to provide two more driver testing facilities for suburban Cook County. The first to be built will be a $5 million complex in this area, probably on or near the state's preferred site in Palatine Township. The second facility for which no legislation has yet been passed, would bring a driver test center to Chicago's southwest suburbs. In both cases — but more particularly our own — we believe the state is correctly spending its money to meet a clear need of the people.

Similarly, we commend Senator Graham and Representative Schlickman for shepherding this legislation through the General Assembly. We trust the Governor will act on our behalf also and make this proposal a matter of law.

An Ignored Issue

President Nixon's signature of the school aid bill the other day was an act deserving of headlines, but it made them for the wrong reasons.

The attention-getter was the President's verbal lashing of Congress for failing to write antibusing provisions into the measure as he had requested.

Busing is, of course, a legitimate way not to mention a burning — as the President himself put it — educational issue. It is also a political issue, one which is very much a part of the building presidential campaign.

Emphasis on the flashy political highlights of the bill thus obscured its real significance — the establishment of a new basis for federal aid to higher education, which has nothing whatsoever to do with busing.

For the first time, federal money will be available to financially strapped institutions to use as they wish rather than as specific federal programs spell out. And as a matter of national policy, every student who cannot meet the full costs of an education can now look to the government for financial assistance — up to a maximum $1,400 through new loan and grant programs.

The effects will certainly be considerable, and endure long after this election and, just possibly, the busing issue are history.

That is the good news. The bad news, according to some expert observers of the academic scene, is that something much more will be necessary in the long run to solve education's money problem.

The Carnegie Commission on Higher Education which, under the direction of Clark Kerr, a former head of the University of California, has been examining in depth the state of the nation's colleges and universities since 1967, has released a report on the economics of education which finds the basic problem to be a classic case of inflation.

Expenditures on higher education have been increasing at a rate considerably greater than national economic growth, the commission found. The rise in spending from $7.6 billion in 1960 to $25 billion in 1970 represented a jump of from 1 per cent of the Gross National Product to 2.5 per cent. At the same rate of increase, spending would rise to $51 billion in 1980, or 3.3 per cent of GNP.

Too high, according to the Carnegie study, which recommended a 20 per cent reduction in spending during the next decade, to be achieved by such unpleasant steps as a "cautious" increase in student-faculty ratios, curbing faculty salary increases, trimming enrollments by encouraging "reluctant attenders" to drop out and by a major revision in standard academic practice, telescoping undergraduate study into three years instead of the traditional four.

The Carnegie report strongly accentuates the negative, but if it is anywhere near the mark in assessing the situation, higher education is going to have to look at least as much to itself as to Washington for relief from its financial bind.

Any Questions, Governor?

Tom Wellman's Column

Peril For Consumerism

Tom

movement which is designed to prevent you and me from being cheated at the supermarket or at the department store can lead to a dangerous avenue: complete reliance on brand names.

The movement is colliding with an increasing willingness by many Americans to build or grow useful items with their own hands. By definition, consumerism can become closely tied with the establishment's commercial produces AT THE EXCLUSION OF what the small, nameless producer can produce.

Smallness is not a virtue by itself, just as a brand name isn't by definition a virtue. What matters is quality, whether the label's there or not.

Smedley Zigwalt, last week's column hero, wanted to remind the readers that his unkind remarks were not limited to Mrs. Mickey Hartley of Arlington Heights.

He also swore at the other 40 persons who showed at the Arlington Heights board meeting, and he continues to swear at anyone with the audacity to suggest that not all home-wrecking and apartment-building is desirable.

Zigwalt's not a very nice guy.

She Backs Fall ERA Passage

I noticed with interest the letter from Representative Schlickman wherein he stated his reasons for opposing the Equal Rights Amendment.

As a supporter of ERA, I wish to take issue with Rep. Schlickman's statements. The major part of his letter argues that the 14th amendment now provides equal protection for women under the law because of the U.S. Supreme Court decision last Fall which held that women and men should be treated equally as far as selecting an administrator of an estate. The decision he is referring to is the case filed in Idaho of Reed v. Reed. The U.S. Supreme Court, however, did not overrule other decisions which have upheld sex discrimination. Thus, the U.S. Supreme Court still leaves the burden on every woman to prove that governmental action which perpetuates sex discrimination is unreasonable.

Also, in another recent U. S. Supreme Court case, Alexander v. Louisiana, the Supreme Court held there was evidence of racial discrimination in the selection of a grand jury but avoided reaching a decision on the constitutionality of the way women are selected for jury service. Justice Douglas chided the court for not ruling on the sex discrimination issue. Thus, the 14th Amendment does not grant the protection for women which Rep. Schlickman claims that it does.

As stated in the Report of the President's Task Force on Women's Rights and Responsibilities issued in 1970, "Once the equal rights amendment is ratified, the burden of proving the reasonableness of disparate treatment on the basis of sex would shift to the United States or the State. Presently the burden is on the aggrieved individuals to show unreasonableness."

The ERA would guarantee, among others, equal admission standards for women and men to publicly supported educational institutions; it would require Federal, State and local governments to grant women equal opportunity in employment and render invalid state laws which discriminate against women concerning business ownership, domicile, etc.

I do hope that the new legislature to be convened after the Fall elections will pass the ERA. Women do not seek special responsibilities. They seek equal rights and wish to assume equal responsibilities.

Dist. 15: Principal Backed

We have been residents of Palatine close to eight years and our children have attended Virginia Lake School since it was opened. Fifteen years ago I taught in Rolling Meadows and have substituted in the Palatine area grade schools for the past four years.

At this time of controversy over the release of a teacher from her contract, we would like to stand behind Mr. Schmidt, Virginia Lake's principal, and the school board in the action they took. We feel that in education, as in business, the principal or supervisor has the justification of weeding out personnel if that person can not do the job to the satisfaction of those involved.

This past year many school-inspired philosophies have taken place. Also, some antagonistic attitudes among the parents towards Mr. Schmidt have been noticed. A school principal who believes firmly in good education for the children by the teachers and constructive criticism for the teachers by the principal is hard to find.

We believe we now have good, well educated teachers and principal and are pleased that he and not a faction of parents are dictating school policy.

We realize that for Mr. Schmidt to do his job well, he needs the support of his teachers and parents. He must be persuasive, just, and truly able to carry out his beliefs. We are impressed with the way Mr. Schmidt says what he thinks and does what he thinks is just.

Please be aware that there are parents who commend and not deplore the action taken by Mr. Schmidt and the school board.

Mrs. Duffy Backed

On the evening of June 14, I attended the school board meeting of Dist. 15. I listened carefully to the presentations made by the Mayor of Rolling Meadows and Rev. Hermann. They made many points in favor of Mrs. Duffy. At no time were there any accusations made against the board. Those of us who sat at the meeting left after these presentations. There was no further reason for us to stay. It became evident to all present that the decision to dismiss Mrs. Duffy was not to be reconsidered in any way by the board.

The board sat like a bunch of puppets while Mr. Sundling sputtered when he confused his answers to Mr. Meyer's questions. One had the impression that this board was unfamiliar with the true nature of Mrs. Duffy's case. They had given her the "privilege" of a closed hearing (their choice, not hers). At this hearing they did not even allow her husband in the room. There were no charges presented against her. The parents of her students did present two petitions to the board in her behalf. Taxpayers of Dist. 15 I ask you, how can this be called a fair hearing? Remember, this board had hired the administration who hired the principal, who saw fit to dismiss a teacher, that the parents testified was an outstanding teacher. What chance does one have when the hearing is stacked against you before it even starts? If this is democracy, may God help us, for there is no recourse for a teacher, or apparently the taxpayers against this board.

We left this meeting with a very sick feeling. I was there. I listened and I saw. I learned, Oh boy did I learn! You may sit at a school board meeting, but you, the taxpayers cannot speak to a point or address this board. Yes, they are doing a job, and how well they do it. That job? Jump while the administration pulls the strings!

Business Today

Federal, state and local licensing of various businesses can be a powerful force in the hands of consumers, according to Commerce Clearing House (CCH).

Even though a consumer who has been wronged may not be able to recover his personal losses, the power of governmental units to suspend or revoke licenses can be damaging to a business.

A recent New York trial court decision crystallizes this point in rather positive terms. The decision went against a garage-parking lot in its fight with a local Department of Consumer Affairs, according to CCH's "Consumerism — New Developments For Business," a weekly newsletter covering developments on this front.

The license of a garage and parking lot operator was suspended for two days by the city agency for allegedly humiliating and harassing a customer who left his car at the garage and returned to find it damaged. An attendant reportedly made no mention of the damage.

THE GARAGE denied that the damage occurred on the premises, and, when the customer persisted in his complaint, he was told that the car was brought in that way, and that, if the car had not been brought in that way, then the accident was caused by defective brakes.

The court rules that licensing was not merely a means of raising revenue nor a mere formality, according to the CCH report. A responsibility was vested in a department that issued a license, to police its licensees and to protect the public from harassment and exploitation... an attempt to deny that the damage occurred on the premises and to shift the blame on the customer was a frustrating experience that car owners parking in indoor and outdoor garages should not be required to undergo, the court stressed.

In this proceeding, the damage claimed by the customer was flatly dismissed by the garage and the customer was made to feel like a thief seeking to cheat the garage by a false claim, according to the decision.

The garage operator contended that the charges of failing to safeguard an automobile in its custody and attempting to conceal the resulting damage from the owner were "property damage claims" which could only be resolved by the courts.

Business Licensing—Tool Of The Consumer

by LEROY POPE

NEW YORK (UPI) — The notion is spreading in the timepiece industry that by the end of this decade all better grade watches will have no moving parts.

If that turns out to be true, the centers of the world's watchmaking industry will cross the oceans from Switzerland and Japan to the United States. The technology for the all solid-state quartz crystal watches has been developed in the United States and since their manufacture and assembly will require relatively little hand labor, the great incentive to making good watches in Switzerland and Japan will end.

However, all solid-state watches will cost at least $250 initially. The first one, the Hamilton Pulsar was introduced at $2,100 in 1970 — and nobody expects to be able to sell them for less than $50 even several years from now. Therefore, a big market for low-cost jeweled and pin-lever watches is available for the Swiss, Japanese and the Russians.

THE FIRST $250 all solid-state watch is promised for this fall by Wyler Watch Co. of New York. It will have a quartz crystal oscillator, an integrated solid-state circuit, a liquid crystal digital read-out and will be battery powered.

It will be called the Computime. Pres. Victor Wyler makes no claim that the Computime will be more accurate than Bulova's Accuquartz, introduced last Christmas, which employs a quartz crystal, a tuning fork and moving hands. But both Wyler and George Thiess, the inventor of the solid-state movement in Hamilton's Pulsar, say the Accuquartz and other quartz crystal watches with moving parts — those of Timex and the Japanese Seiko company for example — are still hybrids, that the real future is in all solid-state watches with liquid crystal readouts.

Apparently there is considerable quiet agreement with this position in the watch industry. Half a dozen companies that produce quartz crystals are having their laboratories work overtime to make more rugged oscillating crystals and liquid crystals for digital readouts.

TWO U.S. FIRMS, Micromat Universal, Inc., of Mountain View, Calif., and Optel Corp. of Princeton, N. J., are making complete solid-state movements.

Victor Wyler told United Press International that the present basic manufacturing cost of an all solid-state quartz crystal watch to sell for $250 is around $35 but that economies of scale probably can get this down to $11 by 1975.

The global market for watches in the $50 price range Wyler is aiming at is about $600 million, the U.S. market about $200 million. About a dozen of the world's leading watch companies have quartz crystal watches on the market or are readying them for production. There's only one fly in the ointment. Presently and possibly for some time to come, the solid-state watch with no moving parts will be bulky; therefore, it may have limited appeal to women. It will have to tap the masculine market on a big scale first.

Personal Finance

by CARLTON SMITH

Speaking of budget vacations — as who isn't, these days? — how about $49 for a week on a palm-fringed beach in the Caribbean, in your own private beach house with kitchen... sleeping up to four kids at no extra charge?

That vacation bargain is one of several you'll find in Puerto Rico during the summer, when winter prices are cut to half, a third, or less.

But Puerto Rico? In the summer? Absolutely. It's not as hot as Chicago or New York in the summer. The island-wide average temperature is 77 degrees, with a range of about six degrees from the coolest of the winter to warmest in August.

San Juan's "gold coast," as in big resort cities everywhere, can be expensive summer or winter — though we've dug up some bargains here, too. But little-known and neglected (by Americans) corners of the island combine lovely, uncrowded beaches with living costs so low that a Caribbean vacation becomes more affordable than you'd imagined.

THAT ASSUMES that you don't have to travel first-class. The Eastern Airlines flight we took to San Juan recently had a baby-sitting section.

Representative round-trip economy fares to San Juan: from New York, $145; Cleveland, $185; Detroit, $209; Chicago, $223; Philadelphia, $145; Boston, $163; and Atlanta (for some strange reason) $213. You'll often get additional savings with family fares, and Eastern has special "weekender" fares as low as $100 round trip from northwestern cities and $125 from the Midwest. This line has a broader assortment of fares to San Juan than to many other resort destinations.

As for where you go after you get there, you have two basic choices. If you want the beach plus action and night life (e.g., casinos), San Juan offers both. For sun, surf, sailing and sightseeing, you go "out on the island." In either case you have the benefit of a commendable Commonwealth policy that prohibits private ownership or control of beaches. The oceanfront hotel may sit on a stretch of magnificent beach, but you have as much right to use it as the occupant of a $75-a-day suite.

THUS, YOU'LL find apartment hotels on the "gold coast" — the Condado section — with kitchen facilities to temper a major item of expense, restaurant meals. As an example, there are the bargain summer rates at the Diener Tower apartment hotel (recommended). You get a spacious suite with kitchen, full-length terrace overlooking the Atlantic, and full maid service. Rates vary by floor level in the 19-story hotel, from $20 to $25 a day for a couple. But these suites will accommodate up to four, at $4 per day each for the third and fourth.

If you'll settle for less elegant living, pick one of the "guest houses" in the Condado or Ocean Park sections. One of the most popular — nestled alongside a posh resort hotel — has 30 rooms at $6 to $12 single, $10 to $15 double. Guest houses (some furnish breakfast) are listed in the official tourist guide, "Que Pasa," free from "Turismo," the government tourist office.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI) — Harris, Upham & Co., in its six-month projection, sees the market reacting mostly to political developments up to election day in November. After the election, the firm believes, the market may move upwards once "the election uncertainties" are dispelled. Harris, Upham still sees the Dow Jones industrial average going over the 1,000 mark, but perhaps much later than it originally predicted. During the intermediate term, the market may continue downward, the firm concludes.

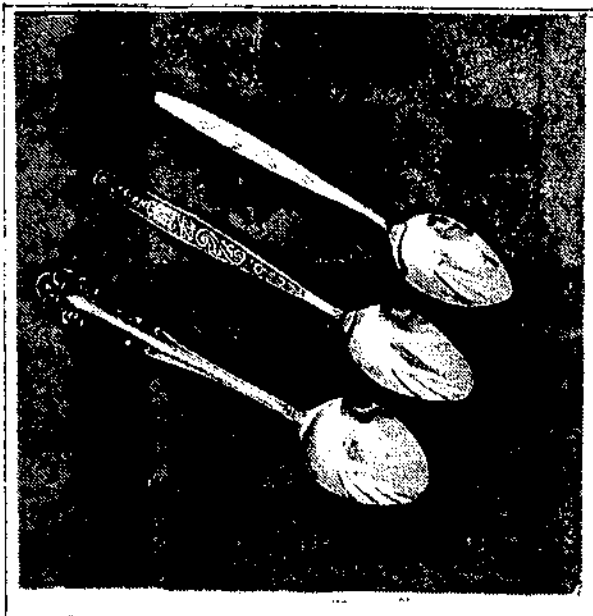

THE MARKET badly needs "a new bullish incentive" factor such as a cease fire in Southeast Asia, Reynolds Securities, Inc., says. The good economic climate has helped the market weather "the usual" disappointing May and June months, and Reynolds says "The upward trend still remains intact." The present valley is a good time to get on the bottom of a mountain, the firm concludes.

WRIGHT INVESTORS Service concludes corporate profits "are the engine which makes the wheel turn" in the stock market. And, Wright says, the resurgence of corporate profits this year is going to be "the dominant fact of 1972 economic life." Higher earnings should propel the market higher throughout the balance of 1972 and 1973, the firm adds.

Murderer Picked For Priesthood

by LESTER KINSOLVING
PHILADELPHIA—When convicted murderer Vaughn Booker was accepted as a candidate for the priesthood last January by this city's Episcopal Bishop Robert DeWitt, the news made understandable headlines throughout the country.

This novel ministerial recruitment was also the lead in Newsweek magazine's feature story on DeWitt, which was headlined "The Maverick Bishop." Yet the content of this story hardly suggested a maverick, but rather a grand champion bull of penal redemption and social relevance.

The Newsweek story made no mention, however, of the fact that less than two years prior to Bishop DeWitt's designation of Booker as potentially deserving of Holy Orders, a court of law ruled him deserving of life imprisonment.

(News of DeWitt's plentiful redemption had hardly hit the wires before Berl Estes McDonald, an inmate of Leavenworth Penitentiary, filed a petition asking a U.S. District Court to order prison authorities to allow him to organize a Southern Baptist church behind bars.)

NEWSWEEK's reference to the 20-year-old Booker was also devoid of any mention of another aspect of the case — which makes any comparisons to Saul of Tarsus or Gethsemane's Good Thief appear tenuous indeed.

For Booker confessed to having dispatched his spouse Annabelle, mother of two small children, with a bow and arrow.

Moreover, his bow had a 47-pound pull and he also confessed that he had used hunting arrows, which he described as "three prong, razor tipped" — which he shot from a distance of "about eight feet."

After the first shot, Booker recalled: "I was then aware of the pain and agony she was in, so I went to my quiver and pulled out another arrow; this one striking her in the throat."

AFTER THREE more arrows, Mrs. Booker was dead — for the reason explained by Booker:

"Bickering arguments over the cleanliness of the house and the care of the children. I guess you might say we had basically economic problems."

Such expressed motives for killing his wife pose serious questions as to how Pastor Booker might react to the possibly infuriating negligence of an untidy altar guild, a haphazard Sunday School faculty, or a financially irresponsible (or stingy) church board.

Christian ideals do hold that the possibilities of rehabilitation are limitless. So, by all means, are the possibilities of a bishop and diocese being fooled — which was recognized by Jesus in his admonition to be "wise as serpents and harmless as doves." Hence, Episcopal Church law requires an extensive scrutiny of the character and background of all candidates for the ministry — many of whom have been turned down for considerably less cause than the conduct of Vaughn Palmer Lorenzo Booker.

If Booker is ever released and is ordained, he could provide another notable addition to the "outspoken young priests" with which DeWitt "has surrounded himself" — according to Newsweek's elegant puffing of the 55-year-old prelate, whom the news magazine described as "wiry."

THESE INCLUDE the Rev. David Gracie, a DeWitt assistant whose graceful manner in approaching a vast number of controversial issues was well illustrated at the recent Ecumenical Witness for Peace in Kansas City. During a speech by an elderly and dedicated pacifist, the Rev. Mr. Gracie expressed his gratuitous dissent at one point — by shouting a vernacular for bovine excrement.

Another DeWitt appointee (who is now an employee of the Union of Black Episcopalians — which has been subsidized by national Episcopal Church headquarters) is the Rev. Jame ("Jungle Jimmy") Woodruff.

The Rev. Mr. Woodruff has lectured widely — with essentially the same speech: a Mau Mau act consisting largely of a wildly imaginative diatribe, a bowl full of hate whitey.

His latest accomplishment, notes Philadelphia magazine, is a book calling for urban guerrilla warfare by blacks, since "White people are the enemy."

Arlington Edges Lions To Regain 9th District Lead

by PAUL LOGAN

Nothing has changed in the Ninth District as far as Arlington Heights and Logan Square are concerned. Both legion baseball teams love to whip each other.

Playing for first place in the league Friday at Recreation Park, both teams showed the fine crowd their comeback ability. However, Arlington was the last to surge for a narrow 6-5 victory.

"It was a good one for us to win," said Lloyd Meyer, Post 208's head coach. "It was the first time this year that we came from behind. We needed that sometime or other to get the feeling of it."

The first four innings didn't look like anybody would have to make a comeback as Heights held what appeared to be a safe 2-0 lead. Mark Leonhard, not ready to pitch according to Meyer but having to fill in for absent Duane Nelson, looked unbeatable. This was especially evident when he fanned the first two Lions in the fifth. Those were his final strikeouts, however.

Showing its "after two" prowess, Logan Square staged a super rally that saw nine men go to the plate before the final out was registered. Ken Martin singled and Steve Bobowski walked. Then Joe Bombicino lashed a single to center for the first of four runs. Stan Bobowski looped a single to right which drove in his brother. Mike Garbus singled in another to drive Leonhard from the mound.

Ed Carpenter, his replacement, forced the next two Lions to hit into fielder's choices, the former by Ed Collins accounted for the final run.

Tom Chapman rocketed a double to start the sixth for Coach Larry Nomellini's team. Chapman moved up on a ground out and scored on a Steve Bobowski single. Then Carpenter got tough and struck out Bombicino to end the threat. The Lions' first baseman had had three straight hits.

Arlington's rally also had an innocent enough start. Jim Leoncio received a base on balls from starter Terry Smith. It was only the second walk he had issued, the first coming in the two-run third inning for Arlington.

Following a strikeout, Tony Fricano also walked. Dave Zare then singled in Leoncio and knocked Smith from the mound in the process. However, reliever Terry Moriarty found the going just as tough. He walked Dave Giles and then hit Carpenter in the foot to force in the second run of the inning.

Martin took over the pitching duties and fanned the next Post 208er. Then came the turning point in the game. Bert Newman hit a hot grounder to shortstop and Jim Bucaro threw it away for a very costly error which tied the game. A bases loaded walk to Broderick was the clincher.

A walk and an error put Carpenter in a jam in the top of the seventh. But the steady right-hander retired the next three batters for the win.

"I was pleased with Carpenter," said Meyer. "He's going to be all right."

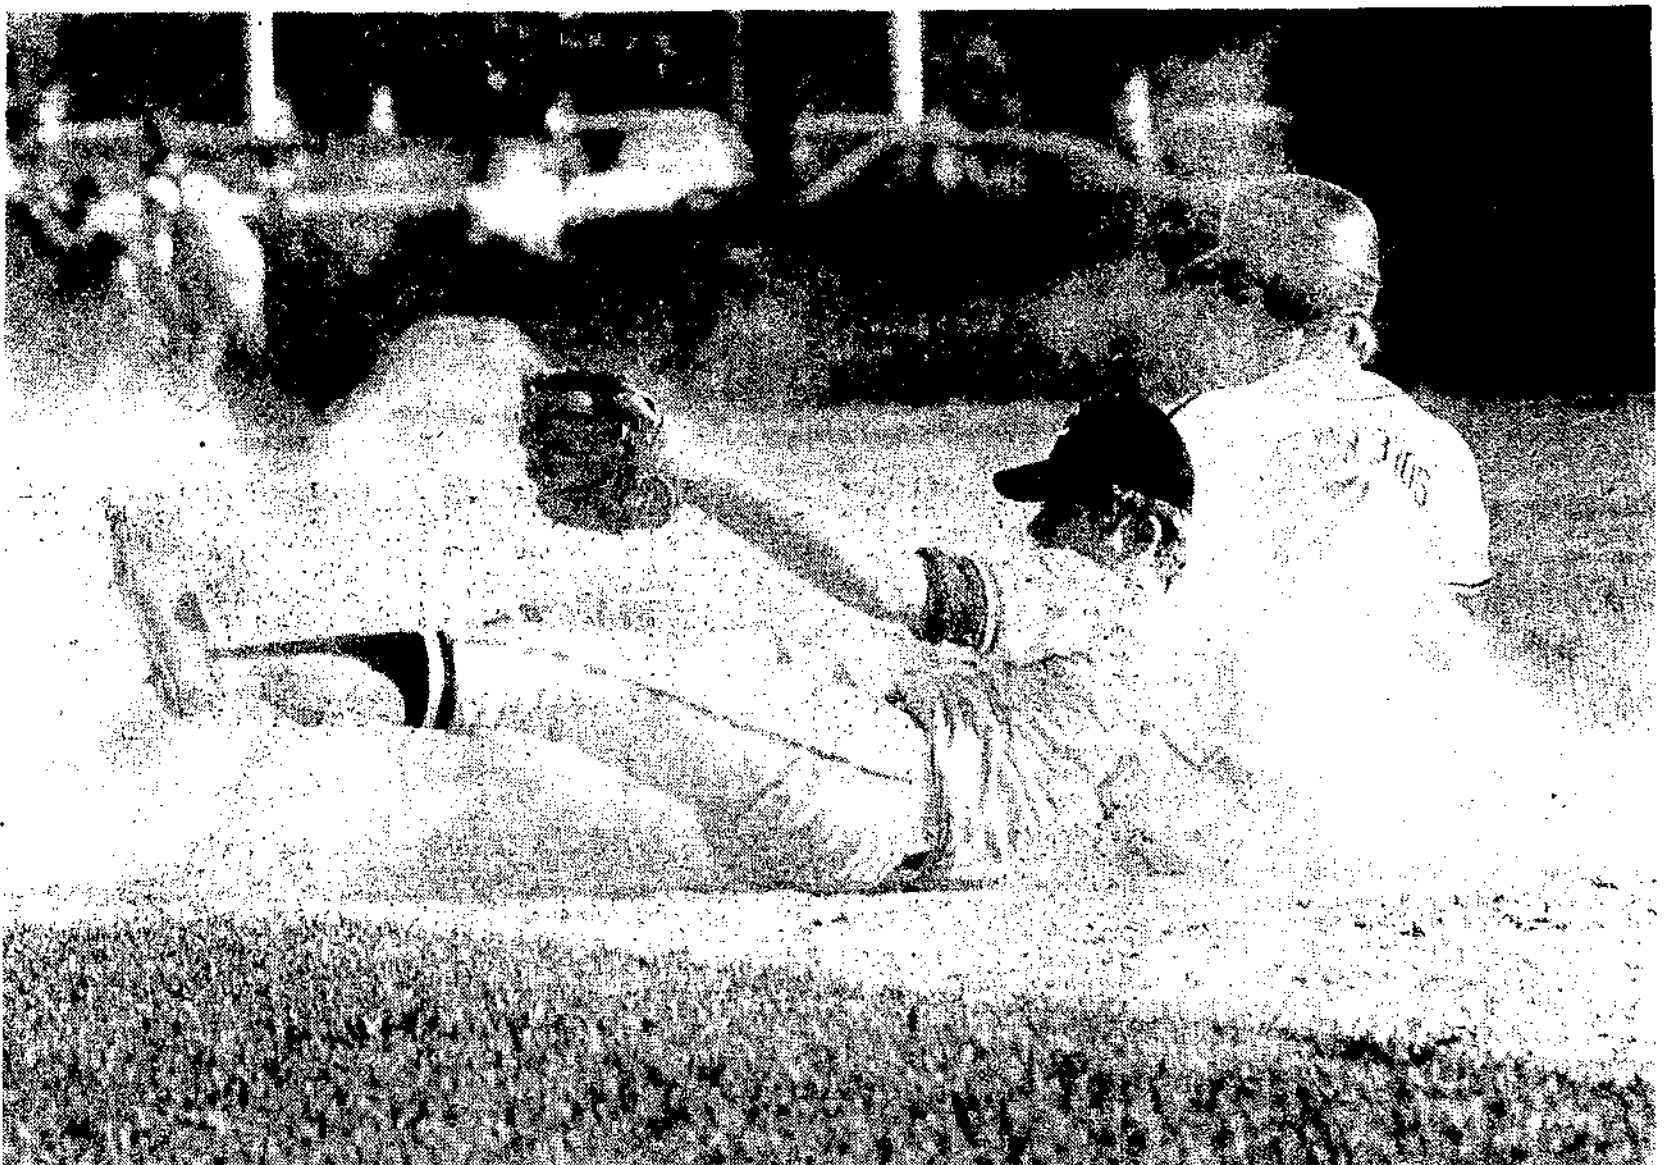

Arlington raced out in front in the third. Following an error and a sacrifice bunt, Newman singled in Jim Prandini. Newman stole second and scored on Broderick's single.

Then the comebacks began, this time Arlington coming out the winner. But two more league showdowns are to come for this old rivalry.

Johnson Hurls Second No-Hit Game

Most pitchers — from Midgets to Majors — spend a lifetime without the thrill of a no-hitter. Like a 300 game in bowling or a hole-in-one in golf, no-hitters are extremely rare gems.

For Gordy Johnson, hurler for Rolling Meadows' Northwest Summer League entry, no-hitters are rapidly becoming a staple in his weekly diet.

First on June 28 against Maine South and again Friday versus Elk Grove, Johnson has failed to issue a safety during incredible back-to-back no-hitters.

The 6-0, 180-pound mainstay of youthful Rolling Meadows' staff last spring, has developed a changeup to complement a blazing fastball and hard curve.

"He has real good stuff," his coach Al

Otto said. "When he keeps it over the plate, his fastball sinks when he keeps it low and sails when he's up above the waist."

"His change is something he recently developed. He didn't have it during the school season, but it's working fine for him and keeping the hitters off-stride."

Sandwiched between Johnson's jewels was — you guessed it — another no-hitter by teammate Carl Pedersen. The lefty stifled Addison Trail Thursday as Rolling Meadows upped its summer record to sparkling 8-2-1 status.

Against Elk Grove, Johnson exhibited pin-point control in only walking one while fanning five. "He averaged about a strikeout per inning pitched in high school," Otto added. "If he brings his control with him, we're in pretty good shape."

Meadows' 3-1 conquest afforded Johnson a 2-0 cushion after the first inning as Marc Klemp beat out a bunt single and Mike Saugling reached when his sacrifice was mishandled by Elk Grove pitcher Rick Eckardt, scoring Klemp. Saugling tallied moments later on a wild pitch.

The victors upped their margin to 3-0 in the sixth as Bruce Hanson singled after one out and Jack Lloyd parked a ground-rule double as his drive to left-center took one hop and bounced over the fence.

The only blemish on Johnson's record came in the Elk Grove seventh as Jeff Stewart was hit by a pitch, stole second and tallied on an error by the Mustang shortstop off Gary Adams' chopper.

Ridge Nips Palatine, 1-0; Then Loser Romps, 11-2

by LARRY EVERHART

It must have been hard for observers to believe that it was the same two baseball teams playing the second game of Saturday's doubleheader at Maine South that had met in the first game.

The two battles contrasted about as sharply as possible in American Legion Ninth District play between visiting Palatine and Park Ridge.

After the long day finally ended in ideal baseball weather, each team had added one win and one loss to their league records—Park Ridge taking a 1-0 squeaker in an eight-inning pitchers duel in the opener and Palatine roaring back to flatten the hosts 11-2 in the second game.

Palatine pulled a 180-degree about-face after being blanked on two hits on a superb job of hurling by Park Ridge's Scott Jones. (He had also edged Palatine 4-3 nine days earlier). George Pattee pitched a four-hit shutout for seven innings in that first game, but lost a heart-breaker.

In the nightcap, though, Palatine displayed none of the same difficulty in getting runs for John Ericson, who went the distance in a workmanlike six-hitter. Park Ridge paraded four boys to the mound and three were belted around hard, with only Craig Ciezadlo turning in a good stint in finishing up.

The results left the red-hot Ninth District ace just as simmering as before. Palatine became 6-5 in the league to Park Ridge's 6-4, but just a game and a half separated the top five clubs by Saturday night with four of them having the same number of victories.

For what it's worth, Palatine in the second game did the best job of any visiting team in the Ninth District's 35 games this summer to that point. The home team had won 25 of those 35 heading into a pair of Sunday tilts.

Jones was simply too tough in the opener, although he did walk four along with eight strikeouts. Palatine wasted a couple of good scoring chances — something it has done too much this season. Post 690 had the bases loaded with one out in the third inning before the next two batters struck out; then had men on second and third with two out in the fifth before a popup ended that frame.

Park Ridge's hits off Pattee were harmlessly scattered until the eighth, when three singles ended it. They were by Mark Rulle, Charlie Fahrner and the game-winner by Russ Anderson.

The visitors executed two double plays but could not capitalize on three Park Ridge errors.

Ironically, in the second game rout, each team had the same number of hits — six. But Palatine benefited from four more errors by Park Ridge plus nine walks.

Bill Arkus drove in three runs and Bruce Eberle two (they are the top RBI men on the team). Arkus slugged a triple and stole two bases and Gary Pemberton smashed a double.

Park Ridge collected four of its six hits off Ericson in the first inning, but got just one run out of it because two runners were forced out at the plate by the heads-up visitors.

The only other run for the hosts was unearned in the second, but Palatine had already exploded for six runs in the top of that inning.

Three consecutive walks loaded the bases with one out and then home plate started taking a beating as Dave Hauswirth, Arkus and Eberle singled and Pemberton doubled.

Palatine erupted again in the fourth for four more on only one hit, Arkus' triple. There were three walks and two errors in the same frame.

After that, it was a much more relaxing and enjoyable time for Post 690 than the first part of the afternoon had been.

Cardinal Netman Wins Title

John Paczkowski and Jeff Tabin, playing in the Des Plaines Open Tennis Tournament Saturday, captured the 16-year-old doubles title for boys.

The twosome defeated Ken McMahon and Don Kenak 6-3, 6-3 in the finals. Paczkowski and Tabin won their semifinal match against Mark Schneider and Pat Miller, 6-3, 2-6, 7-5.

Paczkowski, one of Arlington High School's budding net stars, narrowly missed sharing another championship — the 18-year-old doubles title. He and his fellow Arlington teammate Don Rodig lost 7-6, 6-3 to Dave Petchul and Bob Rosebraugh.

In singles action, here are the results: 18-year-old singles finals — Greg Russell beat Jon Powell 6-3, 6-3;

Lions Beat Palatine, 6-5 Enjoy Top Spot Briefly

by JIM COOK
Logan Square briefly tasted the top of the Ninth District Legion standings, but it only lasted for a day. The Lions outlasted a potent Palatine club, 6-5, Thursday to gain the top echelon distinction, but promptly surrendered the position to Arlington Friday.

Jim Bucaro was the man of the hour for Logan Square against Post 690. His drive to straightaway centerfield with pinch-runner Bob Foster aboard, snapped a tremendously competitive 5-5 deadlock in the last of the seventh.

Both Palatine and Logan Square had scratched and clawed for a five-spot apiece off starters Bill Arkus and Lion Mike Cook through five frames.

Palatine threatened in the sixth when Keith Steelman solved Logan Square reliever Terry Moriarty for a leadoff double, but Terry Smith came on, wiggled out of the jam, hurled an uneventful seventh and stuck around to pick up the decision.

Ed Collins opened the Lion seventh with a sharp single up the middle off Palatine reliever George Pattee before Foster came on as a pinch runner. The move was effective as Foster pilfered second while Bucaro missed an apparent bunt sign.

Moments later, Bucaro made amends by hammering a Pattee fastball on a line over the center fielder's head to easily power Foster around.

Until then, the contest was a seesaw affair with both teams aggressively battling to a standoff. Visiting Palatine jumped on top in the first frame on a Gary Pemberton double and back-to-back singles by Bruce Eberle and Arkus.

The Lions earned the game's initial tie in their half of the stanza when Steve Bobowski reached on a boot, advanced to second on an infield out and tallied on brother Stan's single to right.

Post 690 was back on the offensive in the second as a single by Steelman, a catcher's interference rap and successive base hits by John Erickson and Dave Hauswirth produced two tallies.

Host Logan Square knotted the score at three apiece in the third on a Ken Martin double, Steve Bobowski's single, a fielder's choice, Stan Bobowski's infield hit and a walk to Craig Zander before finally capturing the lead with another pair in the fourth.

Palatine's second error, Martin's hit up the middle, walks to the Bobowski brothers and Mike Garbus' timely opposite-field safety boosted the Lions ahead, 5-3.

Palatine refused to fold and parlayed singles by Hauswirth and Arkus sandwiched around Eberle's two-base rocket inside the line at third for the 5-5 stalemate.

Bucaro took things in his own hands in the seventh and upped Logan Square's record to 8-2. Palatine suffered its fifth setback against the same number of triumphs.

'Cats Capture Slugfest, 11-10

In a scorekeeper's nightmare, Wheeling outlasted Arlington in a Northwest Summer League game, 11-10, Thursday at the Wildcat diamond.

The Wilkents headed into the bottom of the fifth trailing 10-3. Thanks to seven hits, the 'Cats shocked the Cardinals for eight runs. Deadlocking the game was Jerry Geimer. He doubled in the ninth and 10th runs — Paul Groot and Ken Margalski.

Howie Brauer provided the clincher when he singled in John Cariberg.

Wheeling needed three pitchers to gain the victory. Gordon Nelson started, Gary Wennerstrom came on in the third and Bob Peter finished the seventh. With two Cardinals on base and nobody out, Peter struck out the next two batters and got the other on a popup to kill off the threat.

Arlington was helped to its seven-run third inning by Wheeling wildness. The first two Cards were walked and the next two were hit by pitches. And so, without swinging the bat they had scored a run and had the bases loaded.

John Dillon started for Arlington and was relieved in the fateful fifth.

Gregg Hauptly led the losers with a 3-for-3 day, including one double.

John Theriault and Peter both had three hits each, the latter accounting for three RBIs.

Prospect Rally Beats Hersey

Prospect used a six-run eruption in the fourth inning to ride to a 7-2 victory over hosting Hersey in Summer League action Friday.

Jim Dumke went the distance and pitched a four-hitter for the winners, while a trio of pitchers — Tom Good, Brian Nelson and Gary Gustafson — toiled for the Huskies.

Each club scored a run in the third inning. Prospect's came on Dumke's triple after a walk and Hersey's on an infield hit by Al Welchers following a single by Gary Hart and sacrifices by John Caruso and Good.

Prospect's big fourth saw a double by Val Graffiti, single by Jim Anderson, walk to Steve Mahanna, single by Mark Hartley, a hit batsman and two walks, and Graffiti's second hit of the inning, a two-run single.

Hersey added a consolation run in the sixth and a single by Welchers, wild pitch, single by John Kanelis and another wild pitch.

Both teams will be playing the next three days in a row. On Monday Prospect is at Fremd and Hersey at Barrington. Tuesday will find Prospect at Wheeling and Hersey entertaining Fremd. Wednesday's games will be Dundee at Prospect and Hersey at Wheeling.

Wheeling Romps

Wheeling, using the homer and double as its chief weapons, routed visiting Dundee in the first two innings and then coasted to a 9-3 Northwest Summer League victory Friday.

George Kaage lifted the Wildcats to a 3-0 lead in the first inning. After Bob Peter walked and Pat McGinn singled, Kaage homered.

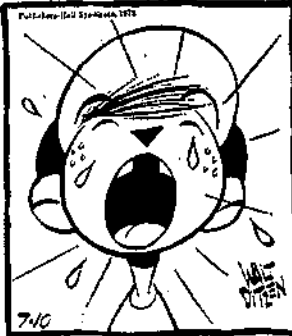

Five more scored the next inning. John Theriault singled, stole second and scored on a hit by McGinn. Kaage then walked and both scored on a Paul Groot double. Following an RBI single by Ken Margalski, Jerry Geimer doubled in Margalski.

The 'Cats pushed across one more insurance run for starter Peter. Theriault reached on an error, moved to second on Peter's walk and scored on McGinn's third straight single. Geimer also had a perfect day with 2-for-2.

Peter went the distance. He struck out seven and walked two.

If Park Ridge continues to perform the way it did Thursday, it could wind up in the same class as Riva Ridge.

Heading into the bottom of the seventh, hosting Ridge staged its stretch drive. Steve Sarcia led off with a single and moved into scoring position on a bunt by Scott Jones. After walking Parker, Arlington pitcher Jim Hopkins gave up a single to Bill Aimers to give the photo finish to Ridge. It was Aimers' second hit of the game.

The other hero besides Aimers, Jones and Sarcia, was Craig Ciezadlo. He mastered the first-place Heights team by allowing just three hits, striking out six and walking none. Ciezadlo also paced the attack with two hits.

Post 208 mounted its biggest threat in the fifth when Jim Locascio got to third on an error. He was cut down a short time later, however, after a fine defensive play by third baseman Anderson.

After one out in the seventh, Locascio singled. But Park Ridge rubbed him out on a double play.

Hopkins finished with seven strikeouts and two walks.

Park Ridge might not be labeled the favorite for defeating powerful Arlington, but it has to receive the "dark horse" nod.

Accept Applications For Equivalency Test

Applications for the high school equivalency tests will be accepted tomorrow from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. in room 437-counseling center, building A, at the Harper College, Algonquin and Roselle roads, Palatine.

Successful completion of the test entitles the applicant to receive a high school equivalency certificate, which may be valuable in fulfilling college entrance requirements or meeting educational standards for job placement or advancement.

Application is restricted to adults 19 years of age and over, presently living in Cook County who have not received a high school diploma. At least one year of residence in Illinois is also required.

The examination, known as the General Educational Development (GED) tests, requires three testing periods. These are scheduled for July 21, 22 and 23. A $5.00 fee paid at the time of application covers all sessions.

More information concerning the examinations is available from Superintendent Richard J. Martwick's office at 321-8726.

2 Win Chapman Scholarships

Brian Carley and Jenna Skarlat are recipients of State Rep. Eugenia S. Chapman's four-year scholarships.

Brian is a graduate of St. Viator High School, Arlington Heights, and lives at 123 S. Lancaster, Mount Prospect. He will attend the University of Illinois.

Jenna lives at 326 Suffolk Court, Hoffman Estates, and just graduated from Fremd High School in Palatine. She plans to attend Northeastern Illinois University.

The procedure by which Rep. Chapman gives her legislative scholarships begins with publicity in the papers, and alerting of the schools individually early in the spring. The third district high schools are then asked to narrow down their applications to two each. These are returned over to a committee of guidance counselors who know each applicant by a number only.

Each applicant must include a theme on his aspirations and background, along with records of achievement in high school and national test results.

STEEL PLANT RUINED — U.S. bombers wreck North Vietnam's only steel plant, near Hanoi, U. S. command announces. (5)

Education Office At 33 W. Grand

The Educational Service Region of Cook County moves from the Chicago Civic Center building to new quarters at 33 West Grand Avenue tomorrow.

The office will be officially open to the public from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. The new offices will be located on the 4th and 5th floors, and the present telephone numbers will remain the same.

The Educational Service Region serves suburban Cook County schools. General Educational Development applicants, and teachers applying for placement and certification.

The Doctor Says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — Is hypertension and high blood pressure the same thing? Is it a symptom or a disease? How high is too high? What could be the consequences of carrying a reading of 200/105 untreated for several months?

Dear Reader — Yes, hypertension and high blood pressure are the same thing. Tension refers to pressure and hyper, of course, means increased, hence increased pressure or high blood pressure.

A single elevated blood pressure reading should not be considered as a disease. It is a symptom. Single office readings like this may often represent merely the apprehension of the patient about his medical examination. Before it is assumed that a person has true hypertension, a number of readings need to be taken on different occasions. Sometimes the patient's blood pressure will subside to normal levels after he is in the doctor's office for 30 minutes or an hour. Often doctors take the blood pressure at the beginning of the examination and at the end to find out if the patient's pressure has dropped.

As these remarks would suggest, elevated pressure is a symptom. Sometimes it's caused by a problem in circulation to the kidneys (these are rare cases). Some authorities have amassed a large number of cases that are associated with endocrine problems involving the adrenal glands that rest over the kidneys.

Many cases of elevated blood pressure will return to normal values if the person simply loses any excess body fat that he may have. For this reason many good heart specialists insist that patients with moderately elevated blood pressure should lose fat before taking medicine. I agree with this concept. This has an added bonus since most of the complications of high blood pressure, including strokes and heart attacks, are related to the fatty deposits in the arteries. These deposits are increased in the presence of persistently elevated blood pressure.

WEIGHT REDUCTION decreases the amount of blood fat and prevents fatty deposits in the arteries and helps to prevent the complications of high blood pressure. Women, during their child-bearing years are less prone to have fatty deposits in their arteries than men and usually tolerate elevated blood pressure better than men. There is no absolute level of normal for blood pressure, but, in general, it shouldn't be more than 140/90 on repeated examinations over a period of time. There is some evidence to suggest that the lower the blood pressure the less likely there will be fatty deposits in the arteries and the less likely that strokes and heart attacks will occur.

I can't tell you what kind of problem will result from not treating a blood pressure of 200/105. It depends on what causes it and whether that's the persistent level of the blood pressure and the rest of the individual's medical status. I have frequently observed that with diet and adequate weight reduction many people develop normal pressure. Of course, if the person is already skinny, he'll have to use a different approach. In general, individuals who have elevated blood pressure would do well to at least cut down and preferably eliminate the use of added salt in their diet. This means not adding salt during cooking preparation and not adding salt at the table.

ELK GROVE PARK DISTRICT
Ordinance No. 36

PROVIDING FOR BORROWING MONEY AND ISSUING BONDS OF THE ELK GROVE PARK DISTRICT, COOK COUNTY, ILLINOIS, TO THE AMOUNT OF $125,000 FOR THE PURPOSE OF ACQUIRING ADDITIONAL LAND FOR PARKS AND IMPROVING PARKS AND PROVIDING FOR THE COLLECTION OF A DIRECT ANNUAL TAX FOR THE PAYMENT OF THE PRINCIPAL AND INTEREST OF SAID BONDS

WHEREAS, the Elk Grove Park District, Cook County, Illinois, is a duly organized and operating park district created under the provisions of the laws of the State of Illinois and has been maintaining parks for six years last past, and is now operating under the provisions of "The Park District Code" of the State of Illinois, approved July 8, 1947, as amended;

WHEREAS, the Board of Park Commissioners has heretofore determined and it is hereby determined that it is necessary and in the public interest that additional land be acquired for parks and other purposes for said District and that such additional land and other parks in the District be improved, maintained and protected for said District;

WHEREAS, this Board of Park Commissioners has heretofore determined and it is hereby determined that the cost of acquiring such additional land and the improving, maintaining same and other parks will not be less than $125,000 all in accordance with an estimate of the cost of such acquisition heretofore approved by the Board of Park Commissioners of said Park District and now on file in the office of the Secretary of said Park District;

WHEREAS, the Board of Park Commissioners finds that it does not have sufficient funds on hand for said purpose aforesaid, and that the cost thereof will not be less than the sum of $125,000, and that it is necessary and for the best interest of said Park District that it borrow the sum of $125,000 and issue bonds of said Park District therefor;

NOW, THEREFORE, Be it Ordained by the Board of Park Commissioners of the Elk Grove Park District, Cook County, Illinois, as follows:

Section 1. That there be borrowed by and for and on behalf of the Elk Grove Park District the sum of $125,000 for the payment of land condemned or purchased for parks and for the purpose of building, maintaining, improving and protecting the same and other parks in the District, and for the payment of expenses incident thereto, all as described here-inabove in the provisions of this ordinance. That to evidence said loan, negotiable coupon bonds of this Park District be issued. Said bonds shall be designated "Park Development Bonds," be twenty-five in number, numbered from 1 to 25, inclusive, of the denomination of $5,000 each, be dated July 1, 1972, and become due and payable on January 1 in each of the years and in the amounts and bearing interest as follows:

Serial Number, Both Inclusive	Principal Amount	Year of Maturity	Rate of Interest
1-5	$25,000	1973	4-1/2%
6-10	$25,000	1975	4-1/2%
11-25	$50,000	1976	4-1/2%

That such interest be payable on July 1, 1973, and semiannually thereafter on January 1 and July 1 in each year, and until maturity, and until maturity until said bonds are paid, which interest payments to date of maturity of principal shall be evidenced by proper interest coupons attached to each bond and maturing on the date hereof provided, and both principal and interest shall be payable in lawful money of the United States of America, and said bonds shall be signed by the President and Secretary of said Board of Park Commissioners and countersigned by the Treasurer thereof with the seal of said District affixed, and said coupons shall be signed by the President and Secretary, respectively, by their facsimile signatures, and said bonds and coupons when so signed shall be adopted as and for their respective proper signatures their respective facsimile signatures appearing on said coupons.

Section 2. That the bonds hereby authorized shall be subject to registration as to principal in the name of the holder upon the books of the Treasurer of said Board of Park Commissioners, such registration to be evidenced by notation of said Treasurer upon the back of such bonds so registered. No bond so registered shall be subject to transfer except upon such bonds and similarly noted on the back of the bond so registered, unless the first registration shall have been to bearer. Such registration of any of said bonds shall not, however, affect the negotiability of the coupons attached to said bonds, but such coupons shall continue transferable by delivery merely.

Section 3. That each of said bonds and each of the interest coupons to be thereto attached shall be in substantially the following form:

(Form of Bond)
UNITED STATES OF AMERICA
STATE OF ILLINOIS, COUNTY OF COOK
ELK GROVE PARK DISTRICT
PARK DEVELOPMENT BOND

KNOW ALL MEN BY THESE PRESENTS, that the Elk Grove Park District, in the County of Cook and State of Illinois, hereby acknowledges itself to owe and for value received hereby promises to pay to bearer, or to the order of the registered holder hereof, the sum of Five Thousand Dollars ($5,000) in lawful money of the United States of America on the first day of January, 1973, together with interest on said sum from the date hereof until paid at the rate of 4-1/2 per cent (4-1/2%), per annum, January and July in each year, and until maturity upon presentation and surrender of a direct annual tax, in addition to all other taxes, on all the taxable property in said Park District, to pay the interest hereon as come due and payable. Both principal hereof and interest hereon are payable at Bank of Elk Grove, in the Village of Elk Grove Village, Illinois, for the prompt payment of this bond, both principal and interest, as aforesaid, at maturity, the full faith, credit and resources of said Park District are hereby irrevocably pledged.

This bond is issued by said District for the purpose of paying for land to be condemned or purchased for parks and for building, maintaining, improving and protecting the same and other parks in the said District, and for the payment of expenses incident thereto, pursuant to and in all respects in compliance with "The Park District Code," of the State of Illinois, approved July 8, 1947, and all laws amendatory thereof and supplementary thereto, and an ordinance duly passed and published by the Board of Park Commissioners of the Elk Grove Park District.

And it is hereby certified and recited that all acts, conditions and things required by the Constitution and Laws of the State of Illinois, to exist, or to be done, previous to and in the issuance of this bond, have existed and have been properly done, happened and been performed in regular and due form and time as required by law; that the indebtedness of said Park District, including this bond, does not exceed any constitutional or statutory limitation; and that provision has been made for the collection of a direct annual tax, in addition to all other taxes, on all the taxable property in said Park District, to pay the interest hereon as the same falls due, and also to pay and discharge the principal hereof at maturity.

This bond is subject to registration as to principal in the name of the holder upon the books of the Treasurer of the Board of Park Commissioners of said Park District, such registration to be evidenced by notation of said Treasurer upon the back of such bonds so registered, and Treasurer, after which no transfer hereof, except upon such books and similarly noted hereon, shall be valid, unless the first registration shall have been to bearer. Registration of this bond will not affect the negotiability of the coupons hereof attached, which shall continue negotiable by delivery merely, notwithstanding registration hereof.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, The said Elk Grove Park District, Cook County, Illinois, by its Board of Park Commissioners, has caused this bond to be signed by the President and Secretary of said Board and countersigned by the Treasurer thereof, and has caused the corporate seal of said District to be affixed hereto, and the coupons hereof attached to be signed by said President and Secretary by their respective facsimile signatures, and said officers do, by the execution hereof, sign as and for their respective proper signatures their respective facsimile signatures appearing on said coupons, all as of the first day of July, 1972.

President, Board of Park Commissioners
Elk Grove Park District,
Cook County, Illinois

Secretary, Board of Park Commissioners
Elk Grove Park District,
Cook County, Illinois

(Form of Coupon)

On the first day of..... 1972, the Elk Grove Park District, in the County of Cook and State of Illinois, will pay to bearer, Dollars ($.....) at Bank of Elk Grove in the Village of Elk Grove Village, Illinois, for interest due that day on its Park Development Bond dated July 1, 1972, Number.....

S/ EDWARD R. HAUSER
President, Board of Park Commissioners
Elk Grove Park District,
Cook County, Illinois

Date..... Name of Registered Owner..... Board of Park Commissioners

Section 4. That for the purpose of providing the funds required to pay the interest on said bonds promptly when and as the same falls due, and to pay and discharge the principal thereof at maturity, there be and there is hereby levied upon all the taxable property within said Park District, in each year while any of said bonds are outstanding, a direct annual tax sufficient for that purpose, and that there be and there is hereby levied on all of the taxable property in said Park District, in addition to all other taxes, the following direct annual tax, to wit:

For the Year..... A tax sufficient to produce the sum of:
1972 $34,796.99 for interest and principal
1973 $35,093.75 for interest and principal
1974 $31,031.25 for interest and principal

That principal or interest falling due at any time when there are insufficient funds on hand to pay the same be paid promptly when due, from current funds on hand in advancement of the collection of taxes, and when said taxes shall have been collected, reimbursement shall be made to the said funds in the amount thus advanced.

That forthwith upon the passage of this ordinance a copy hereof, certified by the Secretary of the Board of Park Commissioners, which certificate shall recite that this ordinance has been passed by the Board of Park Commissioners of said Park District, and duly published according to law, shall be filed with the County Clerk of the County of Cook, who shall in and for each of the years 1972 and 1973, both years included herein, ascertain the rate per cent required to produce the aggregate tax here-inbefore provided to be levied upon the property in said Park District for each of said years, respectively, and extend the same for collection on the tax books in connection with other taxes levied in each of said years, respectively, in and by said Park District for general park purposes of said Park District, and each of said years, and the aggregate tax shall be levied and collected by said Park District in addition to and in excess of all other taxes now or hereafter authorized to be levied and collected by said Park District, and in like manner as taxes for general park purposes for each of said years are levied and collected, and when collected such taxes shall be used for the purpose of paying principal and interest upon the bonds heretofore described when same mature.

Section 5. That said bonds shall be executed as in this ordinance provided as soon after the passage hereof as may be, and shall be deposited with the Park District Treasurer, and after being countersigned by said Treasurer as provided by law by said Treasurer delivered to the purchaser thereof, namely, Bank of Elk Grove, upon payment of the purchase price therefor, heretofore agreed upon, the same being not less than the par value of said bonds, plus accrued interest to date of delivery and a premium of none contract for the sale of said bonds heretofore entered into and the same is hereby in all respects ratified and confirmed.

Section 6. That all ordinances, resolutions and orders, or parts thereof, in conflict with the provisions of this ordinance be and the same are hereby repealed.

Passed June 22, 1972.
Approved June 22, 1972.

quired for each of the above classes of sewer connections, and the Metropolitan Sanitary District, or its alterations or additions to an existing sanitary sewerage system. Each permit application shall be submitted, when applicable, with the following information: (a) Sanitary District plans and documents, or with forms provided by the Township when under their jurisdiction only.
All permit applications shall be supplied with plans, specifications, and additional information as required by the engineer.

(a) A plan review and inspection fee shall be paid to the township prior to issuance of the permit. In all cases, the fee shall be as follows:
(1) The fee for a single family dwelling building (or buildings) connecting to an existing main line sewer shall be fifty dollars ($50.00), which shall include a plan review, permit approval, and a final inspection of the work. If more than one inspection is required, an additional fee of fifteen ($15.00) per inspection shall be charged. A minimum amount of fifty dollars ($50.00) shall be paid for all other classes of sewer connections. (b) For multiple residential buildings, the fee shall be fifty dollars ($50.00) per building,
which shall include plan review,
permit approval, and a final inspection of the work. If more than one inspection of the work is required,
an additional fee of fifteen ($15.00) per inspection shall be charged. A minimum amount of fifty dollars ($50.00) shall
be paid for all other classes of sewer connections. (c) For industrial and commercial buildings, the fee shall
be fifty dollars ($50.00) per building,
which shall include plan review,
permit approval, and a final inspection of the work. If more than one
inspection of the work is required,
an additional fee of fifteen ($15.00) per
inspection shall be charged. A minimum amount of fifty dollars ($50.00) shall
be paid for all other classes of sewer connections. (d) For mobile homes, the fee shall be fifty dollars ($50.00) per building, which shall include plan review,
permit approval, and a final inspection of the work. If more than one
inspection of the work is required,
an additional fee of fifteen ($15.00) per
inspection shall be charged. A minimum amount of fifty dollars ($50.00) shall be paid for all other classes of sewer connections.

(b) For multiple residential buildings, the fee shall be
fifty dollars ($50.00) per building,
which shall include plan review,
permit approval, and a final inspection of the work. If more than one
inspection of the work is required,
an additional fee of fifteen ($15.00) per
inspection shall be charged. A minimum amount of fifty dollars ($50.00) shall
be paid for all other classes of sewer connections. (c) For industrial and
be fifty dollars ($50.00) per building,
which shall include plan review,
permit approval, and a final inspection of the work. If more than one
inspection of the work is required,
an additional fee of fifteen ($15.00) per inspection shall be charged. A minimum amount of fifty dollars ($50.00) shall
be paid for all other classes of sewer connections. (d) For mobile homes,
the fee shall be fifty dollars ($50.00) per
building, which shall include plan review,
permit approval, and a final inspection of the work. If more than one
inspection of the work is required,
an additional fee of fifteen ($15.00) per inspection shall be charged. A minimum amount of fifty dollars ($50.00) shall be paid for all other classes of sewer connections.

(c) For industrial and
be fifty dollars ($50.00) per building,
which shall include plan review,
permit approval, and a final inspection of the work. If more than one
inspection of the work is required,
an additional fee of fifteen ($15.00) per inspection shall be charged. A minimum amount of fifty dollars ($50.00) shall
be paid for all other classes of sewer connections. (d) For mobile homes,
the fee shall be fifty dollars ($50.00) per
building, which shall include plan review,
permit approval, and a final inspection of the work. If more than one
inspection of the work is required,
an additional fee of fifteen ($15.00) per inspection shall be charged. A minimum amount of fifty dollars ($50.00) shall be paid for all other classes of sewer connections.

(d) For mobile homes,
the fee shall be fifty dollars ($50.00) per
building, which shall include plan review,
permit approval, and a final inspection of the work. If more than one
inspection of the work is required,
an additional fee of fifteen ($15.00) per inspection shall be charged. A minimum amount of fifty dollars ($50.00) shall be paid for all other classes of sewer

ABC-TV Has Achieved Parity

by RICK DuBROW
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—ABC-TV, smallest of the major commercial television networks, is trying hard these days to get across the impression that it has finally achieved parity in ratings and quality with CBS-TV and NBC-TV. And, in fact, that's true.

The only thing is, however, that it is not the first time this has happened. But it does make a swell case for ABC-TV's relatively new top management team. And that new team is doing and planning things in a big way to drive home the idea that this time ABC-TV is for real, and that its executives are not just using it for a stepping stone to other positions such as production jobs in Hollywood.

There have been many things in the past for ABC-TV to boast of. But there's no denying a feeling of solidity is currently emerging that wasn't too noticeable before. And the network's plans for the coming season indicate it is going full steam ahead to build its image:

FOR EXAMPLE, in the works is a production of Eugene O'Neill's monumental autobiographical drama, "Long Day's Journey into Night," which will star Laurence Olivier and Constance Cummings.

In addition, says ABC-TV, Franklin and Eleanor Roosevelt will be the subject of a brief series of "dramatic productions" that would constitute six to eight hours of programming.

Besides these projects, ABC-TV has signed Jack Paar to do specials, and the network will introduce periodic after-school programs for children, something neither of its big competitors is doing.

ABC-TV is also giving veteran newsmen Harry Reasoner a weekly, Saturday night, dinnertime, 30-minute program of his own, in which he will employ a magazine format. The name of the series is "The Reasoner Report," and it is scheduled to bow in Feb. 24 at what will be its regular time, 6:30 p.m. EDT.

Finally, ABC-TV is allowing reviews—criticism—of its programs to be published in advance of their showing on the network. ABC-TV used to have an absurd policy of telling critics that advance reviews were all right so long as they were favorable—and of course a lot of critics simply decided that no pre-reviews were the best answer.

Long-Range Park Plans To Be Drafted

A steering committee has been formed to draft long-range proposals for the Elk Grove Park District.

The committee will draw up a rough outline of park district plans for the next five to 10 years. It will then seek to form a broad-based ad hoc committee that will consider the long-range plans in determining future park facilities and development.

Ed Hauser, president of the park board, said the park district wants to have the entire community represented in any plans the district would make.

"Let the citizens say what he wants," said Hauser.

The meeting was called by the park board. Sixteen citizens, representing various civic and special interest groups, responded to the board's invitation to attend.

THE STEERING committee is composed of eight people who attended the meeting and is headed by Jack McCormick of Elk Grove.

The park district will attempt to get representation from all civic, school and fraternal organizations plus representation from the village on a geographical basis for the ad hoc committee.

The ad hoc committee will be free to make any proposals as it sees fit. It will use the steering committee's recommendations only as guidelines.

Hauser repeatedly stressed that the park district will abide by any decisions that the ad hoc committee reaches, "even if they come back to us and say do nothing more than we have now planned."

THE PARK district has $125,000 earmarked for various projects including:

- installing underwater lights at Lions Pool.
- grading, draining, and seeding Disney Park.
- paving the parking lots at Lions and Disney parks.

- installing a sidewalk at Disney Park.

In 1971 the park district failed to pass two referendums. The board interpreted these failures as meaning the park district was not properly aware of the community's needs and desires. The board then decided to form the ad hoc committee.

No date was set for the steering committee to make its proposals or for the formation of the ad hoc committee.

A hearing for two Elk Grove Village residents arrested on drug charges was continued Wednesday in circuit court until Sept. 6.

Edward A. Seaman, 22, and Barbara Lynn Deutsch, 20, both of 634 Carol Sq., were arrested in their apartment in April and charged with possession of heroin, marijuana, syringes and dangerous drugs.

Elk Grove Village Police said they confiscated $7,000 to $8,000 worth of drugs in the raid conducted with officers of the Metropolitan Enforcement Group, a co-operative law enforcement unit of area police agencies.

Both persons were released on $8,000 bond each.

Board OKs Election Day Liquor Sales

Liquor may be sold in stores and taverns in Elk Grove Village on election day in November according to a new village ordinance passed Wednesday.

State law allows the sale of liquor on Sundays and election days if a municipality chooses to permit it.

Last week Village Pres. Charles Zettik said the law prohibiting the sale of liquor on election days was archaic and dated back to the time when saloons were used as polling places. He recommended passage of the ordinance.

In other action the board authorized payment of $46,700 from the village's motor fuel tax funds to Cook County in accordance with an agreement to share the cost of three traffic signals.

"STOLEN" ITEMS are displayed by Richard Jenness, turned into the school's lost-and-found in the past year principal of Holmes Junior High School. All items were and were never claimed.

'Lost And Found' Does Big Business

by FRED GACA

It's a scene repeated many times in the school year. Young son or daughter runs home, crying, "Mommy, mommy, someone stole my jacket." The parents get upset at the amount of stealing at the school and wonder why the principal does not do something about stopping the thefts.

The reason the principal does not do anything is that there is nothing to do anything about. All those "stolen" jackets, coats, pens, pencils, shoes, books and whatever were not stolen, they were misplaced or lost.

"It's just not true that there is an exorbitant amount of thievery going on in the school," said Richard Jenness, principal of Holmes Junior High School in Mount Prospect. "We cannot convince people the object was lost, misplaced or taken by accident. Most things taken by accident are returned."

In just the past school year alone, the lost-and-found at Holmes has collected, among other things 13 sweaters, 18 shirts, 21 assorted gloves, 18 assorted mittens, 35 hats and caps, eight pairs of glasses, three watches, one man's suit and even one pair of long underwear.

JENNESS ESTIMATED the value of this year's "collection" at $300 to $400. Anything not claimed by the end of the summer school session will be turned over to charity.

The growing amount of lost-and-found items is a problem at schools throughout Elk Grove Township Dist. 59. Bill Harner, principal of Salt Creek Elementary School in Elk Grove Village, said the school gives a "pretty good sized box" of items to charity at the Christmas break and again at the end of the school year when the lost-and-found is cleaned out.

Harner said, "Children use the phrase, 'It was stolen' as a shorter way of saying, 'I misplaced it or I lost it.'"

Harner said one mother came to him complaining that her daughter had three coats stolen. He brought the mother to the school's lost-and-found — all three "stolen" coats were there.

THE CHILDREN claim the items were stolen, rather than admit they lost them, to escape being blamed for their carelessness.

Don Heitzman, principal of Forest View Elementary School, said some of the items turned into the school's lost-and-found have more than just a monetary value. He has sent beautiful hand-knitted gloves, obviously made especially for the child, to charity. "It's a shame, some of the things are really nice, but not too many parents get too nervous about things being lost," said Heitzman.

Jenness said the lost-and-found problem would be greatly reduced with "a lot more cooperation and support from the parents."

School officials said there were two things parents could do to cut down the "stolen" problem. First, all items that a child wears or carries to school should be clearly marked with the child's full name.

Second, parents should insist that the child try looking in the lost-and-found rather than just saying someone stole the article. Parents, themselves, are welcome to look through articles in the lost-and-found at any time.

Jenness also asked that parents do not quickly replace lost articles. "If replacements were not easy in coming, the kids would be more responsible."

The Nation

Democratic national chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien ruled that 120 California delegates committed to Sen. George S. McGovern will be eligible to vote in a key test that could determine McGovern's chances for the nomination... After the party's credentials committee stripped McGovern of 151 of the 271 California votes he won in the state's winner-take-all primary, there had been some question whether anyone from a challenged delegation would be able to vote on a challenge involving his state.

Armed with about 200 "swing" votes, Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine came under growing pressure to throw his support to Sen. George McGovern in tonight's all-important convention showdown over California.

Responding to a list of foreign policy questions, McGovern said he believes that President Nixon will continue the same policies that led to U.S. involvement in Vietnam even if he succeeds in ending the Indochina War.

The trial of Daniel Ellsberg and codefendant Anthony J. Russo opens today in the Pentagon Papers case after weeks of pretrial maneuvering. Jury selection is expected to last at least a week.

Scientists and amateur astronomers will be watching today as a total eclipse darkens the sun from Siberia east along a narrow strip of northern Alaska and Canada to the Atlantic Ocean. In the rest of the U.S. the eclipse will range from 90 per cent total in Boston, to 14 per cent total in San Francisco.

Dunne Reassigns Controversial Wheel Tax Money

by ROGER CAPETTINI

A major factor in the law suit challenging the Cook County wheel tax may have been eliminated from future consideration Friday when County Pres. George W. Dunne announced the revenue from the tax would be earmarked for the sheriff's department.

Dunne made the announcement during a rescheduled county board meeting Friday after the board heard the protests of a taxpayers group opposed to the controversial tax.

About 75 county residents from Rich, Bloom, Thornton and Bremen townships, represented by the South Cook County Taxpayers Protest Association, appeared at the meeting.

The wheel tax, enacted by the county board in late December, is similar to what is commonly called the "vehicle sticker" tax in 123 of the 126 villages and cities in Cook County.

THE TAX originally was to have taken effect early in the year, but the deadline was extended several times by the county board. For most automobiles, the tax would be $10 to $15. Rates for trucks are computed on a sliding scale.

As the vehicle tax effective within the incorporated municipalities applies to only residents of the respective communities, the Cook County tax applies only to residents of unincorporated areas.

That aspect of the tax represents a major objection voiced by residents of the unincorporated areas, and is one of the major points raised in a class action suit challenging the tax ordinance.

In April a suit was filed on behalf of the Prospect Heights Improvement Association (PHIA) and the Cook County School Bus Co., Inc., of unincorporated Elk Grove Township.

The suit challenges the constitutionality of the tax in that the tax applies only to residents of unincorporated area — a discriminatory application, according to the suit.

THOSE OPPOSED to the tax have also objected on the grounds that when the tax was adopted by the county board, it was specified that the revenues gained from the tax would be placed into the county's general corporate fund. Monies in that fund are used county-wide — both in incorporated and unincorporated areas.

At the time of adoption, County Comr. Floyd T. Fulle of Des Plaines voted against the tax because he said he believed placing the revenue in the corporate fund was unconstitutional.

At Friday's board meeting, Dunne heard objections to the tax from several spokesmen from the south suburban protest group, who repeated the objections mentioned in the suit and complained about the lack of services they receive. The complaints centered on the service from the county highway department and the sheriff's department.

Spokesmen for the group said they were not completely opposed to the tax, but said if it stands, it should be applied to everyone in the county and the revenue derived should be used only for the unincorporated areas. They also objected to the amount of the tax.

In answer to their objections Dunne said he would instruct the county comptroller to establish a special fund for the money gained from the tax. Dunne said the money will be earmarked exclusively for the sheriff's department.

THE COUNTY board president said that while original estimates of the revenues from the tax approximated $1.4 million, latest calculations indicate the county will receive only about $600,000.

Dunne was quick to point out that because of the suit, all revenues currently being received as a result of the tax are being placed into an escrow account, pending the outcome of the pending litigation.

Dunne explained that if the tax is upheld by the county circuit court, the money will be placed in the special account. If the tax ordinance is ruled illegal, he said, the money will be returned to those residents who have paid the tax. He could offer no explanation as to what, if any, effect an overturning of the ordinance might have on persons who have been fined for not paying the tax.

Dunne's decision to earmark the funds for use only in unincorporated areas could have a significant effect on the court case. The only major question that would remain to be answered apparently would be that of determining if the county legally can apply a tax to certain geographic segments of its jurisdiction.

EDWARD BERMAN, the attorney representing the PHIA in the suit, said Friday Dunne's decision "may change the case." Berman, when told of the announcement by the Herald, said, "I am pleasantly surprised by this new revelation." He added, however, "Whether Dunne can do this retroactively, I don't know."

WORK CONTINUES at the Arlington Indoor Tennis Club in Palatine, owned by Jordon H. Kaiser, who also has principal interest in the new Chicago Cougars of the World Hockey Association where various sporting events are played under a single roof.

Kaiser Eyes Northwest Suburban Area

by DOUG RAY

There he sat in a makeshift house trailer on the Zayre parking lot in Palatine, the man who holds the purse strings of Chicago's newest professional hockey franchise — the Chicago Cougars of the World Hockey Association (WHA).

Between sips of coffee from a styrofoam cup, financier Jordon H. Kaiser talked about his newly developed interest in hockey as well as his perennial love of tennis, which may be dearer to his heart if not his pocketbook.

"Tennis is in its infancy," he said.

"The game is losing some of the white-glove, country club image," helping it to gain acceptance by a broader public.

The 49-year-old former engineer is banking on the upsurge of the sport. Already under construction on Northwest Highway across from Arlington Park Race Track is the Kaiser-owned Arlington Indoor Tennis Club, with other similar projects for the Chicago area and throughout the state on the drawing board.

"TELEVISION HAS made the sport... you can see professional and amateurs now, and families are beginning to play the game as a group year round," he added.

Kaiser has what he calls a "supermarket of sports" under consideration in the suburbs to allow persons to participate in several sporting events in the same building. The Arlington Indoor Tennis Club and its related roller rink and ice rink is the pilot endeavor. All the facilities will be under a single roof.

"It's like a car dealer," he said, where if you want to buy a car the dealers are on the same street. You have the convenience of parking and shopping in the same general area.

The Arlington Indoor Tennis Club courts will be air conditioned for year-round use.

"When people learn about a sport, they want to participate all the time," he said.

The avid interest in sports led Kaiser into the financial deal which made him the principal owner of the Chicago Cougars hockey team. The team will play its first games at the Amphitheater in Chicago this fall under a two-year lease.

"I didn't know too much about hockey," the Glenview resident admits. "But this Chicago franchise is the key to the new league." He said the team nearly moved to San Francisco until he provided stable financing to the franchise.

"WE'RE INTO the new league for the long haul," he continued. He called the finances of the team's owners "unlimited."

Several years ago Kaiser held interests in bowling alleys in Chicago, but sold out when he felt the game was losing its following. He then began to construct apartment buildings in the suburbs, as well as shopping centers in Palatine and Rolling Meadows.

Jordon Kaiser

The Zayre parking lot and discount store is owned by Kaiser. His firm constructed the shopping center south of Kirchoff Road in downtown Rolling Meadows.

His endeavor into tennis courts and related sports under the same roof is appropriately named Sports Centers International, and "the purpose is to provide a total sports package," he said.

AND IF THE total sports package becomes a reality, local residents may look forward to a hockey stadium for Kaiser's Cougars somewhere in the Northwest suburbs. He owns various parcels of land here.

But just north of the trailer from which Kaiser spoke, there is a vacant lot which he owns, a lot large enough for a giant hockey arena.

SIMON KAMALI, 15, right, chats with his sister about the differences between the United States and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Hakimian, and his native Iran. Simon has come to this country to continue his education, and he is looking for an American family with which to live.

Finds School In U.S. Easier

Iranian Student Compares Country

by LYNN ASINOFF

Fifteen-year-old Simon Kamali thinks school in this country is easy, but he wishes all the classes were taught in Persian. Simon is an Iranian who has come to this country to finish his high school education and go to college.

"When I was in Persia, I had 23 subjects in one week," Simon said. "Can you believe that? They give you just a little bit of everything."

Schools in Iran are also more competitive, Simon explained. There are a limited number of colleges, so only the best students are encouraged to continue their educations.

"I insisted that Simon come here," said Simon's sister, Mrs. Denny Haki-mian, "because here the school was better than back there."

ALTHOUGH SIMON studied English for six years in his country, he finds that his study is only equivalent to one year of foreign language in this country. Now he is trying to catch up on his English so he can understand his classes at Wheeling High School and take part in extracurricular activities.

"I spend most of my time studying English," Simon said. "That's my big problem."

Simon thinks he would learn English more quickly if he were living with an American family, where he would have to speak English every day. Currently he is living with his sister and brother-in-law, who have been in this country for 11 years.

"We speak our own language at home," brother-in-law Ben Hakimian said. "If he was in another home, his progress would be much, much faster. I know because I went through the same thing myself."

SIMON WOULD LIKE to live with an American family, especially if there were teenage children. He said it would make it easier to learn about American customs.

Surprisingly, however, Simon said there were really few differences between the cultures of the two countries. "Iran is a very Westernized country," Mrs. Hakimian translated for Simon.

"But people over here don't realize it because they don't hear much about it."

For example, American movies and rock music are very popular in Iran, and Simon is a big fan of both. He does find American food much "simpler" than Iranian food. "There are more gourmet dishes over there," Mrs. Hakimian said.

In his five months in this country, Simon hasn't done much traveling. He's seen Chicago and thought it was nice. But right now he's more interested in learning about Americans from the inside out. Right now he's looking for a family. Anyone interested in providing a home for Simon should call American Field Service Representative Betty Kerr at 541-4119.

Board To See Salary Study Proposals

The High School Dist. 214 Board of Education will consider proposals from six consultants for a study of administrative salaries in the district at its meeting today.

The board will meet at 8 p.m. in the administration building, 799 W. Kensington Rd., Mount Prospect.

The proposals from the consultants were first presented to the board at its last meeting. The board has been discussing the possibility of hiring a consultant to study administrative salaries and evaluation procedures for the last several months.

The proposals from the consultants range in cost from $10,000 to $21,000 depending on the firm and what services are included in the price, according to Supt. Edward Gilbert.

ONCE THE BOARD hires a consultant, Gilbert said, they could expect the study to be completed by November.

Also on the agenda for today's meeting is consideration of a policy change in the district's pass-no credit grading option. For the past year, students have been allowed to choose whether they want to receive a grade for a class or simply receive a "pass" for satisfactory work and no credit for unsatisfactory work.

The policy change to be recommended today will allow a student to change the grading option after a course begins. This year students were not allowed to change their option once a class had started.

Buffalo Grove Creek Retention Lake Meet Set

Representatives from eight agencies interested in seeing a $2,100,000 retention lake built on Buffalo Grove Creek will meet Thursday to find out why progress on the project has been delayed.

The public meeting is set for 9 a.m. in the Buffalo Grove Village Hall.

Attending the conference will be representatives from Buffalo Grove, Wheeling, Long Grove, Vernon Township, Lake Zurich, Northeastern Illinois Plan Commission, the Soil Conservation District and the Metropolitan Sanitary District (MSD).

The meeting was called by Clarence Pontius, Vernon Township supervisor, and the MSD flood control division.

THE RETENTION lake is first on Buffalo Grove's list of priorities, according to Village Mgr. Dan Larson. He said the village has been working on the plan since 1967 and has exerted additional pressure on the agencies involved to get started on the 43,560 cubic foot basin since last March.

Larson said the MSD Board of Trustees authorized its engineers to negotiate plans for the lake with the Lake County Forest Preserve District three months ago. A change in the Lake County Board of Supervisors has been given as the reason for the delay in talks.

The proposed 150-acre site, almost all of it in Lake County, is west of Arlington Heights Road and south of Checker Road. The area is presently farm land.

The approximate cost of acquiring the land for the project is estimated at $1,800,000. Construction costs are expected to amount to $300,000, with the MSD paying about half.

PLANS CALL FOR the site to be developed by the Forest Preserve District as a park-type area surrounding the retention lake. The full capacity of the lake would probably only be used once or twice a year during heavy rainfalls.

Larson said the Buffalo Creek retention lake would permit all of the village east of Arlington Heights Road to drain much faster after a heavy rain. Currently, rain water follows a course from as far west as Lake Zurich and travels through the village. He added time is of the essence in starting the project because the property could be annexed and developed any time.

At an exploratory meeting last April to discuss plans for the retention lake, John E. Egan, MSD president said: "The project will result in significant reduction in flood damages downstream in Buffalo Grove and Wheeling, and some unincorporated areas, as well as decreasing health hazards and inconveniences. In addition, recreation and open-space benefits of the site would accrue to the residents of Lake County," Egan added.

Pool Attendance, Revenues Increase

With the coming of summer, attendance increased at Wheeling Park District's Neptune's Pool. June attendance increased by 333 persons over the May figure of 2,426.

Paid attendance also went up, from 1,347 in May to 1,482 in June. As a result, cash receipts for paid swimmers totaled $80 more than the $896.25 received in May.

Revenue from the first session of swimming lessons brought in an additional $719.74 for 173 people.

At the same time, the pool was open for 139.5 hours in June, 31.5 hours more than the May figure. Money paid to recreation and maintenance personnel increased $513.96 in June.

The average cost per hour for operating the pool in June was $12.01, an increase of $1.14 from the May figure.

Park Board OKs Tax Warrant Payment

The Wheeling Park District Board of Commissioners authorized payment of a $101,906.25 tax anticipation warrant at its meeting Thursday night.

It will be the second payment on a $200,000 loan granted by the Wheeling Trust and Savings Bank in anticipation of taxes to be collected. Approximately $50,000 of the loan remains to be paid, and this money has been invested until it is needed by the district.

In other action, the board voted to post signs in Heritage Park stating, "No motor driven vehicles permitted." The signs are designed to keep mini-bikes and motorcycles out of the park.

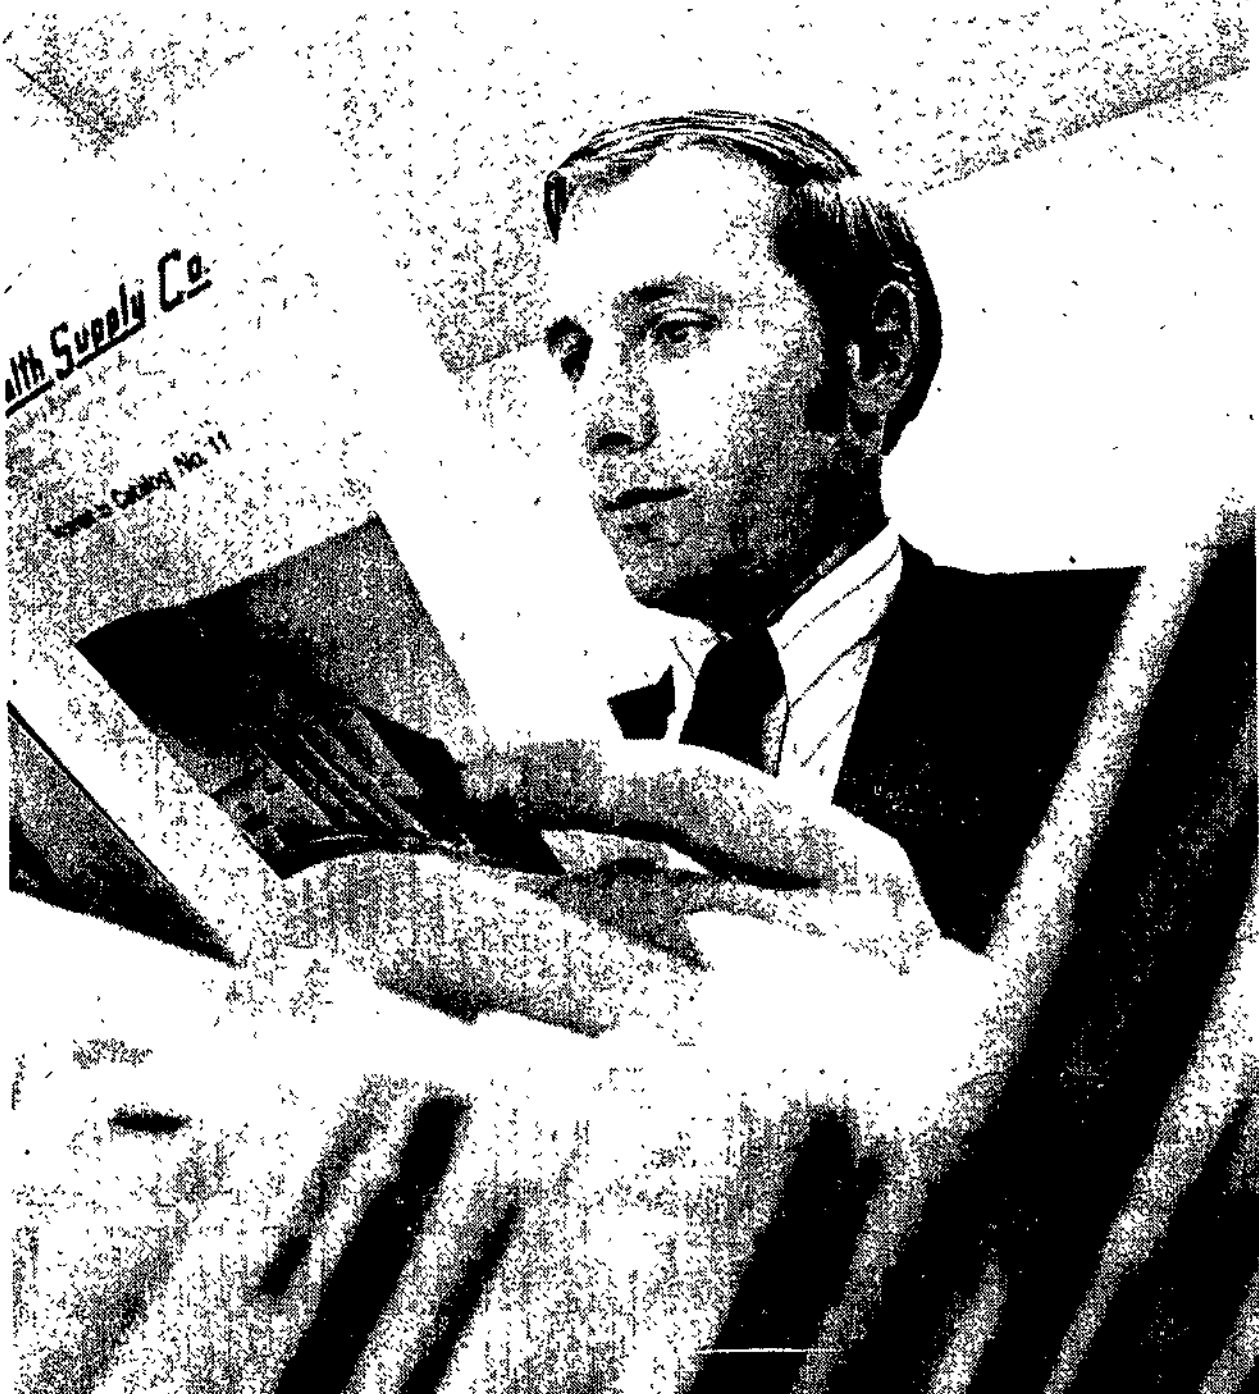

The board also granted Park Director Dave Phillips a $75 a month transportation allowance. Phillips had been paid according to his mileage, which averaged 250 miles each week. The new arrangement will decrease Phillips' paperwork.

Two more applications for superintendence of recreation have been received by the board. They will be considered at a later date.

Budget Hearing Set For Tonight

The School Dist. 96 Board of Education will have a public hearing to approve its 1972-73 budget at 8 tonight.

Following the public hearing the board will hold its regularly scheduled monthly meeting. Both events will be in Supt. William Hiltzeman's office at Kildeer Country School in Long Grove.

GETTING familiar with the Dist. 21 files is Business Mgr. James Gochis

Gochis Says School Dist. 'Pleasant'

When James Gochis summed up his feelings about School Dist. 21 as a place to work, he used one word — "Pleasant."

The 34-year-old Gochis said it was the pleasant atmosphere of the district that made him accept the job as business manager. He said the school board as well as other administrators in Dist. 21 are down to earth people "who don't put up false fronts."

"It seems like people in this district will be easy to work with," said Gochis. "They seem to be open to suggestions and are very cost conscious."

GOCHIS, an Arlington Heights resident, first learned about the Dist. 21 opening through a trade magazine. He saw the ad for several months but never bothered to look into it because he felt he was too young.

"I thought an established district like 21 would be seeking an older man with more experience in the area of school management," he explained. "However, since the district was in my backyard I decided to at least call and see the salary range."

Gochis said when he called he spoke with John Barger, assistant superintendent of Dist. 21, and was talked into coming to the district for an interview.

At the time Gochis was the assistant business manager with Niles Township High School Dist. 219.

"I'D ONLY been with Dist. 219 for eight months and I really wasn't sure if I should leave — but here I am. As soon as I met Ken Gill (Dist. 21 superintendent)

Residents 'Shell-Shocked'

A personal report from the flood-stricken regions of South Dakota, especially those areas around Rapid City, indicates residents are still shell-shocked from the June disaster.

The observation comes from the Rev. Jim Berndt, Hoffman Estates. Rev. Berndt, his wife, Marlene and son Bruce, went to South Dakota to assist the stricken residents and also to conduct "drive-in" religious services in Spearfish, S.D. on Sunday mornings. The services are held from 9:45 a.m. to 11 a.m. between July 9 and Aug. 13.

"Now that the shock of the flood is over, the most difficult days may be ahead for many people who are now becoming very depressed," Rev. Berndt said.

The pastor tells of the Oscar Cable family of Riverdale, S.D.

HE SAID the "Cables spent the night on a neighbor's roof with their dog, 'Twinkle', to save their lives, hoping and praying the house they were on would not give way as many houses did break away from their foundations and take their foundations and their families to destruction.

"Mr. Cable told how the lightning would streak across the sky and he and his wife would see bodies, pets, houses, cars and all manner of debris floating by them."

Rev. Berndt said the Salvation Army has been quite effective in lending aid and comfort to the homeless residents.

Law To Form Environment Unit

An ordinance to create an environmental advisory commission will be reviewed tonight by the Wheeling Village Board at its weekly meeting.

The village has been working on an environmental control ordinance since it was proposed during the local elections in the spring of 1971. Several times proposed ordinances have been sent back to committee for further study on local pollution problems and on the most desirable make-up for the commission.

THE COMMISSION created by the ordinance would study local pollution problems and advise corporate authorities of ways and means of combatting local conditions contributing to pollution.

Other items scheduled for tonight's meeting include the annexation and rezoning of property at 745 McHenry Rd., and the annexation of land south of Hintz Road and west of Cornell Street.

The trustees are scheduled to meet in executive session to discuss personnel matters. At 7:30 p.m. the board members are scheduled to have a meeting of the finance committee to approve the monthly warrants to pay bills.

Dunne Says Wheel Tax Revenue Goes To Sheriff's Dept.

THOSE OPPOSED to the tax have also objected on the grounds that when the tax was adopted by the county board, it was specified that the revenues gained from the tax would be placed into the county's general corporate fund. Monies in that fund are used county-wide — both in incorporated and unincorporated areas.

At the time of adoption, County Comr. Floyd T. Fulle of Des Plaines voted against the tax because he said he believed placing the revenue in the corporate fund was unconstitutional.

At Friday's board meeting, Dunne heard objections to the tax from several spokesmen from the south suburban protest group, who repeated the objections mentioned in the suit and complained about the lack of services they receive. The complaints centered on the service from the county highway department and the sheriff's department.

Spokesmen for the group said they were not completely opposed to the tax, but said if it stands, it should be applied to everyone in the county and the revenue derived should be used only for the unincorporated areas. They also objected to the amount of the tax.

In answer to their objections Dunne said he would instruct the county comptroller to establish a special fund for the money gained from the tax. Dunne said the money will be earmarked exclusively for the sheriff's department.

THE COUNTY board president said that while original estimates of the revenues from the tax approximated $1.4 million, latest calculations indicate the county will receive only about $600,000.

Dunne was quick to point out that because of the suit, all revenues currently being received as a result of the tax are being placed into an escrow account, pending the outcome of the pending litigation.

Dunne explained that if the tax is upheld by the county circuit court, the money will be placed in the special account. If the tax ordinance is ruled illegal, he said, the money will be returned to those residents who have paid the tax. He could offer no explanation as to what, if any, effect an overturning of the ordinance might have on persons who have been fined for not paying the tax.

Dunne's decision to earmark the funds for use only in unincorporated areas could have a significant effect on the court case. The only major question that would remain to be answered apparently would be that of determining if the county legally can apply a tax to certain geographic segments of its jurisdiction.

EDWARD BERMAN, the attorney representing the PHIA in the suit, said Friday Dunne's decision "may change the case." Berman, when told of the announcement by the Herald, said, "I am pleasantly surprised by this new revelation." He added, however, "Whether Dunne can do this retroactively, I don't know."

The suit challenging the tax is scheduled to resume July 21 in Judge Raymond S. Sarnow's courtroom at the Civic Center.

TWENTY-FOUR VISITING American Field Service students received a grand tour of the Wheeling Municipal Building Friday. The students were rounding out a three-day visit in the area as part of their "bus stop tour" of the United States before heading back to their native countries next week.

Jail Highlight Of Tour

Foreigners Get An 'Inside View'

Twenty-four American Field Service (AFS) students and some of their temporary families invaded the Wheeling Municipal Building Friday, and several found themselves in jail.

Three of the students inadvertently locked themselves inside a jail cell while touring the police department. The AFS visitors thought it was the highlight of the tour — one of several they have taken in the past few days.

The students, who come from Australia, Japan, Micronesia and New Zealand, were rounding out a three-day stay in the area as part of their "Bus Stop Tour" of the United States. While in the area the students were housed with families in Wheeling, Buffalo Grove, Arlington Heights, Prospect Heights and Northbrook.

THE TOUR started Wednesday night when the AFS students arrived in the area. Although they had spent the past year in different parts of the United States, many had taken part in the same orientation session when they first arrived in this country last year.

Their trip to Chicago Thursday had a reunion air as old friends shared new experiences while visiting the Field Museum, Chinatown and Old Town.

"Some of them have been in Chicago before," said Mrs. Hugh Sommerfeld, secretary of the Wheeling High School AFS chapter. "But they weren't on a tour. Their 'parents' brought them."

The students also toured the Kitchens of Sara Lee in Deerfield, and several made use of free time to visit Woodfield Mall Center and some local stores.

On Friday night, the students gathered for a family picnic at the Circle M Day Camp, 98 Hintz Rd., before heading to Grafton, Wis., Saturday.

The students will visit briefly in San Francisco before boarding planes for home. Eighteen-year-old Taka Mori of Truk, Micronesia, said he's anxious to get home. "I miss the food. 'You can't get raw tuna in this country.'"

2 Amvets Posts Win High Honors Following Convention

Two Amvets posts in Wheeling and Buffalo Grove received high honors after the recent state convention.

Phillip Carpenter Post 66 Amvets and Auxiliary won the state's top Amvets honor, the Governor's Award, for outstanding work in community service, child welfare, hospital work and Americans.

Post 66 also won first place in "Serve Our Servicemen," second place in child welfare and third in publicity.

Albert Emmerich Memorial Post 255

auxiliary won three awards. Auxiliary President Shirley Kanoles won an "auxiliary member of the year" award, an essay entered by Kendra Martin, (a student at Joyce Kilmer School) won second place, and the Post 255 entry in the Josephine Leonardo Individual Community Service award won.

Post 255 had entered the name of Clarice Rech as an outstanding community member who was not a member of the post auxiliary.

MRS. RECH, a nurse, was selected because of her work with several community organizations, including the Nurses Club, the pre-school vision and screening program for Dist. 21, Louisa May Alcott School PTA, the Learning center at Alcott and several community ecology programs.

Michael G. Zemaitis, the Post 66 entry in the Americanism poster contest, won a third place certificate at the convention.

Frank Rannie was honored with the Post Amvets Member Trophy for his outstanding work in Post 66. Marge Rannie, president of Amvets Auxiliary 66, was appointed public relations officer for the state organization, and won second place award for Auxiliary Member of the Year.

Post 255 auxiliary also won an award of merit in the Americanism contest.

Other awards which went to Post 255 include a special membership plaque, a 100 per cent membership award, and individual awards to Paul Raihel Jr. and William Precht for 100 hours of service each at Downey Hospital.

No Landfill Near Buffalo Grove?

Studies Hold Up Environmental Panel

Landfill studies by both Harza Engineering Co. and the village administration are holding up completion of a sanitary landfill study by the Arlington Heights Environmental Control Commission (ECC).

While the Harza engineers have completed their preliminary study, problems in obtaining accurate tests of the density of the landfill are holding up the final draft. The village is in the midst of a study of land to the west of the current landfill as possible expansion sites.

A village study of the land to the west will attempt to determine how much land, if any, is available for use as a landfill. Anticipated life of additional landfill area will also be determined.

"We are not studying the land to the east because it is very close to Buffalo Grove and we would expect many complaints. The price for the land is outrageous and Kennicott Road will eventually cut the land to the east from the present landfill," said L. A. Hanson, village manager.

"By July 24 we hope to have a well-established rough draft with summary and conclusion pages," said Ronald Patun, chairman of the incinerator subcommittee. The report was originally scheduled for completion last spring.

AFTER THE incinerator committee makes its report to the entire commission, changes and further revisions are expected. According to ECC Chairman Edward Kakkelenberg, the ECC will probably submit its final report to the board of trustees by the end of the summer.

In January, the village administration submitted a solid waste disposal report to the board, which included a recommendation that an incinerator be used to solve the solid waste disposal problem in the village.

The Harza landfill study, which will cost the village about $7,000, is expected to be completed in the next few weeks. Density testing should be finished by the first of next week, according to Ramon S. LaRusso, project head.

Density tests already taken have recorded densities of over 1,200 pounds per cubic foot. According to American Solid Waste System, that density test would mean Arlington Heights has "the most in-place compacted landfill in the world."

Even Harza engineers question the figures and are planning a different method of testing for density next week.

"I think we will find density up to the range we have been finding, even with different equipment," said La Russo.

"But I think we are simply recording the density which is soaked with water, and therefore more dense than expected."

IN A PRELIMINARY report, issued June 7, Harza engineers said the landfill would run out of room for additional garbage in a year under the present village plan. According to the village administration, the landfill has well over two years of life left.

At A Glance

Last Week.....

THOUSANDS OF local residents spent the holiday weekend at fireworks displays, carnivals and a parade, plus the Midwest Parade of Champions drum and bugle corps competition at Wheeling High School.

OFFICIALS FROM Long Grove disagreed with Buffalo Grove plans to annex a 128-acre planned unit development unless Long Grove has power to approve or disapprove any changes in development plans. Long Grove Mayor Robert Coffin threatened a law suit, if necessary, to stop Buffalo Grove from annexing the area without Long Grove's approval.

THE WHEELING village board heard a request from Trustee Albert Lang that membership of several village commissions be cut from seven or nine to a maximum of five. Lang made the suggestion to increase the workability of the commissions.

BUFFALO GROVE inspectors have found at least nine illegal sump pump connections to village storm sewers. Officials are going house-to-house to find the connections.

STATE HIGHWAY officials have announced plans to begin work on the extension of Rte. 53 from Dundee Road to Rte. 22 in Lake County. The project is scheduled to begin late this year or early next year. The work will take about two years.

RESIDENTS IN Prospect Heights have begun a campaign to save Hillcrest Slough, an area which has been subject to pollution in recent years. The residents hope to keep the area as a park and nature preserve.

BUFFALO GROVE police tried to piece together the story of the abduction of a 16-year-old Buffalo Grove youth. The boy said he was tied up but managed to escape when his abductor left him alone for a moment.

THE WHEELING Village Board has repeated its protests on the rezoning of land south of the village for a ready-mix cement plant. Residents feel the plant would be a dust and traffic hazard, among other complaints.

A SIDEWALK repair plan for the village of Wheeling is awaiting approval by the state. The village hopes to spend $31,000 in Motor Fuel Tax funds to repair about 23,000 square feet of walks.

BUFFALO GROVE fire officials announced they are seeking a new station site on Dundee Road. Construction is being held up by negotiations for property at the proposed site. Officials feel the new location will be more central to most of the village, and a separate facility from the municipal building is desired.

Gochis Says School Dist. 'Pleasant'

I knew I'd like it here," commented Gochis.

Before Dist. 219 Gochis was with the Walgreen Company and Bell & Gossett Company. He was in the financial divisions of those Chicago firms.

"Honestly, I don't have much experience in education. However, in this job I don't think it's needed," he said. "We work mainly with the needs of the educators and tell them how much those needs are going to cost."

When not involved with his work the Chicago-born Gochis is involved in sports. "I think everyone should be involved in some type of athletics. It gets you going and takes your mind off work," he said.

EVEN THOUGH he likes most sports, his favorite is bowling. "There isn't anything I wouldn't do to bowl. It gives me a tremendous feeling everytime I pick up the ball."

Averaging better than 220 per game, Gochis has gone on league tours and last year led his team to fourth place in the American Bowling Congress national tournament.

He likes the game so much that someday he even hopes to open his own lanes in the area.

A graduate of Carroll College in Waukesha, Wis., he is married and has a 16-month-old son. His wife Betty is a former Dist. 21 teacher. She taught in the district for five years at Louisa May Alcott School.

"THAT'S PROBABLY the only problem with the district that I can see," said Gochis. "They don't allow wives of administrators to teach in the same district."

However, nothing else in Dist. 21 seems to look like a problem to Gochis. "In fact," he said, "I can see where I could spend the rest of my working days in this district."

Buffalo Grove Creek Retention Lake Meet Set

Representatives from eight agencies interested in seeing a $2,100,000 retention lake built on Buffalo Grove Creek will meet Thursday to find out why progress on the project has been delayed.

The public meeting is set for 9 a.m. in the Buffalo Grove Village Hall.

Attending the conference will be representatives from Buffalo Grove, Wheeling, Long Grove, Vernon Township, Lake Zurich, Northeastern Illinois Plan Commission, the Soil Conservation District and the Metropolitan Sanitary District (MSD).

The meeting was called by Clarence Pontius, Vernon Township supervisor, and the MSD flood control division.

THE RETENTION lake is first on Buffalo Grove's list of priorities, according to Village Mgr. Dan Larson. He said the village has been working on the plan since 1967 and has exerted additional pressure on the agencies involved to get started on the 43,560 cubic foot basin since last March.

Larson said the MSD Board of Trustees authorized its engineers to negotiate plans for the lake with the Lake County Forest Preserve District three months ago. A change in the Lake County Board of Supervisors has been given as the reason for the delay in talks.

The proposed 150-acre site, almost all of it in Lake County, is west of Arlington Heights Road and south of Checker Road. The area is presently farm land.

The approximate cost of acquiring the land for the project is estimated at $1,800,000. Construction costs are expected to amount to $300,000, with the MSD paying about half.

PLANS CALL FOR the site to be developed by the Forest Preserve District as a park-type area surrounding the retention lake. The full capacity of the lake would probably only be used once or twice a year during heavy rainfalls.

Larson said the Buffalo Creek retention lake would permit all of the village east of Arlington Heights Road to drain much faster after a heavy rain. Currently, rain water follows a course from as far west as Lake Zurich and travels through the village. He added time is of the essence in starting the project because the property could be annexed and developed any time.

At an exploratory meeting last April to discuss plans for the retention lake, John E. Egan, MSD president said: "The project will result in significant reduction in flood damages downstream in Buffalo Grove and Wheeling, and some unincorporated areas, as well as decreasing health hazards and inconveniences. In addition, recreation and open-space benefits of the site would accrue to the residents of Lake County," Egan added.

Gochis Says School Dist. 'Pleasant'

When James Gochis summed up his feelings about School Dist. 21 as a place to work, he used one word — "Pleasant."

The 34-year-old Gochis said it was the pleasant atmosphere of the district that made him accept the job as business manager. He said the school board as well as other administrators in Dist. 21 are down to earth people "who don't put up false fronts."

"It seems like people in this district will be easy to work with," said Gochis. "They seem to be open to suggestions and are very cost conscious."

GOCHIS, an Arlington Heights resident, first learned about the Dist. 21 opening through a trade magazine. He saw the ad for several months but never bothered to look into it because he felt he was too young.

"I thought an established district like 21 would be seeking an older man with more experience in the area of school management," he explained. "However, since the district was in my backyard I decided to at least call and see the salary range."

Gochis said when he called he spoke with John Barger, assistant superintendent of Dist. 21, and was talked into coming to the district for an interview.

At the time Gochis was the assistant business manager with Miles Township High School Dist. 219.

"I'd only been with Dist. 219 for eight months and I really wasn't sure if I should leave — but here I am. As soon as I met Ken Gill (Dist. 21 superintendent)

All-American Family Search Started Here

The Fifth Annual Search for the All-American Family has begun throughout the country, with the Buffalo Grove Junior Woman's Club heading the quest in this area.

Families, representing the best in American tradition will be chosen in each state and the District of Columbia. From these 51 families a national winner will be chosen at the finals in Miami Beach from Aug. 26 to Sept. 4. A new "Mrs. U.S. Savings Bonds" will also be selected from the wives of these families.

The search is open to families permanently residing in the United States, in which either the husband or wife is a U.S. citizen, and who have one or more unmarried children.

Entry forms are available at the Buffalo Grove Village Hall, 50 Raupp Blvd. Deadline for the contest is July 15.

The search is being conducted by the All-American Family, Inc., in association with the Department of the Treasury, U.S. Savings Bonds Division, and in cooperation with the Miami Beach Tourist Development Authority, Junior Clubs of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, Civitan Clubs, The National Conference of Christians and Jews, and "Family Week Magazine."

Budget Hearing Set For Tonight

The School Dist. 96 Board of Education will have a public hearing to approve its 1972-73 budget at 8 tonight.

Following the public hearing the board will hold its regularly scheduled monthly meeting. Both events will be in Supt. William Hitzman's office at Kildeer Countryside School in Long Grove.

Eye Emergency Power Source For Lift Stations

Flood Control Workshop Set Tonight

The Buffalo Grove Village Board will again take up the subject of flood control measures at a public workshop session at 8 tonight in the village hall.

The board will also discuss the possibility of installing an emergency power source for village lift stations. The back-up power source was suggested following the rainstorm three weeks ago that dumped nearly four inches of water on the village in a few hours.

Village Mgr. Dan Larson will discuss the status of all current storm system improvements including:

—The progress of a house-to-house check for illegal sump pump connections now being conducted by the public works department.

—A PROPOSED retention basin at the northwest corner of the Archdiocese property behind Elmwood Court and Bernard Drive. Engineering drawings for the project have been completed, and storm sewer draining the area will be connected to the storm sewer on Bernard Drive.

—Construction of a storm sewer to run from Beechwood Road to the Happ Farm. Engineering drawings for the drainage swale and storm sewer have been prepared and the village is securing an easement for the project.

—Grade elevations between Frenchman's Cove and Mill Creek now being investigated by Village Engr. Arnold Seaberg.

—The possibility of constructing a storm sewer on Selwyn Lane, if it could be connected to the Chesterfield storm sewer in Wheeling. This would deter storm water away from University Court.

—COURT ACTION concerning the University Court storm sewer to review the drainage problems being created by developments downstream. The hearing was continued until July 12.

—The construction agreement for the Dundee Road watershed being resolved between the village, the Arlington Country Club and the Metropolitan Sanitary District. Engineering drawings are being prepared for the project.

—Financing for the proposed Buffalo Creek retention lake, being arranged.

Vandalism Reported At Mill Creek Site

Buffalo Grove police are searching for clues in a case involving more than $1,000 worth of damage at the Mill Creek Subdivision construction site over the July 4th holiday weekend.

According to police, the damage, as well as a theft, took place in the construction area between July 1 and July 5. It was discovered by workmen Wednesday morning.

Police said vandals ripped almost $750 worth of insulation from three houses under construction and stole almost $300 worth of lumber from another house.

with the Lake County Forest Preserve District and the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation. The filing of the grant application by the Forest Preserve District has been delayed pending approval by the Lake County Board.

The village has applied to the Illinois Division of Waterways for the realignment of Buffalo Creek at the outfall area of White Pines Ditch. Engineering plans have been completed for the project.

RODDING OF the storm sewer in the Buffalo Grove Golf Course is now being investigated. The openings in the storm sewer will be sealed. Plans for a retention lake are being included in the peripheral development plans.

The board of trustees will also review recommendations of the legislative committee for changes in current swimming pool regulations. Copies of a pamphlet outlining the present requirements for home pool-owners are now being mailed to all residents.

Colfax Residents To Bring Case To Jury Trial

Property owners on West Colfax Street will bring their case to a jury trial in October after a Cook County Circuit Court judge denied their motion Friday opposing the way costs of street improvements would be divided.

A three-man commission for the Village of Palatine had approved a proposed breakdown of expenses, with the village paying 70 per cent of the $1.4 million package and residents along the road paying the remaining 30 per cent through special assessments. People living on Colfax Street between Quentin Road and Smith Street say their property values won't go up in proportion to the expense of widening the road. The village plans to increase the width of Colfax Street from two to four lanes, and put in sidewalks, street lights and larger storm sewers.

With the 70-30 breakdown, property owners would pay approximately $50 to $52 for each foot of their property on the street front. Such an assessment would supposedly reflect the benefit or "public good" each owner receives from the better road.

NOT SO, the property owners say. They claim that even 30 per cent of the expenses is too much because the improvements were not intended to benefit them. Village officials have said the four lanes will be necessary to handle traffic to the relocated train depot and post office, the Countryside YMCA and Countryside Apartments, all at the west end of Colfax Street.

"The village has to prove that the (owners') property is improved to the amount of the assessment," Atty. James Brandvik said. Brandvik represented the majority of Colfax Street residents in recent hearings.

Brandvik's recently-overruled objection was filed with circuit court Judge Helen McGillicuddy last week on the grounds that the 70-30 breakdown was not arrived at in accordance with statutory requirements. After Judge McGillicuddy's decision, Brandvik said there had been little chance that the objection would be upheld.

Property owners along the stretch of road say that if the village wants to widen the road, the general public should bear the expense through motor fuel taxes. Street lights and sidewalks are unnecessary because most of the property is used for light industry, according to the Northwest Palatine Property Owners Association (NPPOA), a group of Colfax Street property owners.

Wheel Tax Funds Reassigned

by ROGER CAPETTINI

A major factor in the law suit challenging the Cook County wheel tax may have been eliminated from future consideration Friday when County Pres. George W. Dunne announced the revenue from the tax would be earmarked for the sheriff's department.

Dunne made the announcement during a rescheduled county board meeting Friday after the board heard the protests of a taxpayers group opposed to the controversial tax.

About 75 county residents from Rich, Bloom, Thornton and Bremen townships, represented by the South Cook County Taxpayers Protest Association, appeared at the meeting.

The wheel tax, enacted by the county board in late December, is similar to what is commonly called the "vehicle sticker" tax in 125 of the 126 villages and cities in Cook County.

THE TAX originally was to have taken effect early in the year, but the deadline was extended several times by the county board. For most automobiles, the tax would be $10 to $15. Rates for trucks are computed on a sliding scale.

As the vehicle tax effective within the incorporated municipalities applies to only residents of the respective communities, the Cook County tax applies only to residents of unincorporated areas.

That aspect of the tax represents a major objection voiced by residents of the unincorporated areas, and is one of the major points raised in a class action suit challenging the tax ordinance.

In April a suit was filed on behalf of the Prospect Heights Improvement Association (PHIA) and the Cook County School Bus Co., Inc., of unincorporated

WORK CONTINUES at the Arlington Indoor Tennis Club in Palatine, owned by Jordon H. Kaiser, who also has principal interest in the new Chicago Cougars of the World Hockey Association (WHA). The Arlington indoor facility is the first where various sporting events are played under a single roof.

Kaiser Eyes Northwest Suburban Area

by DOUG RAY

There he sat in a makeshift house trailer on the Zayre parking lot in Palatine, the man who holds the purse strings of Chicago's newest professional hockey franchise — the Chicago Cougars of the World Hockey Association (WHA).

Between sips of coffee from a styrofoam cup, financier Jordon H. Kaiser talked about his newly developed interest in hockey as well as his perennial love of tennis, which may be dearer to his heart if not his pocketbook.

"Tennis is in its infancy," he said. "The game is losing some of the white-glove, country club image," helping it to gain acceptance by a broader public.

The 49-year-old former engineer is banking on the upsurge of the sport. Already under construction on Northwest Highway across from Arlington Park Race Track is the Kaiser-owned Arlington Indoor Tennis Club, with other similar projects for the Chicago area and throughout the state on the drawing board.

"TELEVISION HAS made the sport... you can see professional and amateurs now, and families are beginning to play the game as a group year round," he added.

Jordon
Kaiser

pate in several sporting events in the same building. The Arlington Indoor Tennis Club and its related roller rink and ice rink is the pilot endeavor. All the facilities will be under a single roof.

"It's like a car dealer," he said, where if you want to buy a car the dealers are on the same street. You have the convenience of parking and shopping in the same general area.

The Arlington Indoor Tennis Club courts will be air conditioned for year-round use.

"When people learn about a sport, they want to participate all the time," he said.

The avid interest in sports led Kaiser into the financial deal which made him

the principal owner of the Chicago Cougars hockey team. The team will play its first games at the Amphitheater in Chicago this fall under a two-year lease.

"I didn't know too much about hockey," the Glencoe resident admits. "But this Chicago franchise is the key to the new league." He said the team nearly moved to San Francisco until he provided stable financing to the franchise.

"WE'RE INTO the new league for the long haul," he continued. He called the finances of the team's owners "unlimited."

Several years ago Kaiser held interests in bowling alleys in Chicago, but sold out when he felt the game was losing its following. He then began to construct apartment buildings in the suburbs, as well as shopping centers in Palatine and Rolling Meadows.

The Zayre parking lot and discount store is owned by Kaiser. His firm constructed the shopping center south of Kirchoff Road in downtown Rolling Meadows.

His endeavor into tennis courts and related sports under the same roof is appropriately named Sports Centers International, and "the purpose is to provide a total sports package," he said.

Combined Appeal Set For Fund Drive

Members of the Rolling Meadows Community Chest recently attended a seminar sponsored by the Crusade of Mercy for planning the 1972 fund drive.

The Rolling Meadows Community Chest is one of more than 90 suburban funds that conduct local campaigns as part of the Crusade of Mercy.

The Crusade of Mercy has set a $35,700,000 goal for this year. Last year more than $8,000 was raised in Rolling Meadows through the Community Chest campaign.

Democratic national chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien ruled that 120 California delegates committed to Sen. George S. McGovern will be eligible to vote in a key test that could determine McGovern's chances for the nomination... After the party's credentials committee stripped McGovern of 151 of the 271 California votes he won in the state's winner-take-all primary, there had been some question whether anyone from a challenged delegation would be able to vote on a challenge involving his state.

Armed with about 200 "swing" votes, Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine came under growing pressure to throw his support to Sen. George McGovern in tonight's all-important convention showdown over California.

Responding to a list of foreign policy questions, McGovern said he believes that President Nixon will continue the same policies that led to U.S. involvement in Vietnam even if he succeeds in ending the Indochina War.

Elk Grove Township.

The suit challenges the constitutionality of the tax in that the tax applies only to residents of unincorporated area — a discriminatory application, according to the suit.

THOSE OPPOSED to the tax have also objected on the grounds that when the tax was adopted by the county board, it was specified that the revenues gained from the tax would be placed into the county's general corporate fund. Monies in that fund are used county-wide — both in incorporated and unincorporated areas.

At the time of adoption, County Comr. Floyd T. Fulle of Des Plaines voted against the tax because he said he believed placing the revenue in the corporate fund was unconstitutional.

At Friday's board meeting, Dunne heard objections to the tax from several spokesmen from the south suburban protest group, who repeated the objections mentioned in the suit and complained about the lack of services they receive. The complaints centered on the service from the county highway department and the sheriff's department.

Spokesmen for the group said they were not completely opposed to the tax, but said if it stands, it should be applied to everyone in the county and the revenue derived should be used only for the unincorporated areas. They also objected to the amount of the tax.

In answer to their objections Dunne said he would instruct the county comptroller to establish a special fund for the money gained from the tax. Dunne said the money will be earmarked exclusively for the sheriff's department.

THE COUNTY board president said that while original estimates of the revenues from the tax approximated $1.4 million, latest calculations indicate the county will receive only about $600,000.

Dunne was quick to point out that because of the suit, all revenues currently being received as a result of the tax are being placed into an escrow account, pending the outcome of the pending litigation.

Dunne explained that if the tax is upheld by the county circuit court, the money will be placed in the special account. If the tax ordinance is ruled illegal, he said, the money will be returned to those residents who have paid the tax. He could offer no explanation as to what, if any, effect an overturning of the ordinance might have on persons who have been fined for not paying the tax.

Dunne's decision to earmark the funds for use only in unincorporated areas could have a significant effect on the court case. The only major question that would remain to be answered apparently would be that of determining if the county legally can apply a tax to certain geographic segments of its jurisdiction.

EDWARD BERMAN, the attorney representing the PHIA in the suit, said Friday Dunne's decision "may change the case." Berman, when told of the announcement by the Herald, said, "I am pleasantly surprised by this new revelation." He added, however, "Whether Dunne can do this retroactively, I don't know."

The suit challenging the tax is scheduled to resume July 21 in Judge Raymond S. Sarnow's courtroom at the Civic Center.

Community Chest Here Plans For '72

After seminars on campaign techniques, members of the Palatine Community Combined Appeal are preparing to plunge into the 1972 Crusade of Mercy drive, which has a goal of $35.7 million this year.

The Palatine appeal is one of more than 90 suburban community chests and funds that conduct local campaigns. Palatine representatives who attended the seminars at the Sheraton-Oak Brook Hotel included P. T. di Lustro, campaign chairman, Charles Foos, president of the Palatine Community Combined Appeals, and Timothy J. Kett, vice chairman of the Northwest County suburban campaigns.

1963 LeSabre Stolen

For the second time in six months, James Schwingel's 1963 car has been stolen. The blue-green Buick Le Sabre was discovered missing from the parking lot at Palatine Savings and Loan, 100 W. Palatine Rd., at 1 a.m. Friday.

The four-door car, with license plate numbers GM 4762, was stolen and recovered in February. Schwingel lives at 165 S. Bothwell in Palatine.

TWO-WAY TRAFFIC gets hectic during swimming lessons, especially with your eyes closed. These young swimmers managed to avoid a head-on collision at the Palatine Community Park pool. Session I of classes ends Tuesday.

Residents 'Shell-Shocked'

A personal report from the flood-stricken regions of South Dakota, especially those areas around Rapid City, indicates residents are still shell-shocked from the June disaster.

The observation comes from the Rev. Jim Berndt, Hoffman Estates. Rev. Berndt, his wife, Marlene and son Bruce, went to South Dakota to assist the stricken residents and also to conduct "drive-in" religious services in Spearfish, S.D. on Sunday mornings. The services are held from 9:45 a.m. to 11 a.m. between July 9 and Aug. 13.

"Now that the shock of the flood is

The pastor tells of the Oscar Cable family of Riverdale, S.D.

HE SAID the "Cables spent the night on a neighbor's roof with their dog, 'Twinkle', to save their lives, hoping and praying the house they were on would not give way as many houses did break away from their foundations and take their foundations and their families to destruction."

"Mr. Cable told how the lightning would streak across the sky and he and his wife would see bodies, pets, houses, cars and all manner of debris floating by them."

Rev. Berndt said the Salvation Army has been quite effective in lending aid and comfort to the homeless residents.

He said all roads leading to the Black Hills are open and interested tourists need not fear visiting this summer.

4 Meadows Teens Nabbed For 'Pot'

Four Rolling Meadows teens were arrested last week and charged with possession of marijuana and dangerous drugs.

The four are Michael Joyce, 18, 2213 Cedar St., Michael Conroy, 17, 2205 Oak Ln., Timothy Maher, 17, 4302 Linden Ln., and Paul Fava, 17, 4503 Linden Ln.

Det. Charles Smith said police confiscated about seven grams of marijuana and pills. A field test determined that the pills had an amphetamine base, Smith said.

Bond was set at $1,000. A court date has been scheduled for July 21.

Board To See Salary Study Proposals

The High School Dist. 214 Board of Education will consider proposals from six consultants for a study of administrative salaries in the district at its meeting today.

The board will meet at 8 p.m. in the administration building, 799 W. Kensington Rd., Mount Prospect.

The proposals from the consultants were first presented to the board at its last meeting. The board has been discussing the possibility of hiring a consultant to study administrative salaries and evaluation procedures for the last several months.

The proposals from the consultants range in cost from $10,000 to $21,000 depending on the firm and what services are included in the price, according to Supt. Edward Gilbert.

ONCE THE BOARD hires a consultant, Gilbert said, they could expect the study to be completed by November.

Also on the agenda for today's meeting is consideration of a policy change in the district's pass-no credit grading option. For the past year, students have been allowed to choose whether they want to receive a grade for a class or simply receive a "pass" for satisfactory work and no credit for unsatisfactory work.

The policy change to be recommended today will allow a student to change the grading option after a course begins. This year students were not allowed to change their option once a class had started.

They were: 9-10 girls 50-meter free style, Tracy Ribbs; 11-12 girls 100-meter individual medley, Judy Gran; 11-12 Girls 50-meter back stroke, Judy Gran; 11-12 boys 50-meter back, stroke Tom Gran; 11-12 boys 200-meter free relay, John Martin, Rick Perry, Mike Sammons, and Tom Gran; 13-14 boys 100-meter free style, Jim Martin; 13-14 boys 50-meter fly, Jim Martin; 15 and over boys 200-meters medley relay, Scott Byker, Brian Brooks, Mike Duffy, and Glenn Spaulding; 15 and over boys 100-meter Fly, Glenn Spaulding; and 15 and over boys 200-meter individual medley, Scott Byker.

TWENTY-FOUR VISITING American Field Service students received a grand tour of the Wheeling Municipal Building Friday. The students were rounding out a three-day visit in the area as part of their "bus stop tour" of the United States before heading back to their native countries next week.

Jail Highlight Of Tour

Foreigners Get An 'Inside View'

Twenty-four American Field Service (AFS) students and some of their temporary families invaded the Wheeling Municipal Building Friday, and several found themselves in jail.

Three of the students inadvertently locked themselves inside a jail cell while touring the police department. The AFS visitors thought it was the highlight of the tour — one of several they have taken in the past few days.

The students, who come from Australia, Japan, Micronesia and New Zealand, were rounding out a three-day stay in the area as a part of their "Bus Stop Tour" of the United States. While in the area the students were housed with families in Wheeling, Buffalo Grove, Arlington Heights, Prospect Heights and Northbrook.

THE TOUR started Wednesday night when the AFS students arrived in the area. Although they had spent the past year in different parts of the United States, many had taken part in the same orientation session when they first arrived in this country last year.

Their trip to Chicago Thursday had a reunion air as old friends shared new experiences while visiting the Field Museum, Chinatown and Old Town.

"Some of them have been in Chicago before," said Mrs. Hugh Sommerfeld, secretary of the Wheeling High School AFS chapter. "But they weren't on a tour. Their parents brought them."

The students also toured the Kitchens of Sara Lee in Deerfield, and several

made use of free time to visit Woodfield Mall Center and some local stores.

On Friday night, the students gathered for a family picnic at the Circle M Day Camp, 98 Hintz Rd., before heading to Grafton, Wis., Saturday.

The students will visit briefly in San Francisco before boarding planes for home. Eighteen-year-old Taka Mori of Truk, Micronesia, said he's anxious to get home. "I miss the food. You can't get raw tuna in this country,"

Police Dept. Not Linked To Group Seeking Funds

Promoters for a Chicago-based police organization have been using the Rolling Meadows police department's name to solicit contributions from local residents, according to Chief Lewis Case.

The promoters have no authority to do so, Case said Friday, adding that his department is not connected with the operation in any way.

Case said he learned of the soliciting Friday when several city residents called to inquire if his department was involved in selling tickets for an August circus, a fund raiser being held in Chicago and sponsored by the Confederation of Police (COP).

The residents, Case said, told him they received telephone calls inquiring whether they would buy $6 tickets for the circus. They also told him that the solicitors were linking the Rolling Meadows police force to COP and the fund-raising effort.

Case said he never heard of COP and called the Chicago Police Department to find out more about it.

"A Sgt. Hart told me that it's a police organization and the only members are Chicago policemen," Case said.

He also said he learned that COP is not directly involved in the solicitation. It is being handled by a promotional organization that was hired to sell tickets for the August circus.

Case said he wanted to warn local residents that the city's police department is not connected with COP or with the solicitation.

Wheel Tax Funds Reassigned

by ROGER CAPETTINI

A major factor in the law suit challenging the Cook County wheel tax may have been eliminated from future consideration Friday when County Pres. George W. Dunne announced the revenue from the tax would be earmarked for the sheriff's department.

Dunne made the announcement during a rescheduled county board meeting Friday after the board heard the protests of a taxpayers group opposed to the controversial tax.

About 75 county residents from Rich, Bloom, Thornton and Bremen townships, represented by the South Cook County Taxpayers Protest Association, appeared at the meeting.

The wheel tax, enacted by the county board in late December, is similar to what is commonly called the "vehicle sticker" tax in 125 of the 126 villages and cities in Cook County.

THE TAX originally was to have taken effect early in the year, but the deadline was extended several times by the county board. For most automobiles, the tax would be $10 to $15. Rates for trucks are computed on a sliding scale.

As the vehicle tax effective within the incorporated municipalities applies to only residents of the respective communities, the Cook County tax applies only to residents of unincorporated areas.

That aspect of the tax represents a major objection voiced by residents of the unincorporated areas, and is one of the major points raised in a class action suit challenging the tax ordinance.

In April a suit was filed on behalf of the Prospect Heights Improvement Association (PHIA) and the Cook County School Bus Co., Inc., of unincorporated

Flooding Solution Reportedly Near

Relief may be coming for residents along Holly Lane who have been plagued with flooding problems.

The city is apparently very close to taking the steps necessary to solve the problems.

Ed Fletcher of Fletcher Engineering, the city's engineering consultants, said he is preparing cost estimates and will report back to the streets, alleys and utilities committee shortly.

Some things that might be done to correct the flooding problem, Fletcher said, are installing bigger inlets to get water from the street into the sewers faster, and increasing sewer capacity.

Kaiser Eyes Northwest Suburban Area

by DOUG RAY

There he sat in a makeshift house trailer on the Zayre parking lot in Palatine, the man who holds the purse strings of Chicago's newest professional hockey franchise — the Chicago Cougars of the World Hockey Association (WHA).

Between sips of coffee from a styrofoam cup, financier Jordon H. Kaiser talked about his newly developed interest in hockey as well as his perennial love of tennis, which may be dearer to his heart if not his pocketbook.

"Tennis is in its infancy," he said. "The game is losing some of the white-glove, country club image," helping it to gain acceptance by a broader public.

The 49-year-old former engineer is banking on the upsurge of the sport. Already under construction on Northwest Highway across from Arlington Park Race Track is the Kaiser-owned Arlington Indoor Tennis Club, with other similar projects for the Chicago area and throughout the state on the drawing board.

"TELEVISION HAS made the sport . . . you can see professional and amateurs now, and families are beginning to play the game as a group year round," he added.

Kaiser has what he calls a "supermarket of sports" under consideration in the suburbs to allow persons to participate in several sporting events in the same building. The Arlington Indoor Tennis Club and its related roller rink and ice rink is the pilot endeavor. All the facilities will be under a single roof.

Jordon
Kaiser

"It's like a car dealer," he said, where if you want to buy a car the dealers are on the same street. You have the convenience of parking and shopping in the same general area.

The Arlington Indoor Tennis Club courts will be air conditioned for year-round use.

"When people learn about a sport, they want to participate all the time," he said.

The avid interest in sports led Kaiser into the financial deal which made him the principal owner of the Chicago Cougars hockey team. The team will play its first games at the Amphitheater in Chicago this fall under a two-year lease.

"I didn't know too much about hockey," the Glencoe resident admits. "But this Chicago franchise is the key to the new league." He said the team nearly moved to San Francisco until he provided stable financing to the franchise.

"WE'RE INTO the new league for the long haul," he continued. He called the finances of the team's owners "unlimited."

Several years ago Kaiser held interests in bowling alleys in Chicago, but sold out when he felt the game was losing its following. He then began to construct apartment buildings in the suburbs, as well as shopping centers in Palatine and Rolling Meadows.

The Zayre parking lot and discount store is owned by Kaiser. His firm constructed the shopping center south of Kirchoff Road in downtown Rolling Meadows.

His endeavor into tennis courts and related sports under the same roof is appropriately named Sports Centers International, and "the purpose is to provide a total sports package," he said.

Club Officers Elected At Meadows High

Officers have been elected for the newly formed Rolling Meadows High School Academic Boosters Club. The group, open to all parents, plans to encourage interest in the academic program for the school's students.

Officers are: Mr. and Mrs. Jack McCallian, co-presidents; James Broderick, first vice president; Mrs. Robert Bochte, second vice president; Mrs. Robert Taraba, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Frank Livermore, freshman class chairman; Mrs. Gordon Hafer, sophomore class chairman; Tom Alt, junior class chairman; Donald Klemp, senior class chairman; Mrs. Tom Alt, hospitality chairman; and Mrs. James Broderick, publicity chairman.

The club will meet Aug. 9 at 7:30 p.m. at the high school.

Berman, when told of the announcement by the Herald, said, "I am pleasantly surprised by this new revelation." He added, however, "Whether Dunne can do this retroactively, I don't know."

The suit challenging the tax is scheduled to resume July 21 in Judge Raymond S. Sarnow's courtroom at the Civic Center.

Community Chest Here Plans For '72

After seminars on campaign techniques, members of the Palatine Community Combined Appeal are preparing to plunge into the 1972 Crusade of Mercy drive, which has a goal of $35.7 million this year.

The Palatine appeal is one of more than 90 suburban community chests and funds that conduct local campaigns. Palatine representatives who attended the seminars at the Sheraton-Oak Brook Hotel included P. di Lestro, campaign chairman, Charles Foos, president of the Palatine Community Combined Appeals, and Timothy J. Kett, vice chairman of the Northwest County suburban campaigns.

1963 LeSabre Stolen

For the second time in six months, James Schwingel's 1963 car has been stolen. The blue-green Buick Le Sabre was discovered missing from the parking lot at Palatine Savings and Loan, 100 W. Palatine Rd., at 1 a.m. Friday.

The four-door car, with license plate numbers GM 4782, was stolen and recovered in February. Schwingel lives at 165 S. Bothwell in Palatine.

Residents 'Shell-Shocked'

A personal report from the flood-stricken regions of South Dakota, especially those areas around Rapid City, indicates residents are still shell-shocked from the June disaster.

The observation comes from the Rev. Jim Berndt, Hoffman Estates. Rev. Berndt, his wife, Marlene and son Bruce, went to South Dakota to assist the stricken residents and also to conduct "drive-in" religious services in Spearfish, S.D. on Sunday mornings. The services are held from 9:45 a.m. to 11 a.m. between July 9 and Aug. 13.

"Now that the shock of the flood is

The pastor tells of the Oscar Cable family of Riverdale, S.D.

HE SAID the "Cables spent the night on a neighbor's roof with their dog, 'Twinkle', to save their lives, hoping and praying the house they were on would not give way as many houses did break away from their foundations and take their foundations and their families to destruction.

"Mr. Cable told how the lightning

would streak across the sky and he and his wife would see bodies, pets, houses, cars and all manner of debris floating by them."

Rev. Berndt said the Salvation Army has been quite effective in lending aid and comfort to the homeless residents.

He said all roads leading to the Black Hills are open and interested tourists need not fear visiting this summer.

4 Meadows Teens Nabbed For 'Pot'

Four Rolling Meadows teens were arrested last week and charged with possession of marijuana and dangerous drugs.

The four are Michael Joyce, 18, 2213 Cedar St., Michael Conroy, 17, 2205 Oak Ln., Timothy Maher, 17, 4302 Linden Ln., and Paul Fava, 17, 4503 Linden Ln.

Det. Charles Smith said police confiscated about seven grams of marijuana and pills. A field test determined that the pills had an amphetamine base, Smith said.

Bond was set at $1,000. A court date has been scheduled for July 21.

Board To See Salary Study Proposals

The High School Dist. 214 Board of Education will consider proposals from six consultants for a study of administrative salaries in the district at its meeting today.

The board will meet at 8 p.m. in the administration building, 799 W. Kensington Rd., Mount Prospect.

The proposals from the consultants were first presented to the board at its last meeting. The board has been discussing the possibility of hiring a consultant to study administrative salaries and evaluation procedures for the last several months.

The proposals from the consultants range in cost from $10,000 to $21,000 depending on the firm and what services are included in the price, according to Supt. Edward Gilbert.

ONCE THE BOARD hires a consultant, Gilbert said, they could expect the study to be completed by November.

Also on the agenda for today's meeting is consideration of a policy change in the district's pass-no credit grading option. For the past year, students have been allowed to choose whether they want to receive a grade for a class or simply receive a "pass" for satisfactory work and no credit for unsatisfactory work.

The policy change to be recommended today will allow a student to change the grading option after a course begins. This year students were not allowed to change their option once a class had started.

TWENTY-FOUR VISITING American Field Service students received a grand tour of the Wheeling Municipal Building Friday. The students were rounding out a three-day visit in the area as part of their "bus stop tour" of the United States before heading back to their native countries next week.

Jail Highlight Of Tour

Foreigners Get An 'Inside View'

Twenty-four American Field Service (AFS) students and some of their temporary families invaded the Wheeling Municipal Building Friday, and several found themselves in jail.

Three of the students inadvertently locked themselves inside a jail cell while touring the police department. The AFS visitors thought it was the highlight of the tour — one of several they have taken in the past few days.

The students, who come from Australia, Japan, Micronesia and New Zealand, were rounding out a three-day stay in the area as a part of their "Bus Stop Tour" of the United States. While in the area the students were housed with families in Wheeling, Buffalo Grove, Arlington Heights, Prospect Heights and Northbrook.

THE TOUR started Wednesday night when the AFS students arrived in the area. Although they had spent the past year in different parts of the United States, many had taken part in the same orientation session when they first arrived in this country last year.

Their trip to Chicago Thursday had a reunion air as old friends shared new experiences while visiting the Field Museum, Chinatown and Old Town.

"Some of them have been in Chicago before," said Mrs. Hugh Sommerfeld, secretary of the Wheeling High School AFS chapter. "But they weren't on a tour. Their 'parents' brought them."

The students also toured the Kitchens of Sara Lee in Deerfield, and several

made use of free time to visit Woodfield Mall Center and some local stores.

On Friday night, the students gathered for a family picnic at the Circle M Day Camp, 88 Hintz Rd., before heading to Grafton, Wis., Saturday.

The students will visit planes in San Francisco before boarding briefly for home. Eighteen-year-old Taka Mori of Truk, Micronesia, said he's anxious to get home. "I miss the food. 'You can't get raw tuna in this country.'"

Dunne Reassigns Controversial Wheel Tax Money

by ROGER CAPETTINI

A major factor in the law suit challenging the Cook County wheel tax may have been eliminated from future consideration Friday when County Pres. George W. Dunne announced the revenue from the tax would be earmarked for the sheriff's department.

Dunne made the announcement during a rescheduled county board meeting Friday after the board heard the protests of a taxpayers group opposed to the controversial tax.

About 75 county residents from Rich, Bloom, Thornton and Bremen townships, represented by the South Cook County Taxpayers Protest Association, appeared at the meeting.

The wheel tax, enacted by the county board in late December, is similar to what is commonly called the "vehicle sticker" tax in 125 of the 126 villages and cities in Cook County.

THE TAX originally was to have taken effect early in the year, but the deadline was extended several times by the county board. For most automobiles, the tax would be $10 to $15. Rates for trucks are computed on a sliding scale.

As the vehicle tax effective within the incorporated municipalities applies to only residents of the respective communities, the Cook County tax applies only to residents of unincorporated areas.

That aspect of the tax represents a major objection voiced by residents of the unincorporated areas, and is one of the major points raised in a class action suit challenging the tax ordinance.

In April a suit was filed on behalf of the Prospect Heights Improvement Association (PHIA) and the Cook County School Bus Co., Inc., of unincorporated Elk Grove Township.

The suit challenges the constitutionality of the tax in that the tax applies only to residents of unincorporated areas — a discriminatory application, according to the suit.

THOSE OPPOSED to the tax have also objected on the grounds that when the tax was adopted by the county board, it was specified that the revenues gained from the tax would be placed into the county's general corporate fund. Monies in that fund are used county-wide — both in incorporated and unincorporated areas.

At the time of adoption, County Comm. Floyd T. Fulle of Des Plaines voted against the tax because he said he believed placing the revenue in the corporate fund was unconstitutional.

At Friday's board meeting, Dunne heard objections to the tax from several spokesmen from the south suburban protest group, who repeated the objections mentioned in the suit and complained about the lack of services they receive. The complaints centered on the service from the county highway department and the sheriff's department.

Spokesmen for the group said they were not completely opposed to the tax, but said if it stands, it should be applied to everyone in the county and the revenue derived should be used only for the

"STOLEN" ITEMS are displayed by Richard Jenness, principal of Holmes Junior High School. All items were turned into the school's lost-and-found in the past year and were never claimed.

'Lost And Found' Does Big Business

by FRED GACA

It's a scene repeated many times in the school year. Young son or daughter runs home, crying, "Mommy, mommy, someone stole my jacket." The parents get upset at the amount of stealing at the school and wonder why the principal does not do something about stopping the thefts.

The reason the principal does not do anything is that there is nothing to do anything about. All those "stolen" jackets, coats, pens, pencils, shoes, books and whatever were not stolen, they were misplaced or lost.

"It's just not true that there is an exorbitant amount of thievery going on in the school," said Richard Jenness, principal of Holmes Junior High School in Mount Prospect. "We cannot convince people the object was lost, misplaced or

In just the past school year alone, the lost-and-found at Holmes has collected, among other things 13 sweaters, 18 shirts, 21 assorted gloves, 18 assorted mittens, 35 hats and caps, eight pairs of glasses, three watches, one man's suit and even one pair of long underwear.

JENNESS ESTIMATED the value of this year's "collection" at $300 to $400. Anything not claimed by the end of the summer school session will be turned over to charity.

The growing amount of lost-and-found items is a problem at schools throughout Elk Grove Township Dist. 59. Bill Harner, principal of Salt Creek Elementary School in Elk Grove Village, said the school gives a "pretty good sized box" of items to charity at the Christmas break and again at the end of the school year when the lost-and-found is cleaned out.

Harner said one mother came to him complaining that her daughter had three coats stolen. He brought the mother to the school's lost-and-found — all three "stolen" coats were there.

THE CHILDREN claim the items were stolen, rather than admit they lost them, to escape being blamed for their carelessness.

Don Heitzman, principal of Forest View Elementary School, said some of the items turned into the school's lost-and-found have more than just a monetary value. He has sent beautiful hand-knitted gloves, obviously made especially for the child, to charity. "It's a shame, some of the things are really nice, but not too many parents get too nervous about things being lost," said Heitzman.

School officials said there were two things parents could do to cut down the "stolen" problem. First, all items that a child wears or carries to school should be clearly marked with the child's full name.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

Democratic national chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien ruled that 120 California delegates committed to Sen. George S. McGovern will be eligible to vote in a key test that could determine McGovern's chances for the nomination... After the party's credentials committee stripped McGovern of 151 of the 271 California votes he won in the state's winner-take-all primary, there had been some question whether anyone from a challenged delegation would be able to vote on a challenge involving his state.

Armed with about 200 "swing" votes, Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine came under growing pressure to throw his support to Sen. George McGovern in tonight's all-important convention showdown over California.

Responding to a list of foreign policy questions, McGovern said he believes that President Nixon will continue the same policies that led to U.S. involvement in Vietnam even if he succeeds in ending the Indochina War.

The trial of Daniel Ellsberg and code-fendant Anthony J. Russo opens today in the Pentagon Papers case after weeks of pretrial maneuvering. Jury selection is expected to last at least a week.

Scientists and amateur astronomers will be watching today as a total eclipse darkens the sun from Siberia east along a narrow strip of northern Alaska and Canada to the Atlantic Ocean. In the rest of the U.S. the eclipse will range from 90 per cent total in Boston to 14 per cent total in San Francisco.

Kaiser Eyes Northwest Suburban Area

by DOUG RAY

There he sat in a makeshift house trailer on the Zayre parking lot in Palatine, the man who holds the purse strings of Chicago's newest professional hockey franchise — the Chicago Cougars of the World Hockey Association (WHA).

Between sips of coffee from a styrofoam cup, financier Jordan H. Kaiser talked about his newly developed interest in hockey as well as his perennial love of tennis, which may be dearer to his heart if not his pocketbook.

"Tennis is in its infancy," he said. "The game is losing some of the white-glove, country club image," helping it to gain acceptance by a broader public.

The 49-year-old former engineer is banking on the upsurge of the sport. Already under construction on Northwest Highway across from Arlington Park Race Track is the Kaiser-owned Arlington Indoor Tennis Club, with other similar projects for the Chicago area and throughout the state on the drawing board.

"TELEVISION HAS made the sport... you can see professional and amateurs now, and families are beginning to play the game as a group year round," he added.

Kaiser has what he calls a "supermarket of sports" under consideration in the suburbs to allow persons to participate in several sporting events in the same building. The Arlington Indoor Tennis Club and its related roller rink and ice rink is the pilot endeavor. All the facilities will be under a single roof.

Jordan

"It's like a car dealer," he said, where if you want to buy a car the dealers are on the same street. You have the convenience of parking and shopping in the same general area.

The Arlington Indoor Tennis Club courts will be air conditioned for year-round use.

"When people learn about a sport, they want to participate all the time," he said. The avid interest in sports led Kaiser into the financial deal which made him the principal owner of the Chicago Cougars hockey team. The team will play its first games at the Amphitheater in Chicago this fall under a two-year lease.

"I didn't know too much about hockey," the Glenview resident admits. "But this Chicago franchise is the key to the new league." He said the team nearly moved to San Francisco until he provided stable financing to the franchise.

"WE'RE INTO the new league for the long haul," he continued. He called the finances of the team's owners "unlimited."

Several years ago Kaiser held interests in bowling alleys in Chicago, but sold out when he felt the game was losing its following. He then began to construct apartment buildings in the suburbs, as well as shopping centers in Palatine and Rolling Meadows.

The Zayre parking lot and discount store is owned by Kaiser. His firm constructed the shopping center south of Kirchhoff Road in downtown Rolling Meadows.

His endeavor into tennis courts and related sports under the same roof is appropriately named Sports Centers International, and "the purpose is to provide a total sports package," he said.

AND IF THE total sports package becomes a reality, local residents may look forward to a hockey stadium for Kaiser's Cougars somewhere in the Northwest suburbs. He owns various parcels of land here.

But just north of the trailer from which Kaiser spoke, there is a vacant lot which he owns, a lot large enough for a giant hockey arena.

unincorporated areas. They also objected to the amount of the tax.

In answer to their objections Dunne said he would instruct the county comptroller to establish a special fund for the money gained from the tax. Dunne said the money will be earmarked exclusively for the sheriff's department.

THE COUNTY board president said that while original estimates of the revenues from the tax approximated $1.4 million, latest calculations indicate the county will receive only about $600,000.

Dunne was quick to point out that because of the suit, all revenues currently being received as a result of the tax are being placed into an escrow account, pending the outcome of the pending litigation.

Dunne explained that if the tax is upheld by the county circuit court, the money will be placed in the special account. If the tax ordinance is ruled illegal, he said, the money will be returned to those residents who have paid the tax. He could offer no explanation as to what, if any, effect an overturning of the ordinance might have on persons who have been fined for not paying the tax.

Dunne's decision to earmark the funds for use only in unincorporated areas could have a significant effect on the court case. The only major question that would remain to be answered apparently would be that of determining if the county legally can apply a tax to certain geographic segments of its jurisdiction.

EDWARD BERMAN, the attorney representing the PHIA in the suit, said Friday Dunne's decision "may change the case." Berman, when told of the announcement by the Herald, said, "I am pleasantly surprised by this new revelation." He added, however, "Whether Dunne can do this retroactively, I don't know."

The suit challenging the tax is scheduled to resume July 21 in Judge Raymond S. Sarnow's courtroom at the Civic Center.

Teens Can Have Say In Park District Policy

Teens who want to have a say in programs and policies of the Arlington Heights Park District are invited to a question-and-answer session Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the Green Barrel, 660 N. Ridge. Parents are invited, too.

The meeting, which will be part of the regular park board meeting, was prompted by Park Commissioner Katherine Muller who learned about teen discontent with many park district rules and programs. The information was contained in several Herald stories about youth and their opinions of Arlington Heights.

"We should react, and we should react now," said Mrs. Muller, who was appointed to the park board last month.

Mrs. Muller suggested the session also would be an information period for the four new commissioners, who have been appointed to fill board vacancies since January.

"I SPECIFICALLY want to know about the operation and philosophy of the Green Barrel," she said. "I would also like to know why the coffee house for college students formerly located in the basement of Recreation Park, is closed this year."

Mrs. Muller has also learned that teens are often discouraged from congregating at village parks, and says she would like to know why.

"There are no rules in any of our ordinances that says that kids can't congregate—in any number," she said. "It seems there is a need for understanding here between the kids and the administrators of the district."

According to Thomas Thornton, director of parks and recreation, the meeting will be a question-and-answer period. He also said that center directors and recreation supervisors will be on hand to answer questions.

"We're not going to prepare any formal statements on the district's relation to teenagers, but we'll be ready to answer all questions," said Thornton.

Coronet Drill Team Wins In Wisconsin

The Arlington Heights Coronets, a girls drill team, marched off with their second win of the 1972 season at July 4 competition in Columbus, Wis.

The drill team is cosponsored by the Arlington Heights American Legion, Elks Club and Veterans of Foreign War.

The win gave the drill team a perfect 1972 record. Last month the 85-member team won the Illinois State V.F.W. championship.

The next competition date for the team is Saturday when they defend their state American Legion title, won last year, at Elk Grove High School.

WORK CONTINUES at the Arlington Indoor Tennis Club in Palatine, owned by Jordan H. Kaiser, who also has principal interest in the new Chicago Cougars of the World Hockey Association (WHA). The Arlington indoor facility is the first of what Kaiser calls "a supermarket of sports" where various sporting events are played under a single roof.

Kaiser Eyes Northwest Suburban Area

by DOUG RAY

There he sat in a makeshift house trailer on the Zayre parking lot in Palatine, the man who holds the purse strings of Chicago's newest professional hockey franchise—the Chicago Cougars of the World Hockey Association (WHA).

Between sips of coffee from a styrofoam cup, financier Jordan H. Kaiser talked about his newly developed interest in hockey as well as his perennial love of tennis, which may be dearer to his heart if not his pocketbook.

"Tennis is in its infancy," he said. "The game is losing some of the white-glove, country club image," helping it to gain acceptance by a broader public.

The 49-year-old former engineer is banking on the upsurge of the sport. Already under construction on Northwest Highway across from Arlington Park Race Track is the Kaiser-owned Arlington Indoor Tennis Club, with other similar projects for the Chicago area and throughout the state on the drawing board.

"TELEVISION HAS made the sport... you can see professional and amateurs now, and families are beginning to play the game as a group year round," he added.

Kaiser has what he calls a "supermarket of sports" under consideration in the suburbs to allow persons to participate in several sporting events in the same building. The Arlington Indoor Tennis Club and its related roller rink and ice rink is the pilot endeavor. All the facilities will be under a single roof.

Jordan
Kaiser

"It's like a car dealer," he said, where if you want to buy a car the dealers are on the same street. You have the convenience of parking and shopping in the same general area.

The Arlington Indoor Tennis Club courts will be air conditioned for year-round use.

"When people learn about a sport, they want to participate all the time," he said.

The avid interest in sports led Kaiser into the financial deal which made him

the principal owner of the Chicago Cougars hockey team. The team will play its first games at the Amphitheater in Chicago this fall under a two-year lease.

"I didn't know too much about hockey," the Glencoe resident admits. "But this Chicago franchise is the key to the new league." He said the team nearly moved to San Francisco until he provided stable financing to the franchise.

"WE'RE INTO the new league for the long haul," he continued. He called the finances of the team's owners "unlimited."

Several years ago Kaiser held interests in bowling alleys in Chicago, but sold out when he felt the game was losing its following. He then began to construct apartment buildings in the suburbs, as well as shopping centers in Palatine and Rolling Meadows.

The Zayre parking lot and discount store is owned by Kaiser. His firm constructed the shopping center south of Kirchoff Road in downtown Rolling Meadows.

His endeavor into tennis courts and related sports under the same roof is appropriately named Sports Centers International, and "the purpose is to provide a total sports package," he said.

AND IF THE total sports package becomes a reality, local residents may look forward to a hockey stadium for Kaiser's Cougars somewhere in the Northwest suburbs. He owns various parcels of land here.

But just north of the trailer from which Kaiser spoke, there is a vacant lot which he owns, a lot large enough for a giant hockey arena.

Plan To Spray For Mosquitoes

For the next two weeks, yellow trucks from the Northwest Mosquito Abatement District will spray to rid Arlington Heights of mosquitoes.

"There will be spraying almost around the clock since the district fell behind in its spraying because of the weather and is trying to catch up," said Daniel C. Tarry, village sanitarian.

Tarry said the spray is no particular hazard to children, but recommends that children covered with the spray be bathed.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

Democratic national chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien ruled that 120 California delegates committed to Sen. George S. McGovern will be eligible to vote in a key test that could determine McGovern's chances for the nomination... After the party's credentials committee stripped McGovern of 151 of the 271 California votes he won in the state's winner-take-all primary, there had been some question whether anyone from a challenged delegation would be able to vote on a challenge involving his state.

Armed with about 200 "swing" votes, Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine came under growing pressure to throw his support to Sen. George McGovern in tonight's all-important convention showdown over California.

Responding to a list of foreign policy questions, McGovern said he believes that President Nixon will continue the same policies that led to U.S. involvement in Vietnam even if he succeeds in ending the Indochina War.

The trial of Daniel Ellsberg and code-fendant Anthony J. Russo opens today in the Pentagon Papers case after weeks of pretrial maneuvering. Jury selection is expected to last at least a week.

Scientists and amateur astronomers will be watching today as a total eclipse darkens the sun from Siberia east along a narrow strip of northern Alaska and Canada to the Atlantic Ocean. In the rest of the U.S. the eclipse will range from 90 per cent total in Boston to 14 per cent total in San Francisco.

Dunne Says Wheel Tax Revenue Goes To Sheriff's Dept.

by ROGER CAPETTINI

A major factor in the law suit challenging the Cook County wheel tax may have been eliminated from future consideration Friday when County Pres. George W. Dunne announced the revenue from the tax would be earmarked for the sheriff's department.

Dunne made the announcement during a rescheduled county board meeting Friday after the board heard the protests of a taxpayers group opposed to the controversial tax.

About 75 county residents from Rich, Bloom, Thornton and Bremen townships, represented by the South Cook County Taxpayers Protest Association, appeared at the meeting.

The wheel tax, enacted by the county board in late December, is similar to what is commonly called the "vehicle sticker" tax in 125 of the 126 villages and cities in Cook County.

THE TAX originally was to have taken effect early in the year, but the deadline was extended several times by the county board. For most automobiles, the tax would be $10 to $15. Rates for trucks are computed on a sliding scale.

As the vehicle tax effective within the incorporated municipalities applies to only residents of the respective communities, the Cook County tax applies only to residents of unincorporated areas.

That aspect of the tax represents a major objection voiced by residents of the unincorporated areas, and is one of the major points raised in a class action suit challenging the tax ordinance.

In April a suit was filed on behalf of the Prospect Heights Improvement Association (PHIA) and the Cook County School Bus Co., Inc., of unincorporated Elk Grove Township.

The suit challenges the constitutionality of the tax in that the tax applies only to residents of unincorporated areas — a discriminatory application, according to the suit.

THOSE OPPOSED to the tax have also objected on the grounds that when the tax was adopted by the county board, it was specified that the revenues gained from the tax would be placed into the county's general corporate fund. Monies in that fund are used county-wide — both in incorporated and unincorporated areas.

At the time of adoption, County Com. Floyd T. Fulle of Des Plaines voted against the tax because he said he believed placing the revenue in the corporate fund was unconstitutional.

At Friday's board meeting, Dunne heard objections to the tax from several spokesmen from the south suburban protest group, who repeated the objections mentioned in the suit and complained about the lack of services they receive. The complaints centered on the service from the county highway department and the sheriff's department.

Spokesmen for the group said they were not completely opposed to the tax, but said if it stands, it should be applied to everyone in the county and the revenue derived should be used only for the unincorporated areas. They also objected to the amount of the tax.

In answer to their objections Dunne said he would instruct the county comptroller to establish a special fund for the money gained from the tax. Dunne said the money will be earmarked exclusively for the sheriff's department.

THE COUNTY board president said that while original estimates of the revenues from the tax approximated $1.4 million, latest calculations indicate the county will receive only about $600,000.

Dunne was quick to point out that because of the suit, all revenues currently being received as a result of the tax are being placed into an escrow account, pending the outcome of the pending litigation.

Dunne explained that if the tax is upheld by the county circuit court, the money will be placed in the special account. If the tax ordinance is ruled illegal, he said, the money will be returned to those residents who have paid the tax. He could offer no explanation as to what, if any, effect an overturning of the ordinance might have on persons who have been fined for not paying the tax.

Dunne's decision to earmark the funds for use only in unincorporated areas could have a significant effect on the court case. The only major question that would remain to be answered apparently would be that of determining if the county legally can apply a tax to certain geographic segments of its jurisdiction.

EDWARD BERMAN, the attorney representing the PHIA in the suit, said Friday Dunne's decision "may change the case." Berman, when told of the announcement by the Herald, said, "I am pleasantly surprised by this new revelation." He added, however, "Whether Dunne can do this retroactively, I don't know."

The suit challenging the tax is scheduled to resume July 21 in Judge Raymond S. Sarnow's courtroom at the Civic Center.

School Board Clears Deficit Of $100,000

Through an anticipated increase in state aid and tightening of expenditures for special education, the Dist. 23 Board of Education has eliminated a $100,000 deficit and finalized its 1972-73 budget.

State funds to the district, which are expected to increase by $80,000 for next year should wipe out most of the deficit according to James Hendren, business manager.

The expected increase is due to recent legislation which changes the state's formula for determining the amount of funds paid each district based on its average daily school attendance.

Also, an increase in state bonus funds based on the district's total enrollment is anticipated.

There are 1,700 students currently attending the five district schools.

The remaining $10,000 of the deficit will be covered by a reduction of tuition amounts paid to other districts for special education programs.

Hendren said since the district will hire its own psychologist to handle special education programs, it was able to reclaim tuition that had committed to other districts for the same type of programs.

The deficit in the $2,100,000 budget, originally presented to the board May 24, appeared in the educational fund and totaled $140,000. However, a limit set on the amount of anticipated tax income a school district can borrow left the deficit at near $100,000.

Amendments may still be made in the budget before it is due for final adoption in September.

Pioneer Park Trip To Ravinia Set

Classical, modern, jazz and popular dances will be presented by the Lar Lubovitch Dance Company Saturday at Ravinia Park in Highland Park.

A special bus to the performance will leave Pioneer Park, 500 S. Fernandez, Arlington Heights, at 10 a.m. Saturday. A $2 fee includes admission and transportation, and registration is being held at Olympic Park, 660 N. Ridge, until Thursday.

The 16-member dance company is part of Ravinia's Young Peoples Program being held this summer.

Esther Noffke: WASP Still Loves The Distant Sky

by RICH HONACK

From the time she was in grade school Esther Noffke has spent most of her time dedicated to one field — aviation.

Miss Noffke first started thinking about airplanes in the sixth grade, in the 1930s.

"I always dreamed of flying a military aircraft. It kind of appealed to me," said the pilot of more than 30 years. "So when I was old enough I started taking flying lessons from Dilbert Koerner in Kankakee."

Miss Noffke took her lessons, passed, and when World War II broke out her dream was fulfilled.

In 1943 she joined the WASPs (Women Air Force Service Pilots) and began flying military planes. She said she flew many of the aircraft at the time, but her highlight was flying B-26 bombers.

"WE FLEW THE B-26 while pulling training targets for the fighters to fire at," said Miss Noffke. "Our WASP pilots never left the United States during the war and the organization was dissolved shortly after it."

It was at that time that Miss Noffke first came to Wheeling and Pal-Waukee airport.

"I joined George Priester, owner of Pal-Waukee, in 1945, and have been here ever since," said Miss Noffke. "The name Pal-Waukee appealed to me the first time I heard it so I thought I'd come up and give it a try."

Miss Noffke started out as an instructor at Pal-Waukee and also did some business flying. When she joined the staff there were seven workers — today there are more than 130 employees.

In the past 25 years Miss Noffke has also seen many other changes in aviation. She feels there have been tremendous changes in aircraft speed, design, uses and numbers.

"Things are going to continue changing," she said. "We are going into a completely new era of air travel. The space program is offering so much in technology, it's almost hard to believe."

Miss Noffke said the biggest change to come about is the use of radios. "Twenty years ago it was a big deal to purchase a radio set for a plane, at a cost $495. Today we don't think twice to spend $30,000 if it is necessary to communicate, since communication is one of the most important things to a pilot," she said.

She also finds the new era is presenting more challenges on the ground, as well as in the air.

"I FIND THINGS are happening in the legislature that just can't be passed by without getting involved," she explained. "The FAA (Federal Aviation Administration) is constantly seeking to better the business."

Miss Noffke explained that industry's relationship with airports and the FAA is a growing field that also has most of its work on the ground. She pointed out that it is important to properly train the new aviation people on the ground before they fly.

"Quite frankly, I only fly to get in the necessary hours to keep qualified," she said. "With people so hungry for aviation, I feel I'm doing more for the business where I am — on the ground."

And Miss Noffke is "where the action is" at Pal-Waukee. She is in the same office with Priester and his son, Charles. According to many people she knows as much about the airport as anyone.

"I act more as an adviser than anything else," she said. "When someone has a problem or doesn't know a certain aspect of the business, they ask for my help."

Staying on the ground has also given Miss Noffke a chance to practice her favorite hobby — politics.

"Most of my politicking is making speeches to women's organizations and working with the legislature."

"I try to explain to the women that they should get involved in politics and voice their opinions. I try to tell them that they should not sit idle while things are happening."

MISS NOFFKE, a Wheeling resident, said she tries to get legislation passed or stopped by studying and trying to get legislators to listen to her arguments.

"Sometimes you win, sometimes you lose, but it is relaxing and interesting to be involved in politics, anyway."

Miss Noffke does not see an end to her involvement in aviation, whether it be in the business itself or in politics.

"There is no age limit or ceiling on things people can do in aviation. It will never stop changing and growing. As long as it's there and I'm around, I'll try to be in it," said Miss Noffke.

Frisbee, Hula Hoop Contests Monday

Contests for frisbee tossers and hula hoop experts will be held at neighborhood parks Monday in preparation for the village championships Tuesday at Camelot Park, 1005 E. Suffield.

Winners of the village championship will be eligible for the state finals in both contests, to be held later this summer in Blue Island. State winners will go on to national competition, and national winners are awarded a $1,000 savings bond.

Anyone wishing to participate should contact their neighborhood recreation center.

Board To Eye Subdivisions, Apartment

Two proposed subdivisions and a proposed apartment complex will be up for approval at the Arlington Heights Board of Trustees meeting tonight.

One subdivision consists of eight lots on Windsor Drive north of Oakton Street. In May the plan commission approved the final plans for the development.

Another subdivision, consisting of 11 lots on the west side of Chestnut Avenue at Waverly Avenue, was also approved by the plan commission. The subdivision is called Stonebridge Hill Unit 3.

Randhaven apartments at Wilke and Rand roads was tentatively approved by the board in February. The developers, however, wish to turn the apartments into condominiums because "condominiums should prove more beneficial to the community since apartment home ownership generally creates a more stable residential community."

In other board business, Martin J. Kelly Oldsmobile will ask for a sign ordinance variation, which would permit a sign more than 5 feet over the village ordinance on the property. The board will also take action on the issuance of a liquor license to prospective owners of a restaurant which may be built at Wilke and Algonquin Road, to be called the Pub Restaurant.

Adventures of Your Garbageman

You may have noticed our new green uniforms. Now, you can tell it's a Laseke man walking up your driveway, and not a stranger.

Also, there are names on the shirt pockets. So, if you have conversation with one of our people (or have a compliment or a complaint to register) you know it was Jim or Joe.

We believe that the identifying uniforms help to improve communication and to eliminate misunderstandings.

They also seem to have had another interesting result. Our men report that with their uniforms, more people tend to treat them like people, instead of mere robots. (They are people, you know — and pretty nice people, on the whole.)

Property Tax Assessment Review Due Soon

A review of property tax assessments in East Maine Elementary Dist. 63 will be completed by the end of this month, a spokesman for Cook County Assessor P. J. Cullerton said last week.

The review was promised in April, after complaints from Dist. 63 officials that several large shopping and apartment complexes are undervalued for tax purposes by more than $15 million dollars.

Losses from the alleged under-assessments on such properties as Golf Mill shopping center, Golf Road and Milwaukee Avenue, and North Shore Trace apartments on Golf Road, have been costing Dist. 63 some $349,600 a year in tax revenues, school officials have charged.

If the Dist. 63 charges are correct, tax losses to Dist. 63, Maine Township High School Dist. 207 and Oakton Community College would total almost $800,000 each year.

DENNIS DUNNE, director of communications for Cullerton, last week said the assessor's office is reviewing tax valuations on 35 properties listed in Dist. 63 complaints. Owners will be notified early next month of any changes in assessments of their properties and will be given 10 days to object, Dunne said.

Dist. 63, which has nine elementary and two junior high schools, has been taxing at its current maximum allowable rate in recent years. District officials brought complaints of underassessments to the county board of appeals last year, but their charges were dismissed by the board.

Dunne said earlier this year that the assessments on the property involved were "legitimate" at the time they were made. He noted that valuation for tax purposes is lower than market value but generally is not supposed to go below 20 per cent of market value for properties such as shopping centers.

In addition to Golf Mill and North Shore Trace, Dist. 63 has charged that the Key West and Kingston apartment complexes on Golf Road west of Golf Mill and the Dempster Plaza shopping center at Dempster Street and Greenwood Avenue are also undervalued for tax purposes.

According to school officials, the land at Golf Mill is assessed at $20,000 an acre for tax purposes, which Dist. 63 says is only $2,000 more an acre than its assessment 10 years ago. They charge that the land's market value is indicated by the sale of similar land across Milwaukee Avenue recently for $125,000 an acre.

Dist. 63, which hired an appraiser to determine its version of the market value of the properties involved, says the separately-assessed Sears Roebuck and Co. store at Golf Mill is valued at $1,641,981 for tax purposes, too far below the $9,444,000 market value placed on it by the school appraiser.

Police Still Searching For Rapist

Des Plaines police searched during the weekend for a man who broke into a local home early Friday morning and forced a woman out into the backyard where he raped her.

The man, who police believe was also responsible for a rape attempt last Wednesday night involving another local housewife, entered the woman's home at about 2 a.m. Friday and accosted her in a downstairs family room where she had fallen asleep.

The woman told police the man threatened her with a knife he had taken from a kitchen drawer and forced her into the backyard, where he raped her.

After the assailant fled, the woman told her husband, who had been sleeping upstairs, and then called police, who searched the area for the attacker with no results.

According to reports, the rapist entered the home through an unlocked door between the house and garage.

Police believe the man is the same one who attempted to rape a Des Plaines woman at her home last Wednesday night but was scared off after the woman's son was awakened by her screams. Her husband was not at home at the time.

Dunne Reassigns Wheel Tax Revenue

by ROGER CAPETTINI

A major factor in the lawsuit challenging the Cook County wheel tax may have been eliminated from future consideration Friday when County Pres. George W. Dunne announced the revenue from the tax would be earmarked for the sheriff's department.

Dunne made the announcement during a rescheduled county board meeting Friday after the board heard the protests of a taxpayers group opposed to the controversial tax.

About 75 county residents from Rich, Bloom, Thornton and Bremen townships, represented by the South Cook County Taxpayers Protest Association, appeared at the meeting.

The wheel tax, enacted by the county board in late December, is similar to what is commonly called the "vehicle sticker" tax in 125 of the 126 villages and cities in Cook County.

THE TAX originally was to have taken effect early in the year, but the deadline was extended several times by the county board. For most automobiles, the tax would be $10 to $15. Rates for trucks are computed on a sliding scale.

As the vehicle tax effective within the incorporated municipalities applies to only residents of the respective communities, the Cook County tax applies only to residents of unincorporated areas.

That aspect of the tax represents a major objection voiced by residents of the unincorporated areas, and is one of the major points raised in a class action suit challenging the tax ordinance.

In April a suit was filed on behalf of the Prospect Heights Improvement Association (PHIA) and the Cook County School Bus Co., Inc., of unincorporated Elk Grove Township.

The suit challenges the constitutionality of the tax in that the tax applies only to residents of unincorporated areas — a discriminatory application, according to the suit.

THOSE OPPOSED to the tax have also objected on the grounds that when the tax was adopted by the county board, it was specified that the revenues gained from the tax would be placed into the county's general corporate fund. Monies in that fund are used county-wide — both in incorporated and unincorporated areas.

At the time of adoption, County Comr. Floyd T. Fulle of Des Plaines voted against the tax because he said he believed placing the revenue in the corporate fund was unconstitutional.

At Friday's board meeting, Dunne heard objections to the tax from several spokesmen from the south suburban protest group, who repeated the objections mentioned in the suit and complained about the lack of services they receive. The complaints centered on the service from the county highway department and the sheriff's department.

Spokesmen for the group said they were not completely opposed to the tax, but said if it stands, it should be applied to everyone in the county and the revenue derived should be used only for the unincorporated areas. They also objected to the amount of the tax.

In answer to their objections Dunne said he would instruct the county comptroller to establish a special fund for the money gained from the tax. Dunne said the money will be earmarked exclusively for the sheriff's department.

THE COUNTY board president said that while original estimates of the revenues from the tax approximated $1.4 million, latest calculations indicate the county will receive only about $600,000.

Dunne was quick to point out that because of the suit, all revenues currently being received as a result of the tax are being placed into an escrow account, pending the outcome of the pending litigation.

Dunne explained that if the tax is upheld by the county circuit court, the money will be placed in the special account. If the tax ordinance is ruled illegal, he said, the money will be returned to those residents who have paid the tax. He could offer no explanation as to what, if any, effect an overturning of the ordinance might have on persons who have been fined for not paying the tax.

The Nation

Democratic national chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien ruled that 120 California delegates committed to Sen. George S. McGovern will be eligible to vote in a key test that could determine McGovern's chances for the nomination. . . . After the party's credentials committee stripped McGovern of 151 of the 271 California votes he won in the state's winner-take-all primary, there had been some question whether anyone from a challenged delegation would be able to vote on a challenge involving his state.

Armed with about 200 "swing" votes, Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine came under growing pressure to throw his support to Sen. George McGovern in tonight's all-important convention showdown over California.

Responding to a list of foreign policy questions, McGovern said he believes that President Nixon will continue the same policies that led to U.S. involvement in Vietnam even if he succeeds in ending the Indochina War.

Harper Discord On Dinner Meetings

by BETSY BROOKER

A Herald survey revealed Harper College trustees disagree on the content and legality of unannounced dinner meetings held prior to regularly scheduled board meetings.

The dinner meeting are held at the college on an irregular basis. College sources report attendance at the dinner meetings is sporadic.

Several trustees contend the dinner meetings were held only to discuss items legally permissible in closed session. One trustee stated public business has never been discussed at a dinner session and two others claimed the sessions covered both open and closed topics.

THE TRUSTEES also disagree on their right to hold an executive session or committee meeting without giving the public 24-hour notice.

The Illinois Open Meeting Law states all meetings of school boards shall be public, with certain exceptions, and that notice shall be given at least 24 hours before the meeting.

The law permits school boards to hold closed sessions only for discussion of matters regarding: "collective negotiations, acquisition of property; appointment, employment or dismissal of an employee; student discipline or professional ethics and performance." No final action may be taken in closed sessions.

The five trustees interviewed said they did not knowingly violate the Illinois Open Meeting Law. Most take the position that discussion of "closed items" exempts them from any legal violation, although the meetings were unannounced.

BOTH MILTON Hansen, past board president, and trustee Joseph Morton said they believe the dinner sessions were restricted to "closed items," but they are not certain. However, Eugene Nugent said he doesn't "recall ever discussing public business at a dinner meeting."

State Rep.
Anthony

According to present board President Jessalyn Nicklas, the meetings were held to discuss "closed items and matters of general board interest. Trustee Larry Moats said the purpose of the meetings was to discuss closed items, but "from time to time we discussed other college matters."

In the future, both Moats and Morton said they will make sure the public is given 24-hour notice of all meetings of the board. They added they had not known notice wasn't given before the dinner meetings.

On the other hand, Mrs. Nicklas and Hansen argue notice does not have to be given if the board meets only to discuss closed items. Hansen said he does not like to have closed meetings and favors them only when "there is a real good reason."

Mrs. Nicklas pointed out the two dinner sessions held since she was elected board president in April concerned closed items. She said the law is unclear and does not definitely require public announcement of executive sessions. As for discussion of open items at dinner meetings, she said the get-togethers were "information sessions and not board meetings and so don't require public notice. But I would want the press there anyway."

ULTIMATELY, THE disagreement on the need for public notice before executive sessions will have to be settled in court, according to Atty. Anthony Scariano, author of the Open Meeting Law.

"There are two schools of thought on executive sessions," said Scariano. "One says notice is useless because the public can't attend executive sessions. The other says you can't convene an executive session until you have voted to do so at an open public meeting."

"It seems ridiculous to give 24-hour notice of a meeting when everyone knows in advance you are going into executive session," added Scariano. "But I don't see how you can get around the fact you don't know you are going into executive session until you voted to do so at a public meeting."

Board discussion of items outside of the legal exemption, on the other hand, "have to be publicly announced 24 hours in advance," said Scariano. "It is strictly taboo to have dinner meetings to discuss open college affairs prior to a regular meeting."

HANSEN DISPUTED Scariano's position saying, "just because he is sponsor of the bill, doesn't make him an authority on interpreting it. It is not what he intended the bill to say, but what it ended up as."

"It is violation of free speech," added Hansen, "to say board members can't get together at an unofficial meeting to discuss something with no final action I think the law is unconstitutional."

Press Women Win Awards

National Federation of Press Women awards were recently announced at the National Press Women's Association annual convention in Seattle.

A national second place was awarded Dorothy Oliver, assistant woman's editor, for her personal column which appears once a week in the Des Plaines Herald. An honorable mention was earned by Mrs. Oliver and Staff Member Eleanor Rives for their three team-reported series: "Sudden Infant Death Syndrome," "Change of Life" and "After the Blessed Event."

Clare Wright of the Herald staff received a national first place award for a 60-second commercial written for Grant, Wright & Baker featuring On-Cor frozen foods. The commercial was recorded by Arlene Francis and used in the Midwest.

Knife Bandit Robs Lee St. Drug Store

A knife-wielding bandit held up a downtown Des Plaines drug store Thursday night, escaping with a large quantity of drugs and an undetermined amount of cash.

According to police reports the bandit entered Hynes Pharmacy, 809 Lee St. about 9:45 p.m. and asked to use the washroom. Jerry Hynes, owner of the store, told police the man came out of the washroom several minutes later holding a knife with a six or seven-inch blade.

The robber handed Hynes a list of drugs while pointing the knife at a store employee who was the only other person in the pharmacy at the time of the robbery.

After getting the drugs he requested, the bandit took all the money in the cash register and put it and the drugs in a green bag, according to police.

The bandit then reportedly cut the phone wire and used it to tie up Hynes and the clerk before escaping.

The drugs stolen by the robber included morphine, dalphene, dordin, quaalude, tumal, seconal, nembutal and opium powder, police said.

The bandit was described as 5 feet 6 inches tall with brown hair and a brown mustache and was reportedly wearing a green Army fatigue jacket during the robbery.

Let's Put A Freeze On Winter In July

Anyone can tell by walking into a department store. One must not be deceived by the temperature or the fact that air conditioners are running. It is obvious by the clothes on the racks that it is winter.

Officially the first day of winter is July 5. It is heralded by the summer sale where tweed suits and heavy boots replace bikinis and shifts as soon as they are picked off the rack. And the new season is here to stay.

If anyone doubts that winter is in full blast after July 5, I suggest that person try to buy something out of "season."

LAST YEAR ON July 17 I put my thumb through my swimming cap. On July 18, I ran out to a store to buy another. By July 20, I had been to eight stores and insulted by clerks six times. These people raised their eyebrows in shocked amazement or suggested that I should not be allowed to run loose on the streets for wanting a bathing cap in July. Only a couple of teenage clerks were sympathetic, though they were careful not to speak about it openly, they too, seemed to know what season it really was on the outside.

The summer reverse of this incident has happened to me too. At the end of last January, when my son needed a new pair of rubber boots, I called all over town to find a pair.

ALTHOUGH I THINK I do understand some of the problems of mass market merchandising, I still wonder if winter must come quite so soon. Is it really true that I am the only one who runs out of suntan lotion in August or would like another sleeveless top in July? When I go into a store in mid-summer, I get the impression I had better be looking for something wintry — OR ELSE! Does everybody but me finish all their summer shopping by the first of May as store personnel would have me believe?

Every once in a while I am tempted to succumb to the power of suggestion. And once (I think it was in August of '67) I tried on a winter coat I knew I was going to need. It was darling, just what I was looking for, and within my price range. But I couldn't buy it. My trying it on while wearing sandals somehow ruined it for me.

I thank the merchandisers anyway for wanting to give me a head start, but I prefer to buy my winter things in the winter. There will be no need to send me a card. I'll know when it gets here.

Fashion by Genie

With so many facial creams, astringents and other beauty aids "winking" at women from where they sit stacked on store counters, the woman who doesn't buy a whole line of cosmetics is sometime made to feel her face may drop off. Using only soap and water just won't pass these days.

However, some organic faddists are making noticeable waves of their own by staying home and concocting their own creams and rinses, using such edible products as avocados, lemons and cucumbers, too.

The same salad you eat can also be chopped up, mashed and spread across your face... or almost.

WHETHER YOU boycott manufactured products because you are leary of their secret ingredients or just because they simply put too big a dent in your pocketbook, at the home brewed method is worth a try. (That's if you're concerned your face "is" dropping off, or at least looking a little worn.)

Health addicts claim that those fruits and vegetables containing natural vitamins and minerals do the job better because of their organic content.

Probably the most talked about of the new homemade cosmetics is the avocado facial. It's easy to mix up a batch. Take a quarter of a ripe, peeled avocado and mash it into a smooth cream. It's easiest to do in a blender, adding a little water to achieve the right consistency. When the paste looks rich and creamy, you're ready for the treatment.

SMOOTH THE mixture across your face and neck and let it stay on for about 15 minutes before removing with water.

A similar facial can be produced by combining grated cucumber and sour cream... about a tablespoon of cucumber to one quarter cup of sour cream. Only keep this one on your face for about three minutes. Cucumbers and sour cream are good for toning up your skin.

The use of herbs is supposed to be great in creating a steam beneficial to the skin. Into a quart of boiling water add a tablespoon of rosemary and another tablespoon of dried mint. Expose your face, using a towel around your head to trap the steam.

Organic face faddists also suggest using the juice of a lemon as an astringent. Just squeeze and strain the juice of half a lemon and apply it to the face with a cotton pad.

Of course everyone knows about the trick of lightening hair with lemon juice by combing it through the hair before going out to sit in the sun.

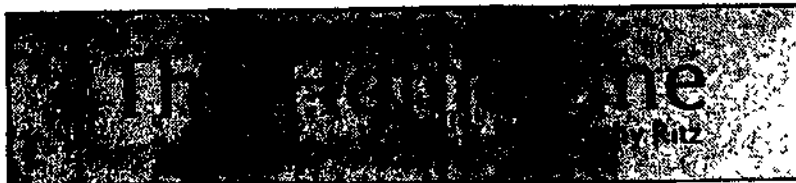

GOING BACK to the avocado, that one fruit has other cosmetic benefits besides just a facial.

The rind can be rubbed on elbows and other dry skin areas. The natural oils will lubricate the rough spots.

Avocados can be used in making hair conditioners too. Mash half of an avocado into a cream. Again add enough water to obtain the proper consistency and then work it into the hair and scalp allowing the cream to remain on the head for about 10 minutes. Then rinse thoroughly with clear water. An avocado hair conditioner acts like the store-bought ones... leaving hair soft and easy to comb through.

WHILE YOU'RE busy organically caring for your face and hair, it might be a good idea to consider your whole appearance. Fresh vegetables and fruits have been known to keep bodies in shape too, when not coupled with gooey desserts and other fattening foods.

Another environmental tip. Men who believe in conservation of natural resources will not keep the water running while shaving. Running a faucet while shaving can use as much as 20 gallons of water.

Dear Dorothy: I bought a lovely Ban-lon knit which carries a tag saying it's washable and advising what kind of detergent to use, temperature of water and temperature of dryer. Inasmuch as this is going to be a "party" dress, wouldn't it be better if I had it cleaned when it was soiled?

—Marge Baker.

Yes, you should have it cleaned, if you want it to look well for a longer time. I'm always for having good clothes cleaned, even cottons. With cottons, for instance, a sizing is used which makes the dress feel and look new again. Only after to or three years' wear, and if they're only going to be used for shopping and around the house do I start laundering certain garments. So don't forget to mark and save the tags.

Dear Dorothy: Somehow a 5-pound bag of potatoes was stored in the refrigerator for a couple of weeks before I became aware of the error. Is there anything that can be done to improve the taste?

—Laura M.

Storing them at a higher temperature for a couple of weeks should restore most of the taste.

Dear Dorothy: When you get a run in one leg of your pantyhose, cut off the "bad" leg and save the "good" leg attached to the panty. When you have another "bad" leg you can wear both pantyhose as one. Wearing both pantyhose also gives additional tummy support.

—Nancy Arnold.

Horticulturists Set Luncheon, Lecture On 'Garden Design'

"From Eden Onward" is the title of an illustrated talk to be presented by Julia Berrall of Upper Montclair, N.J., before members of the Chicago Horticulture Society on Thursday at 10:30 a.m.

The program will be hosted by Lake Forest Garden Club at the Onwentsia Club where a buffet luncheon is also available.

Both the lecture and the luncheon are open to the public but reservations are necessary. Cost of the program is $3.50; the luncheon, $5. Mrs. Fran Whittin, 332-2868, is taking reservations.

The illustrated talk, featuring copies of ancient engravings and color photographs, will trace the history of garden design. Included will be gardens of ancient Egypt, Colonial America and lavish show places of the present.

Allen' Bombing Highlights Action

Second-round action in the Des Plaines Mid-Teen circuit has become hot and heavy as four teams broke through in the inter-league standings.

Allen's, by virtue of a sound 12-0 blitzing of Bantam, has jumped atop the American Division standings and remains the only unbeaten outfit in the four-team loop.

Johnson Sporting Goods earned a split in Thursday and Friday play — burying Bantam, 13-6 before being clipped by the Optimists, 6-4. In the lone National League clash, First National climbed into a share of the lead with Kunkel via a 3-0 blanking of Sellergren.

ALLEN'S BATS EXPLODE

Allen's merciless thrashing opened in the very first frame as Mike Paul's double, walks to Chris Mielke and Rich Slapke, Jeff Meyer's two-run single, an error, passed ball and Bruce Beam's base hit produced a big five-run cushion for hurler Bill Slapke.

A two-base error and Rich Slapke's single made it 6-2 Allen's after two and another pair went on the board for the winners in the third as Mike Nugent powered home Meyer and Rick Felde with a base hit.

A throwing error on Bantam hurler Al Mueller accounted for two more Allen tallies in the sixth before the visitors closed out the scoring on a run-producing single by Bill Slapke and a sacrifice fly by brother Rich. The former walked only two while whiffing nine in earning the nifty two-hit decision while Mueller was tagged with defeat on an issue of seven walks and an equal number of strikeouts.

JOHNSON SETTLES FOR SPLIT

Bantam fell victim to another potent display, this time by Johnson. A decisive seven-run third inning powered the winners to the convincing 13-6 triumph that featured 16 hits.

Bantam assumed an early 1-0 advantage after one inning as Steve Alderson supplied a run-scoring safety, but Johnson captured the lead in a two-run second as Ken Kueker drilled a double with the bases loaded.

Johnson racked up a half dozen hits to start the third before anyone was retired. Ken Ford doubled and Doug Dalbke, Andy Richardson, Al Hanson and Ted Godowski all ripped base hits. The winners cruised home from there with single runs in the fourth and six frames and another ducce in the seventh.

Bantam's uprising in the fourth was only consolation as Steve Solarz, Roger Spencer and John Sherer all walked and Alderson tagged a two-run single. Richardson's 4-for-5 evening and Al Hanson's 3-for-3 showing were too much for Bantam. Gadowski, Steve Zuccarini and Kueker combined for the decision.

The Optimists and hurler Paul Kosac thwarted Johnson's bid for a two-day sweep when Todd Salerno batted home the winning run in the bottom of the eighth with a bunt single.

Kosac went the distance on a yeild of just one walk while fanning nine. His only trouble came in the second when Johnson tallied all of its four runs.

Zuccarini and Gadowski each reached on errors where Hanson promptly doubled them home. Rick Nicolai and Ed Schleiter contributed singles in the inning for another pair, but it was Johnson's last and only scoring of the evening.

The Optimists already had a ducce on the board in the first as Bob Andropolis's sacrifice fly and a passed ball emptied two runs from a bases-loaded situation.

Another marker went up on the board for the eventual winners in the third on Kosac's walk and Jeff Heist's booming triple, but the Optimists didn't earn a regulation deadlock until the sixth when Craig Zaleski singled and Mike Adams added a sacrifice fly.

SELLERGREN STIFLED

spring session, dominated the proceedings against Sellergren as he pitched and hit First National to a 3-0 verdict.

Ackermann walked just one while fanning six and outdueling Sellergren's Chris Bouchee who was the victim of three unearned runs and a sparkling two-walk, 11-strikeout performance.

Ackermann singlehandedly produced the only run he needed in the second when he singled, stole second and finished his tour of the bases on a pair of passed balls.

He bloomed another single in the fourth and eventually tallied on an errant catcher's throw at third and reached again in the sixth after a dropped third strike. He counted the third and final marker on another Sellergren misplay.

'Dark Horse' Nips Heights, 1-0

If Park Ridge continues to perform the way it did Thursday, it could wind up in the same class as Riva Ridge.

Ridge. It was Aimers' second hit of the game.

The other hero besides Aimers, Jones and Sarcia, was Craig Ciezadlo. He mastered the first-place Heights team by allowing just three hits, striking out six and walking none. Ciezadlo also paced the attack with two hits.

Post 208 mounted its biggest threat in the fifth when Jim Locascio got to third on an error. He was cut down a short time later, however, after a fine defensive play by third baseman Anderson.

After one out in the seventh, Locascio singled. But Park Ridge rubbed him out on a double play.

Hopkins finished with seven strikeouts and two walks.

Park Ridge might not be labeled the favorite for defeating powerful Arlington, but it has to receive the "dark horse" nod.

Cardinal Netman Wins Title

John Paczkowski and Jeff Tabin, playing in the Des Plaines Open Tennis Tournament Saturday, captured the 16-year-old doubles title for boys.

The twosome defeated Ken McMahon and Don Kenak 6-3, 6-3 in the finals. Paczkowski and Tabin won their semifinal match against Mark Schneider and Pat Miller, 6-3, 2-6, 7-5.

Paczkowski, one of Arlington High School's budding net stars, narrowly missed sharing another championship — the 18-year-old doubles title. He and his fellow Arlington teammate Don Rodig lost 7-6, 6-3 to Dave Petchul and Bob Rosebraugh.

In singles action, here are the results: 18-year-old singles finals — Greg Russell beat Jon Powell 6-3, 6-3;

16-year-old singles finals — Powell beat Harrison Bowes 7-5, 6-2; and

Ridge Nips Palatine, 1-0; Then Loser Romps, 11-2

by LARRY EVERHART

It must have been hard for observers to believe that it was the same two baseball teams playing the second game of Saturday's doubleheader at Maine South that had met in the first game.

The two battles contrasted about as sharply as possible in American Legion Ninth District play between visiting Palatine and Park Ridge.

After the long day finally ended in ideal baseball weather, each team had added one win and one loss to their league records—Park Ridge taking a 1-0 squeaker in an eight-inning pitchers duel in the opener and Palatine roaring back to flatten the hosts 11-2 in the second game.

Palatine pulled a 180-degree about-face after being blanked on two hits on a superb job of hurling by Park Ridge's Scott Jones. (He had also edged Palatine 4-3 nine days earlier). George Pattee pitched a four-hit shutout for seven innings in that first game, but lost a heart-breaker.

In the nightcap, though, Palatine displayed none of the same difficulty in getting runs for John Erickson, who went the distance in a workmanlike six-hitter. Park Ridge paraded four boys to the mound and three were belted around hard, with only Craig Ciezadlo turning in a good stint in finishing up.

The results left the red-hot Ninth District ace just as simmering as before. Palatine became 6-5 in the league to Park Ridge's 6-4, but just a game and a half separated the top five clubs by Saturday night with four of them having the same number of victories.

For what it's worth, Palatine in the second game did the best job of any visiting team in the Ninth District's 35 games this summer to that point. The home team had won 25 of those 35 heading into a pair of Sunday tilts.

Jones was simply too tough in the opener, although he did walk four along with eight strikeouts. Palatine wasted a couple of good scoring chances — something it has done too much this season. Post 690 had the bases loaded with one out in the third inning before the next two batters struck out; then had men on second and third with two out in the fifth before a popup ended that frame.

Park Ridge's hits off Pattee were harmlessly scattered until the eighth, when three singles ended it. They were by Mark Rulle, Charlie Fahrner and the game-winner by Russ Anderson.

The visitors executed two double plays but could not capitalize on three Park Ridge errors.

Ironically, in the second game rout, each team had the same number of hits — six. But Palatine benefited from four more errors by Park Ridge plus nine walks.

Bill Arkus drove in three runs and Bruce Eberle two (they are the top RBI men on the team). Arkus slugged a triple and stole two bases and Gary Pemberton smashed a double.

Park Ridge collected four of its six hits off Erickson in the first inning, but got just one run out of it because two runners were forced out at the plate by the heads-up visitors.

The only other run for the hosts was unearned in the second, but Palatine had already exploded for six runs in the top of that inning.

Three consecutive walks loaded the bases with one out and then home plate started taking a beating as Dave Hauswirth, Arkus and Eberle singled and Pemberton doubled.

Palatine erupted again in the fourth for four more on only one hit, Arkus' triple. There were three walks and two errors in the same frame.

After that, it was a much more relaxing and enjoyable time for Post 690 than the first part of the afternoon had been.

In Palatine's only league action until the weekend, it will host Logan Square Tuesday at the Fremd High School field at 6 p.m.
